HOOVER DEMANDS NAVY LEAGUE APOLOGY

GREAT CHANGE OF EDUCATION POLICY SOUGHT

National Advisory Group Finishes Report on Gigantic Survey.

FEDERAL RELATION TO STATES AT ISSUE

Establishment of National Clearing House for Data to Be Suggested.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Recommendations favoring far-reaching changes in the relation of the Federal Government to the national educational system are anticipated by high Government officials in the report of the National Advisory Committee on Education, which finally has been approved by the 51 committee members and soon is to be transmitted to the White House.

A preliminary report of the committee advocated creation of a new Department of Education, headed by an officer of Cabinet rank, and educational authorities in the Government service expressed the opinion yesterday that this point had been elaborated in the conclusions. The final report has been in the hands of the committee members since October 7.

President Hoover, acting through Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, established the National Advisory Committee on Education in May, 1929, and charged it with the task of conducting an exhaustive inquiry into the whole question of the Federal educational policy. Organized and influential groups of professional educators had been pressing for a decade or more for a redefinition of Federal policy for a pooling of resources and a modernization of the administrative formula.

Personnel of Committee.

Vigorous opposition to any enlargement of the Federal authority, on the other hand, had prevented adoption of a clear-cut policy in Congress. In launching the advisory committee, Secretary Wilbur asked that it "give us a proper chart by which to steer our educational course."

Fifty-one outstanding educators and social workers comprise the committee, and 32 Government officers from 12 Federal agencies were designated to assist in the research activities. Some 300 field agents and regional consultants, representing every branch of educational activity, have been heard. The final report is understood to total some 500 pages. Never before in national history has so thorough a survey been made of the entire field, according to some of the participating Government experts.

The all-inclusive character of the committee is suggested by the list of Washington members. They are: J. W. Crabtree, representing the National Education Association; Maurice Leyer, secretary of the National Association of Jewish Community Centers; William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; the Rev. George Johnson, secretary of the Catholic Education Association; Mordecai Johnson, president of Howard University; Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin, president of George Washington University; Mrs. S. M. N. Marrs, president of the National Congress of

Illness May Force Holmes to Retire

Condition Not Serious, but Friends Fear End of His Active Career Near.

(Associated Press.)

The absence of the familiar figure of Justice Oliver Wedell Holmes from the Supreme Court bench this week has increased the fears of his friends that the active career of one of America's greatest jurors may be near an end.

His present illness, an attack of lumbago, is not regarded as serious. He may return to work soon, but his general physical condition has led to apprehension that the burden of his duties is becoming too great for his strength.

Regardless, he will go on as long as he can. Ninety in March, he could have retired on full pay long ago. And long ago he ended speculation that he might retire voluntarily by writing a friend that he would go on so long as his mind and body permitted.

BRITISH VOTE PAVES WAY TO END CRISIS

World Drive Is Given Fresh Impetus by Victory of Conservatism.

London, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—An unprecedented international campaign for solution of the world's economic ills was assured tonight by the smashing victory of conservatism in the British general election.

With almost every nation of Europe swinging away from experimentation with extremist socialism, the outcome of the British election gave a final impetus to a dozen different efforts at concerted action by nations in the political, financial and economic fields aimed to counteract the business decline.

The most important move, in the eyes of Europe, will be toward readjustment of war debts and reparations; another resettlement of the financial heritage of the World War.

It is certain that most of Europe's leaders are convinced that revision of the entire war settlement is vital as soon as possible. The first move will be in financial fields, where the Young reparations plan, designed as a permanent basis for the intergovernmental financial fabric of Europe, has been so shaken by the crisis that an overhauling seems certain without delay.

Germany is expected to make the first move under the Young plan, bringing the question to a head. Revision of reparations naturally will mean a demand for readjustment of the intertwined war debts, but the outcome will be pure speculation until the attitude of the United States is more clearly defined.

The British government's plan for a tariff, which the new Parliament is certain to approve, will aid in forcing the reparations issue because it would interrupt the flow of German exports. England is the second best customer of Germany and a tariff would reduce Germany's ability to pay reparations, which depend upon large German exports.

The determination of European nations to concentrate on solution of economic problems was believed to have been reflected in the British Conservative victory, coupled with the swing to conservatism in the French cantonial elections and the Swiss elections.

This tendency toward national concentration in the face of danger also was indicated in Germany, where efforts of the government for a truce with the ultra-nationalistic Fascist party was reported and some newspapers forecast appointment of a Fascist to the cabinet. Furthermore, the German nation was attempting to lay its plans for overcoming the crisis by formation of a general staff

St. Louis to Chicago Mark Set by Doolittle

St. Louis, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Maj. James Doolittle, who is in the habit of breaking aviation records, flew from St. Louis to Chicago today in 1 hour and 11 minutes. The previous record of 1 hour and 30 minutes was held by Capt. Frank Hawks. The distance is 260 miles.

Maj. Doolittle left Lambert-St. Louis Field at 10:25 a. m. and arrived at Chicago Municipal Airport at 11:36 a. m. (Central time). He took his racing biplane to a Chicago factory for overhauling.

GIFFORD'S PLAN TO RELIEVE IDLE STIRS PROTEST

Federal Workers Fight Against Proposal for Displacements.

SENATOR DILL PLANS TO ASK SALARY CUTS

Brookhart Says Prosperous Corporations Not Workers Should Be Taxed.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Measures recommended by the unemployment relief organization appointed by President Hoover and headed by Walter S. Gifford, head of the gigantic telephone trust, threw Government workers and others into a furore yesterday, and the reverberations of the committee report are destined to echo and reecho through the halls of the next Congress.

Leaders of liberal schools of thought and of labor, including the Government service, were awaiting yesterday the action of President Hoover on the recommendations submitted him in the report of the committee headed by Mr. Gifford.

The report reverberated throughout the country. It recommended, among other things, that married women, sons, and daughters of employed husbands and fathers be displaced in the Government service in favor of less economically, fortunately situated seekers of work.

Brookhart Ridicules Plan.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart (Republican), of Iowa, characterized Mr. Gifford's proposal as impractical and ridiculous and declared that the scheme wouldn't get to first base in Congress, which will have to pass on it.

Possibly the scheme will not get to first base and Government workers throughout the country shall go on working secure in their jobs, but out in the State of Washington Senator Clarence C. Dill (Democrat), announced himself in favor of an economy program in governmental expenditures which included a 10 per cent reduction in salary for all Government employes receiving more than $1,500 a year. Such a proad proposal would include the President and members of Congress and Federal judges. It sounds good, but it couldn't be done unless the law structure of the Nation were torn to shreds. Senator Dill's proposal would have to be modified to make it legally possible because a Government salary may not be reduced during a term of office.

If the senator pushes his proposal for consideration during the coming session of Congress, it will have to be modified, which will mean that, to escape legal prohibitions, the Government salaries which would be cut would be those of the ordinary public employe who was neither elected nor appointed to a specific office for a specific term.

Colleague Does Not Agree.

That the proposal of the kindly appearing, mustached senator from Washington, whose ruddy face glows in a seeming cherubic good humor, does not represent the unanimous opinion of his State is shown by the statement of his Republican colleague, Senator Wesley Jones.

Salaries of Government employes, Senator Jones said, have not been

Entombed Men Signal To Aids; Rescue Nears

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Assurance that some of the six men entombed followins a gas explosion and coal slide in Mocanaqua mine of the West End Coal Co. last Saturday night are alive was announced tonight by company officials who declared that rescue squads had received an exchange of signals through the fallen coal.

Continuing the progress which has been maintained since Saturday night opinion was expressed that probable location of the men might be reached in a few hours.

Temporary Speaker Proposed for House

Treadway Offers Plan to Avoid Deadlock in Congress.

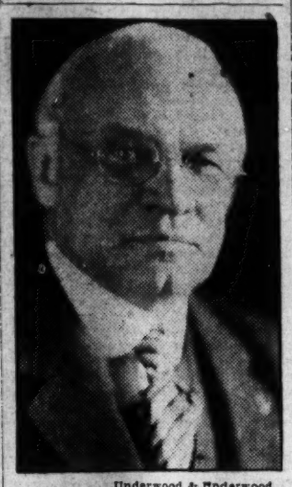

Pittsfield, Mass., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Representative Allen T. Treadway (Republican), of Massachusetts, today advanced a solution for a deadlock should it confront the House in its selection of a Speaker when Congress convenes December 7.

Mr. Treadway proposes that William Tyler Page, of Maryland, clerk of the House, be elected temporary Speaker; that such committees be named as are necessary to carry out the President's recommendations, and that the memberships of these committees consist of an equal number of members of each party, or be based on an equitable understanding.

"I would like it distinctly understood that this is only a temporary possibility to further prompt action on important recommendations of the President," Representative Treadway said. "I would not favor such procedure for a permanent organization. We are a Government by parties. The Speaker should be Democrat or Republican, and committees should have their proper proportions. I am not in any sense side-stepping my party allegiance, and in the final analysis I shall certainly vote for a Republican member as Speaker of the Seventy-second Congress.

"I have said from the start, ever since I returned from Washington in June after being called there by

NEW SHIP COMBINE ACQUIRES U.S. LINES

Deal With Nevada Company to Be Completed Today, Says O'Connor.

(Associated Press.)

The United States Lines, pride of the country's merchant marine, will be sold to a combine of East and West Coast shipping interests.

This was announced yesterday by Chairman O'Connor of the Shipping Board, who said that except for minor details, the offer of the United States Lines Co. of Nevada had been accepted. The deal is to be completed and formal approval given today.

Yesterday's decision followed several hours of conferences at the board's headquarters during which attorneys for the shipping men clustered in the hall outside the board-room, waiting for the verdict.

The terms of the transaction have not been made public. The Nevada company is a holding corporation controlled by the Dollar-Dawson Pacific Coast group and the Roosevelt-International Mercantile Marine Co. of New York.

The United States Lines operate the Leviathan, George Washington and other vessels the Government took after war was declared on Germany.

The board first sold the lines to a company formed by Paul W. Chapman, of New York, but this concern was not able to run the service successfully.

The new pool also is expected to result in agreements to regulate competition between the participating companies on their runs.

Bids for $60,000,000 Accepted by Treasury

(Associated Press.)

The Treasury Department has accepted a total of $60,921,000 of bids tendered for the issue of 91-day bills recently announced. Bids received totaled $328,027,000.

The average price for the offering, which was on a discount basis, was 99.410. The average rate on a bank discount basis is about 2 1-3 per cent, he Treasury said.

SIEGAL JURY IS SENT TO HOTEL FOR NIGHT

Fails to Reach Agreement in 7 Hours' Deliberation on Bribery Charges.

The jury deliberating upon the guilt or innocence of Abner Siegal, attorney, who is being tried on an indictment charging him with bribing a guard at the District Jail, was locked up in a hotel last night at 10:30, following its failure to arrive at a verdict in over seven hours of conferring.

Informed at 10 o'clock that they would be locked up for the night, the jurors asked for a few minutes more time, indicating that a verdict was close at hand. They were given half an hour additional time and then, after notifying the bailiff in charge that they could not hope to reach a decision either way last night, the twelve men were led out and taken to the Continental Hotel.

The jury was given the case after Justice Proctor had concluded his instructions as to the law, at 3:30. The members, composed of men only, retired to the small room adjacent to the courtroom and began their meditations and when they were taken out to supper shortly after 6 o'clock it was apparent that a deadlock was then blocking a decision.

The jury was able to get the case earlier than was expected because of the illness of United States Attorney Leo A. Rover. In rebutting more than an hour and a half of argument by Mr. Siegal, Rover took only four minutes. As he seated himself it was apparent that he was ill and shortly after the case went to the jury he

PARIS ATTITUDE ON CREDIT BANK HOLDS ITS FATE

Belgian Financier's Plan to Free Vast Assets Awaits Laval.

AMERICAN LEADERS HELD TO FAVOR IDEA

Would Release Millions Now Frozen in Germany; Debt Extensions Likely.

Paris, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—The creation of an international credit bank to recover the vast credits which have been frozen in Germany during the present financial crisis was understood tonight to depend chiefly upon the attitude of the French government.

Emile Francqui, Belgian financier, laid the proposal before President Hoover in Washington this week and will return to France shortly to confer with Premier Pierre Laval and Finance Minister Pierre Etiene Flandin on the scheme.

President Hoover, Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and George L. Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, were reported to have approved the proposals, which would be designed to release more than 30,000,000,000 francs (some $1,200,000,000) in frozen short-term credits in Germany. (American funds included in the credits frozen in Germany total around $600,000,000.)

Would Transform Credits.

The proposed international credit bank would be analogous with the Bank for International Settlements at Basel would, by a process of discount, transform the credits invested in Germany into three or five year credits, rather than the present short-term loans which are due in February and probably can not be met.

It would be proposed to centralize control of large international credit operations with the bank releasing the short-term credits.

The French attitude, which probably will decide the outcome of the negotiations, was not certain, although Laval, who is en route from his visit to Washington, was understood to have an open mind on the subject. He was said to have promised Francqui that he would talk the proposal over and then submit it to the cabinet for final decision.

The nature of guarantees to be offered probably will determine the final decision, although a section of the cabinet was said to oppose the plan on the grounds that it would be better to lose the 3,000,000,000 francs which France has invested in Germany than to risk another 5,000,000,000 francs in the bank plan.

Interest of U. S. Greatest.

The United States' interest in the credits is greatest of any nation, with Britain second. The new bank would be expected to have the support of the banks of issue of European nations, the United States and Japan.

The council of ministers will meet Tuesday to hear Premier Laval's explanation of his Washington mission.

U.S. TO PARTICIPATE IN HOLIDAY ON ARMS

Accepts League's Proposal for Year's Truce Beginning November 1.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The United States has accepted the proposal of the League of Nations for a one year's truce in armament increases beginning with the first of November. The twelve month's holiday was suggested by the Italian minister of foreign affairs, Dino Grandi, at the last league assembly to create a favorable psychological atmosphere for the success of the general disarmament conference, meeting in Geneva February, 1932.

The American reply was drafted by the armament experts of the State Department, J. Theodore Marriner and Hugh R. Wilson, American Minister to Switzerland, and now in the United States.

Marriner and Wilson will constitute the nucleus around which the United States will build a very strong delegation of consultants for the forthcoming international meeting. The American reply was temporarily held up until the presence in this country of Mr. Marriner, who arrived with the French Premier M. Laval. Hugh Wilson has long been the expert of the Department for all questions relating to disarmament. He was advisor at the London naval conference and since that time has represented the United States at the various informal meetings of the disarmament experts at Geneva.

The Grandi proposal was the foundation for the league suggestion. Opposition to it was voiced by some delegations, principally the French, and corrections and changes were subsequently made in it. However, the proposition as it was submitted to the United States some months ago and accepted here yesterday will have for effect the cancellation of the construction of six destroyers costing approximately $9,000,000 to $12,000,000. These destroyers were originally authorized during the war and subsequently five of the total of eleven were built and commissioned.

The military program of the United States Army will not be appreciably affected, as very little expansion was planned for next year. The budget provided for the continuation of the various research units now in service and these will be maintained, but no new increases in the military appropriations are contemplated by the general staff.

Preparations are now being made for the agenda which will be submitted tentatively to the approval of

G. G. Rice Is Acquitted On Tax-Evasion Count

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—George Graham Rice tonight was acquitted of a charge of violating the Federal income tax laws. He was accused of evading a tax on an alleged income of $1,800,000 in 1925. He was indicted on four counts and freed by the jury, after about five hours deliberation, on all of them.

Rice, who acted as his own attorney because he said he could not afford a lawyer, was brought here for trial from the Atlanta Penitentiary, where he is serving a four-year term for mail fraud.

INQUIRY BODY TO BE NAMED BY PRESIDENT

MEMORABLE TANGLE EXPECTED TO RESULT

Gardiner Indicates He Is Not Ready to Retract; Would Welcome Congress Quiz.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

President Hoover, his ire aroused by the charge that he had shown "abysmal ignorance" with regard to the Navy, last night moved to wring a public apology from the man who made it—William Howard Gardiner, president of the Navy League of the United States.

The President announced he would appoint a committee before which Government agencies will expose the "untruths and distortions of fact" in Gardiner's pronouncement.

Thereafter, the President said, he will expect "Mr. Gardiner to make a public correction of his misstatements and an apology therefor."

Members of League.

The proposed committee, which probably will be appointed immediately, will include members of the Navy League.

That Mr. Gardiner is in no mood to apologize, at least right now, was indicated by a statement he made last night. He said he was surprised that the President should appoint his own committee to look into such a matter, when Congress is supposed to be the investigating branch of the Government. He said he would welcome a congressional investigation.

A memorable controversy is expected to result from Gardiner's vehement charge and the President's determination to make the Navy League leader eat his words.

President Hoover's statement, which was issued as darkness was enclosing the White House, follows:

"The Navy League states in its announcements that it has 'for a quarter of a century specialized in accurate information as to Navy matters' and 'the principal activity of the league is to disseminate facts bearing on Navy matters to the press.'

Public Correction.

"In order that the country may know the untruth and distortions of fact in Chairman Gardiner's recent pronouncement, I will appoint a committee, including members of the Navy League, to whom agencies of the Government will demonstrate these untruths and distortions of fact. Such an inquiry will absolve the members of the league who have not participated in this statement. Upon its completion I shall expect Mr. Gardiner to make a public correction of his misstatements and an apology therefor.

"It is desirable for the public to know the character of this indirect campaign of misinformation to defeat the efforts of the high officials of the Navy Department and the administration for reduction of Federal expenditure not immediately essential in order that we may avoid increased taxation of the people in these times."

Angered by Budget Plea.

Mr. Gardiner, angered by President Hoover's demand that the Navy's budget for 1932 be reduced by $61,000,000, accompanied his statement of Wednesday with an expression of regret that it was necessary to be so vigorous.

"It has been necessary," Mr. Gardiner said, "to say what has been said if we are to have a real appreciation of the impelling motives back of President Hoover's efforts, at every turn, to

Treasury Holds Debt Cut Would Mean No Hardship

Reduction Would Aid Business and Swell Revenue Collections, Advocates Claim; Argument Seen as Probable Hoover Move.

Reduction of the allied war debt of $11,600,000,000 to the United States would not place any additional burden on the American taxpayer, it was stated in high Treasury circles yesterday.

Rather, it was said, a cut in German reparations and a corresponding cut in allied war debts to this country might materially ease the tax burden on the American citizen by aiding world economic recovery and thus boosting domestic revenue collections.

This Treasury argument, coming a few days after the conversations between President Hoover and Premier Laval, was regarded as the beginning of an administration program to crystalize sentiment in favor of the off-the-record understanding entered into by the two men, calling for a reduction in war reparations and debts.

Meantime, a scathing denunciation of the Hoover-Laval agreement was voiced by Representative Louis T. McFadden (Republican), Pennsylvania, chairman of the House committee on banking and currency.

In a speech delivered before the Elmira, N. Y., Kiwanis Luncheon Club, Representative McFadden said that the agreement between President Hoover and Premier Laval was "shocking," adding that "never has American statesmanship sunk so low." McFadden's blast was the first one that has been openly loosed by a member of Congress since the Franco-American conference ended.

Treasury officials, in seeking to show that a reduction in the allied war debt to this country would not mean a burden on the American taxpayer, pointed out that the allies, at the time the Hoover one-year moratorium went into effect, were paying this country about $250,000,000 a year. While this is a large sum, according to the officials, it is insignificant when it is considered that

Retired Fireman Is Killed In Fall Upon Broken Glass

A routine household chore claimed the life of Lieut. Elmer Hanback, 46 years old, of 3811 Kansas avenue northwest, a retired fireman, last night.

His wife found his body at the foot of the basement steps, a piece of glass from a broken ginger ale bottle piercing his neck and having severed the jugular vein. She hurried to a neighbor's home and summoned aid, but Lieut. Hanback had apparently died almost instantly.

Lieut. Hanback and his wife, Mrs. Ella Louise Hanback, about 9 o'clock last night were preparing to retire. The husband followed his nightly routine and gathered up the trash to carry downstairs to a basement receptacle. There were two ginger ale bottles to be carried out. Carrying the other trash in a basket and with the bottles in his right hand, Lieut. Hanback started downstairs.

When he failed to return promptly, Mrs. Hanback opened the cellar door. She caught sight of his huddled form, crumpled in a pool of blood at the foot of the stairs.

Mrs. Hanback ran to the home of Locksley V. Adams, of 3809 Kansas avenue. Mr. Adams hurriedly summoned Dr. John F. Brennan, of 1201 Monroe street northeast, who pronounced the former fireman dead.

Senator Fess Will Retain Republican Chairmanship

(Associated Press.)

Senator Fess, of Ohio, yesterday agreed to keep a job he has been trying to get rid of—being chairman of the Republican national committee—until after the party convention next year.

He gave this word to Republican leaders who have been canvassing the party situation preliminary to the meeting of the national committee here in December to select the convention city.

Announcing his decision, Senator Fess said:

"I will continue as chairman until the national convention is held and completed. Of course, with the selection of candidates, a manager for the campaign must then take over."

Because Fess previously expressed a desire to be relieved of the post when Congress convenes, President Hoover and Republican chieftains have been casting about for a new chairman.

Some of the pilots believed now was the time to install a new chairman rahter than next June, but after a round of conferences the Ohio senator agreed to remain and apparently that has closed the affair.

The chairman promptly turned to the task of making the multitudinous

100 CHINESE BANDITS SLAIN BY JAPANESE

U. S. Wants Powers' Notes on Manchuria Bared to World.

London, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—A Mukden dispatch to the Daily Mail says Japanese troops routed a force of 1,000 Chinese bandits between Chenchiatun and Saupingkai yesterday, killing 100 of them and wounding 200.

ADD NEW LEAD CHINA . . . . . .
(Associated Press.)

If America has its way, the public will be given a chance to read the messages in which six great powers reminded Japan and China that they had pledged themselves to peace.

Undersecretary Castle, of the State Department, yesterday said Germany, Italy, France, Great Britain and Spain were being asked why they had not made the communications public.

Each of these nations and the United States addressed notes to the two Oriental countries calling their attention to their commitments under the Kellogg-Briand Treaty renouncing war. The action was taken after discussion by the League of Nations Council, in which America participated.

The apparent disinclination of the European countries to give out the text of their communications has led to rumors that the messages may have been strongly worded and that the note sent to one nation may have been more severe in tone than that sent to the other. America's notes to Tokyo and Nanking were identical.

U. S. Notes Not Published.

To avoid embarrassing the European governments, the United States has refrained from publishing its own notes and the replies from Japan and China. The Chinese response, thanking the American Government for its action, was released, however, at the legation here.

The Japanese note, received several days ago, is reported to contain a definite denial of any intention of making war upon China.

Prentiss B. Gilbert, American Consul General at Geneva, yesterday reported he had been unable to get the desired information, as the accredited representatives of the countries had left Geneva with the adjournment of the league council. The State Department now will take up the question directly with the five governments through diplomatic channels.

Moscow, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Reports that Soviet Russia was lending military aid to the Chinese in Manchuria were laid before the Soviet government by Japan today and were promptly denied.

In calling the Soviet government's attention to the rumors, Japan declared that if Soviet troops were sent into the Chinese Eastern Railway zone, Japan would be compelled to "adopt necessary measures for the protection of its residents and the railway line."

The rumors were entirely without foundation, the Moscow government replied, and Soviet Russia is keeping to a policy of noninterference.

Furthermore, Russia said, she considers that "a policy of military occupation promoted even under the name of so-called support does not coincide with the interests of general peace.

Chinese General Blamed.

The Japanese protest was presented to the Russian foreign office by Ambassador Hirota, who said there was "great danger that the sphere of conflict may widen." He cited "various rumors circulated in Manchuria" and quoted Gen. Ma, of the Chinese forces at Tsitsihar, as saying that an agreement exists under which he receives militray airplanes, antiaircraft guns and aviators from the Soviet Union.

Gen. Ma consulted with an officer of the Red army at Sakhalin in mid-October, the ambassador added, and also there were Soviet instructors in the Chinese general's army.

The Japanese statement also referred to reports that a Chinese army in the Khelutsyan district on the northern banks of the Honkho River was receiving guns from the Soviet Union. Three hundred freight cars, it said, were being concentrated on the western lines of the Chinese Eastern Railway near Tsitsihar.

According to Gen. Ma, it added, Soviet troops numbering between 20,000 and 30,000, were being concentrated near the Soviet station of Dauri, near the border, with from 600 to 700 freight cars, with the intention of sending them to Manchuria.

Unidentified Man Found in Potomac

About 60, 5 Feet 6 Inches Tall, Victim Wore Dark Blue Overcoat.

Police last night were endeavoring to establish the identity of the body of a well-dressed elderly white man who was found floating in the Potomac River yesterday by H. O. Brown, operator of a gasoline supply boat.

The man was about 60 years old, 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighed about 185 pounds. A round scar on the left temple was the only mark found on the body which could give any clew to his identity. Police were of the opinion that the body had been in the water for about five days. Death was thought to have been caused by drowning.

The only unusual feature of the case was the fact that the man wore a fairly heavy blue overcoat. He was clean shaven and wore a close-cropped mustache. A description of the man was sent out over radio last night by police in an attempt to identify him. A death certficate has not been issued.

Roxy Finds U. S. Theater Far Superior to European

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Thirty days in Europe convinced "Roxy"—S. L. Rothafel to the postman—that America is the amusement center of the world.

Sprawled on a divan as the liner Europa neared port, the stocky, businesslike theater man waved a jeweled hand and said:

"All Europe's amusements are tawdry and ordinary. Their theaters haven't one-tenth the smartness of ours.

"They do everything with a flourish and wasted gestures, while we go at them with a jab and a bang, and accomplish things. They take three months to accomplish something we do in a week.

"In Russia everything teems with propaganda, and when propaganda walks in, art walks out. It is now up to America to keep alive the ballet, because in its native land it, too, is being ruined by propaganda."

With a twinkle in his eye, he said: "I want to put in a good word for the little American ballet girl. She is superior to all of them. She has dash and zest and intelligence. Over there they are automatons—and most of them are old and lack the spirit of youth."

In radio, Roxy said, America is the undisputed leader.

"In France and Germany they have too much government supervision. In Russia all they send out is talk, talk, talk. In England their technique is poor and they have no variety."

He told of discovering a world-wide revolution of youth against the traditions of the theater, opera and all other forms of amusement.

"And I agree with them," he added. "Tradition is good for only one thing—to show us what to avoid."

German and Russian movies he considers far superior to America's.

ELECTION IN BRITAIN ASSURES UNITED WORLD DRIVE ON ILLS

of economic and labor leaders to aid the government.

These developments, with the recent visit of Premier Pierre Laval to Washington, and the continuation of a policy of personal conversations among European statesmen—as illustrated by the visit of Italian Foreign Minister Dino Grandi to Berlin—emphasized the rapidity with which the world is organizing to meet the business crisis which is expected to be most severe this winter unless international efforts toward cooperation are successful.

Begins Selecting Cabinet.

London, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald today began selecting the cabinet ministers on whom he will rely in his fight to reestablish complete international confidence in Great Britain's stability and to put the nation's economic house in order.

The first responsibility of the prime minister, equipped with his "doctor's mandate" by the overwhelming National government victory in Tuesday's general election, is to find a successor to Philip Snowden in the important post of chancellor of the exchequer.

Mr. Snowden did not stand for re-election to the House of Commons, but is expected to be elevated to the peerage and to take his place in the House of Lords. Because of his frail health he has found it necessary to give up the hard work of the treasury post.

Due to Get Another Post.

It is believed, however, that Mr. Snowden's economic knowledge and sage political counsel will not be lost to the new government, as a sinecure post in the ministry probably will be found for him.

Neville Chamberlain, Conservative minister of health in the National cabinet, is widely mentioned as the most probable successor to Mr. Snowden.

The cabinet is expected to be increased from ten to the normal twenty or so. Its membership was cut in two when Mr. MacDonald's Labor cabinet went out of office to give way to the national ministry.

Sir John Simon is almost certain to get a post of some sort, as is his fellow Liberal, Walter Runciman, wartime president of the Board of Trade. Mr. Runciman is mentioned as a possible alternative to Neville Chamberlain as chancellor of the exchequer. It is believed almost certain that Winston Churchill also will be in the cabinet.

Confers With King.

Mr. MacDonald conferred for 50 minutes today with King George, acquainting him with his intentions and discussing the entire political situation. As the prime minister left Buckingham Palace he received the cheers of a crowd assembled to watch the historic ceremony of the changing of the guard.

Afterward the cabinet ministers, all smiling their satisfaction, held their first postelection session at No. 10 Downing street. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, was smoking a new cherrywood pipe. Only one minister—Lord Reading—was silk-hatted.

For a long time the cabinet took stock of the position of the National government resulting from the enormous general election majority, the largest in British history.

Lansbury to Be Leader.

George Lansbury, sidewhiskered and jovial, is booked to act as leader of the Labor forces in Parliament because it is doubted if the defeated Arthur Henderson could find a "safe" Labor seat from which the holding member could resign at the moment. The session will start November 10.

Mr. Henderson probably will offer himself at the first normal by-election, meanwhile directing the Labor party activities from his home instead of from the opposition front bench.

Only one additional election result was made known today. T. B. Ramsay, running as a National Liberal, retained his seat from Western Isles, Scotland, in a straight party fight with Capt. Ian Moffat-Pender, Conservative.

This made a total of 611 out of the 615 members of the House accounted for. The party standing was: Conservatives, 472; National Labor, 13; National Liberals, 66; Labor party, 50; Lloyd George Liberals, 5, and Independents, 5.

Trade Balance Improvement.

Pressing economic problems await solution by the new government. Of these, Mr. MacDonald has said, the most important is improvement in the nation's trade balance, which during the last few years has grown increasingly adverse.

The large Conservative group undoubtedly will press for a protective tariff to achieve this purpose, but the prime minister himself has been noncommittal beyond saying that nothing which might turn the trick would be ruled out.

During the campaign Mr. MacDonald promised that one of his first actions would be to stabilize the pound so that the housewife might know just what she could count on in her purchases, but there would be strong opposition to pegging sterling, as many prefer to let it find its own proper level.

It is believed that not much will be undertaken by the new Parliament before the recess for the Christmas holidays and that any measures limiting imports, either by tariffs or by other means, will be enacted early in the new year.

2 CONFESS BOMBING KILLING 3 CHILDREN

Police Say One Planned to Bury His Accomplice Alive in Tomb.

Balboa, Canal Zone, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—America's three unwilling emulators of Robinson Crusoe in the tropical Pacific, where making coconuts serve as ham and eggs is no new stunt, tried a little farming as well.

This was learned today by Capt. George H. Bowdey, commander of the gunboat Sacramento, on which the castaways—Paul Stachwick, Gordon Brawner and Elmer J. Palliser—are making their return to Balboa and civilization after six months on the tiny, uninhabited Isle of Cocos.

The Sacramento, which rescued them Tuesday from the island where they had been reduced to wearing loin cloths and shaving without soap, reported their agricultural effort by radio.

The three adventurers, having weathered a troublous storm, one day last April, had a supply of beans and corn as they cast about for a place to rest and repair their yawl, the West Wind.

Facing the necessity of coaxing a living out of Mother Earth, the adventurers three therefore took tools saved from the wreckage and began gardening. They cultivated a small plot in which were planted the beans and the corn.

The venture, however, proved unsuccessful. On the Isle of Cocos one of the plentiful things is rain. The beans and the corn, unused to the sort of rain which begins in the spring and ends in the fall, were beaten from the start.

The residence of the three modern castaways also was quite unlike that of their illustrious predecessor in lonely living, the storied Crusoe. Their home was built of corrugated iron, which they found near the beach of Wafer Bay.

Their camp was just above the high tide mark near a small stream, which provided fresh water, and surrounded by coconut and almond trees. A pool nearby was used for swimming and at the edge they built a diving board.

There was another hut in the neighborhood, but it contained no neighbors, for the inhabitants, whoever they were, had moved out before the visitors arrived.

Nor did the refugees have to sleep on the ground or on the floor. Using wreckage and part of the ruins of the old habitation, they built beds, and while lacking a radio and other evidences of more advanced civilization, they were comfortable most of the time.

They are still, however, spending much of their time aboard ship smoking—in an effort to catch up, the captain reported.

Boys Who Killed Father Will Not Be Prosecuted

Salem, Mo., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Charles Richtor, 16, and his brother, Roy, 12, who fatally shot their father, William Richtor, farmer, Sunday night, will not be prosecuted, Prosecuting Attorney George Addison said today. He said the boys apparently acted in defense of their own lives and that of their mother. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

Mrs. Richtor and the boys testified Richtor was intoxicated and threatened to kill them with a knife. Roy shot his father through the chest with a revolver when he rushed at him, and Charles shot him twice with a shotgun.

Farrell Indorses Water And Pleases Sheppard

(Associated Press.)

James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, and Senator Sheppard, author of the eighteenth amendment, agree that water is a good beverage.

When Mr. Farrell took the stand before a Senate manufacturers' subcommittee of which Mr. Sheppard is a member yesterday he took a sip of water from the glass placed in front of him and remarked:

"This is my beverage."

"That's fine," the Texas Democrat replied.

NEW GOVERNOR SEEN FOR MEXICAN STATE

Chihuahua Political Leaders Sure That Andres Ortiz Will Be Ousted.

Mexico City, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Leading politicians here tonight said the state of Chihuahua would have a new governor before Sunday.

The state legislature is trying to declare the governorship vacant, they said, and would, if successful, appoint Col. Roberto Fierro, chief of the civil aviation department, to the post.

Col. Fierro, who announced earlier in the week that he would soon go to his home state, tonight was reported en route to Chihuahua City. Gov. Andres Ortiz, who is under fire, will arrive here tomorrow morning.

In political circles here it was said that if the state legislature failed to oust Gov. Ortiz, the federal senate would intervene in the conflict that has surged in recent months in Chihuahua between the governor and local deputies, and would declare the powers vacant. It then would ask the president to name three possible provisional governors, of whom one would be chosen.

A dispatch from Chihuahua said that Gen. Rodrigo Quevado, candidate for governor of the state in the coming elections, accompanied by Lieut. Col. Eulogio Salazar, arrived in Chihuahua City today.

Cavalry Battalion Rebels In Brazil; Warships Sent

Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—The Twenty-first Battalion of cavalry at Pernambuco rebelled last night, arrested several officers and killed the first and second in command. The Brazilian government announced tonight that the uprising had been isolated and the rebels were ordered to surrender.

The Brazilian destroyers, Rio Grande do Sul, Parana and Parahyba were ordered from Bahia to Pernambuco (Recife), which is a coastal city of importance lying some 400 miles north of Bahia and 1,200 miles north of Rio de Janeiro.

The government statement said the uprising was due to complaints of the battalion against disciplinary measures.

Peru Meetings Banned.

Lima, Peru, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—All political manifestations of any kind, indoors or out, are forbidden henceforth in a communique issued by the government tonight. Partisan quarrels have cost several lives during the past few days, although the presidential election is past, and permits for various meetings have been canceled.

CIVIL SERVICE HEAD OUTLINES TRANSFERS

Career Possibilities Will Be Increased in Action Cited by O'Rourke.

Plans for possible transfers of efficient employes in "blind alley" jobs were outlined yesterday to civil service workers by Dr. L. J. O'Rourke, director of research and personnel administration of the Civil Service Commission, at a meeting in the Interior Department auditorium.

It is proposed, Dr. O'Rourke explained, that technical, professional and administrative employes of high qualifications, who have reached the limit of promotion in the office or department where they now are employed, may be considered for vacancies occurring in higher grades in other offices or establishments, instead of making new appointments to such higher-grade positions.

Thus, it is pointed out, the career possibilities in the civil service will be increased.

Dr. O'Rourke emphasized that his plan does not overlap in any way the plan ordered recently by President Hoover to effect the reemployment in other departments wherever they may be neaded of any surplus employes in one department or bureau, or any who might be dismissed because of reduction of forces.

The President's order, it was explained, is a measure of economy and will affect principally employes in clerical and lower grades. Dr. O'Rourke's plan is the result of studies made by a committee, which included also W. W. Stockberger, of the Department of Agriculture; Malcolm Kerlin, of the Department of Commerce; William H. McReynolds and Ismar Baruch, of the Personnel Classification Board; Guy P. Allen, Bureau of the Budget; E. K. Thurlew, Department of the Interior; Harry A. McBride, Department of State; J. Edgar Hoover, Department of Justice; Herbert D. Brown, Bureau of Efficiency, and Thomas E. Campbell, chairman of the Council of Personnel Administration.

Raskob Aid Asked For Voteless City

Costello Seeks Democratic Plank Favoring Franchise.

Suffrage for the District was demanded by John F. Costello, Democratic national committeeman from the District, in a letter written to John J. Raskob, Democratic national chairman, and made public last night. Washington citizens, Mr. Costello told Mr. Raskob, could only obey and pay, under the present arrangement.

Although Washington residents, Mr. Costello said, "contributed in national taxes in 1930 more than 25 of the States, they have nothing to say.

Mr. Costello urged inclusion in the Democratic national platform of a plank which would approve, for District residents, "adequate voting representation in Congress, the right to vote for President and Vice President, and the same right to sue and be sued in the courts of the United States as is enjoyed by citizens of a State and by aliens." The plank would continue: "Denial of such basic American rights to an intelligent community of American taxpayers is contrary to the traditional policy of the Democratic party, which has always stood firm for preserving faithfully the tie between taxation and representation."

Collector's Gift May Be Involved

$4,000,000 Art Gifts to Smithsonian Face Law Proceedings.

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—John Gellatly, 78-year-old art collector, who presented the Smithsonian Institution with a $4,000,000 collection of paintings, statuary, and tapestries, informed the Federal attorney today that his wife, Charlaye, a former actress, who recently endeavored to have him pay the rent on her apartment, had threatened to bring proceedings to have his gift to the institution set aside.

It was revealed that Mrs. Gellatly already had notified the Government she intends to bring suit to recover the paintings. After conferring with Gellatly, a representative of the Federal attorney called Dr. Charles Greely Abbot, director of the institution, on the telephone and informed him of possible developments.

Youth Sentenced to Die For Assault on Girl

Macon, Ga., Oct. 29 (U.P.).—Charles Haden, 23-year-old Macon youth, today was condemned to die in the electric chair by jury verdict carrying the death penalty on conviction of abducting and assaulting an 18-year-old Montgomery, Ala., girl visiting here last summer.

Woman Suffers Hurts In Truck-Bus Crash

An unidentified woman was injured slightly last night when a Washington Rapid Transit bus, bound for Baltimore, struck a truck loaded with lumber on the Olney-Baltimore highway just past Olney. The woman refused medical attention and, together with other passengers, boarded another bus and continued to Baltimore.

CAPITAL SYMPHONY SUPPORT IS ASKED

38 Prominent Washingtonians Contribute 75 Per Cent of Expenses.

A "manifesto" calling on the people of Washington to support the city's new National Symphony Orchestra, signed by 38 prominent Washingtonians, yesterday was made public by the executive committee of the orchestra.

Asserting that "the cultural prestige and importance of Washington, both as an American metropolis and a world capital, can not be maintained effectively as long as it lacks a great symphony orchestra," the statement asked both financial support and "encouragement from the public."

Concert on Monday.

With Hans Kindler conducting, the orchestra will give its first concert Monday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock at Constitution Hall. There are to be eight week-day symphony concerts during the season and eight Sunday concerts at 4 p. m.

Stating that a small group of Washingtonians have supplied 75 per cent of the funds necessary, "believing that the time has come for Washington to end its musical isolation," the manifesto continued:

"The rest of the task is up to Washington at large; that remaining 25 per cent must come through the box office in ticket sales for the various concerts to be given this season by the orchestra."

Following are the signers:

Representative Richard Aldrich, Rhode Island; Representative Robert Low Bacon, New York; Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools; Dr. Edwin N. C. Barnes, director of music, public schools; Ira Bennett, editor, The Washington Post; Maurice Bisgyer, executive secretary, Jewish Community Center; Miss Mabel Boardman, secretary of the American National Red Cross and national director of volunteer service of the American Red Cross.

The Rev. Mgr. Buckey, rector, St. Matthew's Church; Rear Admiral H. V. Butler, commandant, Washington Navy Yard; the Rev. W. L. Darby, executive secretary, Washington Federation of Churches; Carl Engel, chief of music division, Library of Congress; William W. Everett, Robert V. Fleming, president Riggs National Bank, Julius Garfinckel.

Other Supporters.

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of Public Buildings and Public Parks; Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general, National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution; Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War; Frank Jelleff, Harry King, president Washington Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. David Lawrence, John Ellerton Lodge, curator, the Freer Gallery of Art; Lowell Mellett, editor Washington Daily News; C. Powell Minnigerode, director of the Corcoran Galelry of Art; James F. Mitchell, Frank B. Noyes, president, the Evening Star Newspaper Co; Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, editor, the Washington Herald.

oner, who was called later, issued a certificate of accidental death.

Police and Dr. Rogers said the accident apparently had its inception when Lieut. Hanback tripped on the topmost of the ten steps leading to the basement.

The bottles he held in his right hand apparently smashed as he lurched against the wall and a great bit of jagged glass from the neck of one of them fell to the foot of the steps. Mr. Hanback apparently failed to gain his equilibrium after he tripped and tumbled the rest of the way to the basement. He fell with his throat squarely across the broken bit of bottle.

Still clutched in his right hand was the neck of the other bottle.

Lieut. Hanback served in the Fire Department for about 23 years and was appointed to a lieutenancy in 1924. He served with No. 7 Engine and No. 1 Truck companies, and was retired from No. 26 Engine Co. about a year ago for physical disability due to an accident he suffered in line of duty. His hand was badly crushed when it was caught on a ladder.

In addition to his wife, Lieut. Hanback is survived by his father, John Hanback; two stepdaughters and several sisters.

His body was removed to the W. W. Chambers funeral home, where services will be held at a date to be announced later. The funeral will be conducted by the Joppa Lodge of Masons, of which Lieut. Hanback was a member.

Woman Blames Injury on Man.

Police took a woman to Emergency Hospital last night with a possible fractured shoulder and cuts about the face she said she received when a man, whose name she refused to divulge, knocked her down. The woman gave her name as Katherine Grimm, 24 years old, of 1316 Tenth street northwest.

GIFFORD PLAN TO HELP IDLE MEETS WITH STOUT PROTEST

increased in the past to meet the rising cost of living in the days of so-called prosperity. Their salaries are not now too high. Their salaries should not be reduced. Senator Jones made his statement in writing to a local union of the National Federation of Federal Employes in the State of Washington. Senator Jones is chairman of the Senate appropriations committee.

Senator Brookhart took a vicious rap at Mr. Gifford and, through him, at the whole program the committee proposed, declaring:

Would Tax Corporations.

"As long as Chairman Walter Gifford's telephone company can earn more stupendous profits during depression years than ever before, I am in favor of taxing such corporations instead of taking the bread out of the mouths of Government employes. Such a plan would throw the Government machinery out of gear, create hardship, impair efficiency and accomplish nothing."

Representative Martin, of Washington, who will enter the House chamber as a member for the first time when Congress convenes in December, joined with Senator Jones in taking a fling at the proposal of the Democratic senator from his State.

Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, also is in the lists against a cut in salaries of Government employes, a proposal first advanced by Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), of Indiana, chairman of the appropriations committee of the House last Congress.

"I shall certainly oppose any such proposal," Senator Bingham said, adding that the Government employe was unable to take advantage of increased pay incident to boom times and should not be subjected to an unfair cut when times were not booming and the Nation drunk with easy dollars.

Employes' Leaders Active.

But those Government workers who think that the fight is settled before it has been begun are counting without their host, led by Mr. Wood. Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Employes, and Miss Gertrude M. McNally, secretary-treasurer of the federation, and all of the other officers of the organization, are exerting every effort to forestall the efforts of those seeking to cut Government salaries. It is probable that they will win, but it is no secret that they are worried.

The program of Mr. Gifford and his committee, however, is going to be attacked from other sources than leaders of Government workers and their supporters. These find in the pronouncement of the committee words to defeat proposed treatment of Government workers. They point to the declaration of Mr. Gifford's committee that employers who dismiss trained workers merely for reasons of economy without any previous attempt at internal adjustment are both selfish and inhumane.

Green May Quit Committee.

Over and above the complaints of the Government employes against the Gifford committee report, however, is the fact that throughout the entire report there is nothing to suggest that any one but labor shall bear the burden of the depression. Charged by Senator Brookhart with having made larger profits for his corporation than ever before, Mr. Gifford, it is complained, does not propose a single thing which is more than that the workers of the Nation should divide up their present jobs and split the pay.

The tenor of the report is such that the resignation of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, from the committee is expected. Mr. Green is in the West. He is expected to be in Denver today. He has made no public comment on the report, although he was represented by proxy on the committee which framed the report.

No mention was made in the report of the five-day work week sponsored by the labor movement. Nor was mention made of other proposals advanced by organized labor in its economic program for improvement of conditions, for example, abolition of child labor.

Veterans' Groups Will Demand Cash

Declare They Will Stage Demonstration Today on White House Plaza.

Delegations from various parts of the country of the Workers Service Men's League announced last night that at noon today they will demand of Veterans' Bureau officials the immediate cash payment, in full with interest, of all veterans' compensation certificates. The veterans say they will back up their demands with a demonstration on the White House plaza in front of the Veterans' Bureau.

Their demands will include: 1—Immediate cash payment of the bonus. 2—Relief for widows and orphans of World War veterans as well as noncharitable relief due to veterans. 3—The use of war funds for unemployed relief. 4—No discrimination against foreign-born or Negro veterans. 5—The right of disabled veterans to employ their own doctor at Government expense immediately upon becoming sick. 6—The right to hospitalization in private hospitals upon recommendation and certification of their own doctors, all expenses to be paid by the Government.

Driver Conveys Victim Of His Car to Hospital

Miss Betty Bucklen, 18 years old, of 1410 Holly street northwest, was cut and bruised yesterday when she was struck by an automobile at Alaska avenue and Holly street northwest.

Miss Bucklen was attempting to cross Alaska avenue when she was hit by an automobile operated by Edgar E. Harter, 41 years old, of 711 Richmond avenue, Silver Spring, Md. Harter took Miss Bucklen to Walter Reed Hospital, where she was given first aid. She was later transferred to Emergency Hospital, where an X-ray for a possible skull fracture showed negative.

Strict Rules Made For Patients' Shift

Emergency Hospital Staff Told to Exercise Greatest Caution.

Definite instructions have been issued to the staff of Emergency Hospital to exercise every degree of caution in the transferring of patients to other hospitals after it has been ascertained that they can not be cared for at the institution.

B. B. Sandidge, superintendent of the hospital, said that the directors of Emergency Hospital also strictly enjoined staff employes at Emergency to be sure that arrangements have been made at other hospitals for the reception of transfer patients from Emergency before the actual transfer is effected.

Relatives and friends of patients to whom first aid has been administered at Emergency are to be advised of any decision to transfer patients, it was said. Because of the large amount of emergency cases received at the New York avenue hospital it was pointed out that its facilities are inadequate at times to meet the volume of patients.

O'Neil Urges Dam In Plan for Shoals

Will Oppose Any Proposal Leaving Out Project on Cove Creek.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 29 (A.P.). Edward A. O'Neil, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, told interviewers here today he would oppose any plan for operating Muscle Shoals that did not include provisions for building Cove Creek Dam in Tennessee. He came to Chattanooga to attend a meeting of the joint Muscle Shoals Commission, of which he is a member.

"Cove Creek Dam and Muscle Shoals are like the Siamese Twins and we hold the building of the dam on the upper part of the system is an integral part of any plan for operating Muscle Shoals," he declared. "The farmers have always stood for building Cove Creek Dam and we think the Government should build it."

He described construction of the dam as the key to the development of the Tennessee River basin and said utilization of the Government property at Muscle Shoals is the basis for the fertilizer industry in this country.

Young Republicans Launch Meetings for '32 Campaign

Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee, launched the Young Republicans of the National Capital Republican Club upon their series of meetings for the coming year last night when he addressed an overflow crowd at the club's new home, Sixteenth street at Scott circle.

Speaking extemporaneously, Senator Fess outlined the history of the party from its inception to the era dominated by Abraham Lincoln. His talk was the first of a series of nine addresses delineating the development of the majority party of the United States.

Sharing the program with Senator Fess was Charles F. Scott, for ten years representative at large from the State of Kansas and publisher of the Iola (Kans.) Register, who commented upon recent developments of the world political stage.

Mr. Scott compared the present political situation in the United States to that of Great Britain before the recent election and prophesied Republican victory in 1932 as comparable to the support of the Conservative party in England.

"It is not the common practice of the sea," said Mr. Scott, "for the crew to hurl the captain overboard in the midst of a hurricane he had no part in causing. Neither is it ordinary for the passengers to call the captain from the bridge after he has piloted the ship safely through the storm to the placid waters beyond.

"Calmer waters already are beginning to appear in our present economic storm. The American people will not now condemn the only leader this world debacle has produced."

The meeting was presided over by Douglas Whitlock, president of the younger group of the National Capital Republican Club's membership, who summed up the accomplishments of the local young Republican organization since its beginning last Spring and outlined its present plans.

Samuel J. Prescott, chairman of the Republican State committee in and for the District of Columbia, and president of the club, delivered a short welcome, while Ainey E. Chaffee, reading clerk of the House and secretary of the club, briefly described the plans for renovation of the new headquarters.

Edward F. Colladay and Mrs. Virginia White Speel, national committeeman and committeewoman, respectively, for the District of Columbia, were introduced.

UNION LABOR'S LOSS OF JOBS INCREASES

Green Sees Hopeful Signs of Employmnet; Farrell Takes On Men.

(Associated Press.)

More trade-union workers lost their jobs in October than the month before, but William Green yesterday found at least two hopeful signs along the road toward winter.

As James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, was telling a Senate committee that employment in his industry is on the upgrade, the president of the American Federation of Labor summarized a story of unemployment's trek in this way:

The number of men out of work increased two-tenths of 1 per cent to 19.6 the first half of October. Such an increase "at this time of year is not unusual," since "a similar increase occurred in October, even in the normal year of 1928." If unemployment continues to increase at this rate, "we shall have 7,000,000 persons out of work by January next."

Short Schedules Revealed.

Other figures show more men working on short schedules, a favorable sign when unemployment is rising.

It "seems likely that an effort is being made to keep men at work at least part time, for up to October our figures had shown a more than normal increase in unemployment which had not been offset by an increase in part-time work."

Six hundred thousand will be laid off in November; 480,000 on farms and 118,000 in industry, "unless something is done to prevent the usual fall increase in unemployment."

Then Green recommended that wages be maintained, work hours be shortened and employment divided, minimum work forces be assured jobs from November to April, each employer take on additional workers, public undertakings be expedited, employment agencies be strengthened, the young remain in school, preference be shown for workers with dependents, and that relief from public and private funds be assured those who can not find work.

Unemployment in Cities.

He said "unemployment is most serious in Detroit, Baltimore, Chicago, Cleveland, Philadelphia, Jersey City, Buffalo, New York and Los Angeles, in the order of their listing."

Farrell testified before the Senate manufactures subcommittee that the steel corporation's employment had dropped from 94 per cent of normal, the first of this year, to 77 per cent in August and September. But, he added:

"Things look a little better and I expect the 77 per cent will begin to move up."

As a reason for that belief, he explained his company had just reopened one plant and planned to resume work next Monday at a plant at Braddock, Pa., which employs 4,000 men and has been idle for a long time.

Before the same Senate committee—which is studying means of stabilizing industry—Gov. Eugene Meyer of the Federal Reserve Board, testified he had hope of avoiding in the future the wide business variations of the past. He said some changes in the banking laws would be very desirable and that at times in the past banks had been misled and gone beyond the bounds of justifiable optimism.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 90

THE Lucia Sextet, composed of brass instruments, has always been a feature of the United States Marine Band. Here is the sextet back in 1906.

From left to right the members were: Edward B. Llewellyn, solo cornet, now first trumpeter and manager of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra; Walter F. Smith, second cornet, who retired in 1920 as second leader of the Marine Band; J. M. Brearton, second trombone, now living in the West; Harry A. Stone, first trombone, who retired as principal musician of the Marine Band, and died in 1915; Edward McIntire, barytone, retired as principal musician and now living in Washington, and Ole J. May, euphonium, who was killed in an automobile accident in Asbury Park, N. J., twelve years ago. Mr. May was a cartoonist on The Post at the time he was a member of the Marine Band and after he retired from the band was cartoonist on the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Members of the Lucia Sextet today are: Arthur S. Witcomb, second leader of the band, solo cornet; John P. White, second cornet; Robert E. Clark, trombone; Lee Sanford, second trombone; Peter Hazes, euphonium, and Albert Bennert, barytone. Capt. Taylor Branson, leader of the band, was a second-class musician at the time the above picture was taken. He was promoted to second leader in 1920 and to leader in 1927.

I.C.C. POOL PROJECT SHUNTS RAIL RELIEF

Administration Is Marking Time While Proposal Is Thrashed Out.

(Associated Press.)

Administration plans for helping the railroads have been shunted to a siding to clear the track for negotiations between transportation officials and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The proposal of the latter that revenues be increased by imposing surcharges and pooling the income from them for the use of all the lines is the subject of the discussions. Until they are ended the administration intends to be only an alertly watchful spectator.

While members of the advisory committee of the Association of Railway Executives were knitting their brows yesterday over the problems of the machinery needed to operate the surcharge pool, it became known that all thought of wage cuts has been abandoned for the present.

The committee yesterday received the report of a delegation which Wednesday began informal and preliminary talks with commission members and then consulted with employes of some of the roads. They hope to complete their plans in time to report to the association at its meeting in Chicago next week.

Plan to Aid Weak Roads.

The commission's plan, made when it rejected the plea of the lines for a general 15 per cent increase in freight rates, contemplated surcharges of $3 to $6 a car load on all traffic except farm products.

From the pool cheated by these changes money would be given to weak but solvent lines for the redemption of their bonds and other purposes. The railroad officials, who have always opposed the pool idea, have objected to the gift provision, maintaining that sums advanced should be loans.

The administration became acutely interested in the situation when it became apparent that it was affecting hundreds of small savings banks. These institutions had invested their funds in railroad bonds. But earnings of the carriers had fallen to such an extent that it seemed unavoidable that the securities would have to be removed from the list of savings bank investments approved by State laws. Conversely, the situation threatened the roads with loss of an important financing source.

Wage Cut Rumors Denied.

Reports of pending pay reduction negotiations permeated Washington yesterday. Hot on their heels, however, came authoritative denials from railroad and administration officials.

One rumor hads Secretary Doak, himself a railroad labor executive for a quarter century before he became Labor Secretary, negotiating a temporary cut with the brotherhoods. Doak firmly denied any connection with such moves, asserting he could have nothing to do with them either privately or in an official capacity.

It was pointed out that the Labor Department has no connection with railroad labor disputes. The only officials having any authority in the matter are the President and the United States Board of Mediation.

The method of procedure fixed by Federal law requires 30 days notice of any pending wage change. Within ten days after notice is given by either side, a date must be set for a conference. This meeting must be held within the original 30 days. The Mediation Board could be called in by either side or could step in of its own accord and try to bring negotiations together.

Failing an agreement, arbitration would be available. But should either side refuse to arbitrate, the President has the power to take charge, appoint a special board to investigate and report to him with a solution.

The heads of the railway brotherhoods will meet here Monday for their semiannual conference.

SAFE BOXES SHARED BY WALKER AND AID

Seabury Committee Is Told Mayor Called Sherwood in Mexico City.

New York, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—Revelation that Mayor James J. Walker shares a safe deposit box with Russell J. Sherwood, his fiscal agent, who is now in Mexico City, was made today by Samuel Seabury before the Hofstadter legislative committee investigating municipal corruption.

Seabury produced evidence to show that the mayor and Sherwood have shared boxes since 1924. He asked that, on the basis of this connection, he be empowered to proceed with contempt charges against Sherwood, who has indicated that he will ignore a subpena served on him recently in the Mexican capital.

The committee voted in favor of such action. Sherwood was subpenaed to appear before the committee tomorrow for questioning concerning alleged stock market operations he conducted for Walker. Dispatches from Mexico City indicated he has no intention of returning to New York. Seabury, in addressing the committee, said he had evidence proving that Mayor Walker and Sherwood communicated by long-distance telephone, after the business agent reached Mexico City.

NAN BRITTON'S LOVE STORY TOLD TO JURY

Excerpts From Book Accusing Harding Introduced in Her Libel Suit.

Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—The story of Nan Britton's "love for Warren G. Harding, how it began in childhood and grew in intensity as she approached adolescence," was described in detail as her libel suit against C. A. Klunk for $50,000 progressed today in Federal court here.

Excerpts from her book, "The President's Daughter," in which Miss Britton charges that the late President was the father of her 12-year-old daughter, Elizabeth Ann, were read to the jury during the afternoon. How she developed a strong affection for Harding was told in detail.

An alleged tryst with Harding at the Madison Hotel in New York also was described in the reading of quotations from the book. She related how he engaged the bridal suite for them because it was the only one available, and it was there she charged "they shared their first kiss."

"Nan," the book quotes Harding as saying tensely, "tell me it isn't hateful to have you kiss me."

In the morning session, excerpts from the book, "The Answer to the President's Daughter," were read to the jury by Klunk's attorney, Judge Grant Mouser. The purpose of the reading was to defend the name of the late President, Mouser said.

Cheverly Citizens Seek Cut in Telephone Rates

Lower telephone rates in Cheverly, Md., through the elimination of the mileage charges, will be sought by the Cheverly Citizens Association. The new service to be offered on the projected Greenwood exchange will cost more than the present service because of this charge, the association believes.

Page after page was quoted, branding as false all claims of Nan Britton that Harding was the parent of her daughter.

U.S. Headed for Bow-Wows, Supreme Court Is Loafing

By JOHN J. DALY

NOW that the Supreme Court is temporarily adjourned for want of business, alarmists will see in this a new cause for worry. If the lawyers can not keep the Supreme Court of the United States working overtime, the country must be going to the bow-wows.

It must be true. The country has lost its pep. There was a time when almost any trivial incident could be developed into a case of sufficient importance to be carried through the lower corridors to the Supreme Court. Neighbors, fighting over a boundary line, have often gone to law about it, one side losing with the declaration, "I'll take this to the Supreme Court."

What has happened? What's the matter with the legal fraternity? Has business become so bad they can not drum up cases for the Supreme Court?

There is only one salvation for the Nation and that is to get the Supreme Court back on the bench. America without its Supreme Court functioning is no America at all. It's all right for the judges to take vacations, in vacation time; but when the leaves begin to fall and winter is on the wing, the place for a Supreme Court justice is on the bench.

IT will take only a little high and fast thinking on the part of lawyers to start the Supreme Court working again full blast.

* * * *

THERE is, for instance, the case of Al Capone, which certainly should be reviewed by the highest tribunal in the land. There is the advisability of delving into the legality of a number of things: Why Congressmen, for instance, are permitted to stand while making speeches. It is a known fact that a man sitting down can not reach the heights of oratory, and if oratory were removed from the floor of Congress the national business would be attended to with facility and dispatch.

* * * *

ANY prolonged vacation of the Supreme Court at this time may be attended by dire results. The stock market is liable to reach lower depths when it is discovered that the nine able jurists are lolling away their time in their own libraries instead of communing with Blackstone, preferred, in the sanctum sanctorum of the court.

If course, it is not the fault of the jurists. The trouble lies with American business, which seems to be getting along without the benefit of lawyers, if it is getting along—and if it is not getting along, this is proof positive that what the country needs is more litigation, more lawyers preparing briefs to be submitted to the Supreme Court.

Naturally, the judges themselves will feel relieved at the opportunity of getting away from all these intricate legal processes. They may be tired of hearing cases, like the justice of the peace who, fed up on the pleadings of a practitioner before the bar, asked:

* * * *

"IN heaven's name, what kind of a lawyer are you?"

"I am," replied the lawyer, with great dignity, "a patent lawyer."

"Well," replied the justice, adjourning court for the day, "when the patent expires you will have a hard time getting it renewed."

In the same light, if the Supreme Court doesn't keep in practice, its judges might forget the law—and if they forget the law, woe to the United States, already overrun with violation.

Favoring Hungary Is Denied by Borah

Asserts He Never Advocated Full Restoration of Boundaries.

(United Press.)

Senator Borah said in an interview yesterday with George Kalousek, correspondent of the Czechoslovak newspaper Narodni Politika, that he never had advocated or thought of advocating the full restoration of Hungary to its prewar boundaries.

Some European papers had put such an interpretation upon Borah's interview with French journalists during Premier Laval's visit.

The senator authorized the Narodni Politika to state that he identified himself with a statement of Thomas Masaryk, president of Czechoslovakia, made to a Vienna newspaper last year. In the statement Masaryk expressed willingness to discuss the possibility of a readjustment of the present ethnographical boundaries of Europe, but declined emphatically to take into consideration the restoration of prewar Hungary.

Yale Reports Increase In Students Seeking Aid

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 29 (A.P.). Increases in the number of students applying for financial assistance while in the university were related today in the annual report of the Yale University treasurer.

The report, dealing with the year ending June 30, showed 1,792 students, or approximately one-third of the entire number of candidates for degrees, were registered with the bureau of appointments. The previous year a total of 1,368 were thus registered.

Bride Fuel Huckster Hearing Is Delayed

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride said yesterday that he was prepared to hold a hearing on the recently adopted regulation of the District Commissioners barring fuel hucksters from the streets and alleys of Washington, but so far the complainants have not appeared in answer to his inquiry.

The hucksters last week petitioned the Commissioners to reconsider their order on the ground that it would throw a score of men out of employment.

British to Confer On Cyprus Revolt

Future Status of Island Is to Rest in Hands of Sir Ronald Storrs.

London, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The future status of the Island of Cyprus, where a revolt against British rule broke out recently, will be discussed by the British government with Sir Ronald Storrs, governor of the island, the colonial office announced today.

The governor was informed that the colonial office planned, in consultation with him, to review the whole constitutional future of the colony with special regard to questions arising out of the disorders which were aimed at union of the island with Greece.

"It is obvious that liberties given under the present constitution have been abused by disloyal political leaders," the cablegram said. "Accordingly, in the general interest of the people of Cyprus, his majesty's government will have to review, in consultation with you, the whole question of the constitutional future of the island."

Industrial Experiment To Be Lecture Topic

"An Experiment in Industrial Democracy," will be the topic of a lecture by William B. Hapgood, of Indianapolis, Ind., tonight at the Typographical Temple, 423 G street northwest. Mr. Hapgood is the head of a large food canning factory in Indianapolis that was turned over to the employees to operate after the World War.

Paul Benjamin, executive secretary of the Social Hygiene Society, will preside. Monday night, Daniel W. Hoan, mayor of Milwaukee, Wis., will talk on "How Socialists Govern Milwaukee," at the Muscians Hall, 1006 E street northwest.

Col. Henry G. Beyer Killed Cleaning Gun

Portland, Me., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Col. Henry G. Beyer, head of the Beyer & Small brokerage firm, was killed yesterday while cleaning a gun. The funeral probably will be held tomorrow. County authorities, after an inquiry, returned a verdict of accidental death.

Dismissal Sought In McLean Action

Post Publisher's Attorneys Challenge Wife's Right to File Ouster.

The District Supreme Court was asked yesterday to dismiss the suit instituted by Mrs. Evalyn Lucille Walsh McLean, wife of Edward B. McLean, publisher of The Post, to oust him as a cotrustee of his father's estate.

Counsel for Mr. McLean informed the court that Mrs. McLean had not the authority to institute in equity court the suit "as the next friend" of their children, for whom special guardians have been named by the District Equity Court. That court, it was shown, has never relinquished jurisdiction of the McLean estate trustees, and any action directed at them should properly be filed in the court that retains this jurisdiction.

Mr. McLean's answer was filed through Attorneys George B. Fraser and Wilton J. Lambert. Mrs. McLean's attorneys were Frank J. Hogan, Nelson T. Hartson and Albert W. Fox.

English Students Meet G. W. Debaters Tonight

A debating team representing the National Union of Students of England tonight will meet George Washington University's debating team, on the question of the dole, at Corcoran Hall at 8 o'clock. The British debaters will uphold the dole.

An international debate has been the annual highlight of the forensic season at George Washington ever since 1923, when British debaters first toured this country. President Cloyd Heck Marvin, of George Washington, will preside at tonight's oratorical clash, and James Ronald and Ralph Gilby will represent the local school. On the British team will be Stuart Craig, of University College, and John Needham, of St. John's College, Durham University.

Marcum Is Cleared In Contempt Case

Special Attorney Purges Himself in Justice Wheat's Court.

Philip J. Marcum, a special attorney attached to the office of the Attorney General, yesterday purged himself of a contempt of court order, issued by Chief Justice A. A. Wheat, when he paid, through his attorney, Richard L. Merrick, $135 in back alimony.

Wednesday Mrs. Marcum's attorneys had appeared before Justice Wheat to ask for a ruling because of the arrearage. When the chief justice was told that Mr. Marcum had failed to meet the alimony provisions of a limited divorce granted his wife several months ago, he signed an order in which he said that he "must hold Marcum in contempt."

The payment of the back alimony cleared Mr. Marcum of the order, and relieved him of the possibility of being confined until he did make the payment. The Marcum case is now pending before the Court of Appeals.

Cannon Lines Up His Defense Talent

Additional Counsel Is to Be Named to Aid McNeill.

(Associated Press.)

Additional legal talent is being marshaled for the defense of Bishop James Canon, jr., who faces trial on charges of wilfully violating the Federal corrupt practices law during the 1928 presidential campaign.

Robert H. McNeill, who will head the defense of the Southern Methodist churchman and Miss Ada L. Burroughs, of Richmond, treasurer of his anti-Smith Democrats, yesterday assigned consultation with other counsel as one reason for delaying arraignment proceedings from tomorrow until Monday. McNeill declined to name the attorneys.

Two other reasons also were given by McNeill for postponing the arraignment. One was more time for preparing the defense and the other the bishop's attendance at the Virginia conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South at Lynchburg.

Charity Gifts Tax Deductions Urged

Administration Planning to Back Bill Giving Corporations Right.

(Associated Press.)

The administration is planning to recommend legislation excepting corporation gifts to charity from income taxes. Such action is favored by Walter S. Gifford, director of President Hoover's relief organization, which is now supporting a Nation-wide drive for Community Chest funds.

The Treasury last year asked Congress for legislation extending to corporations the tax protection allowed individuals on charitable gifts. Representative Hawley (Republican), Oregon, chairman of the last ways and means committee, introduced such a bill, but it encountered opposition and did not reach the House for consideration.

Treasury experts are now scanning means of raising the Government's revenue in the face of dwindling income tax payments, the basis of the present tax system. A selective sales tax is under consideration. A prolonged conference running late into the evening was held yesterday by Undersecretary Mills and Arthur A. Ballantine, Assistant Secretary in charge of taxation.

MANUFACTURERS SEE BUSINESS IMPROVED

800 Companies in 26 Lines Answer Business Questionnaire.

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Gradual improvement in business conditions was reported today to the unemployment conference of the National Association of Manufacturers, in a trade survey of industries throughout the United States.

Eight hundred companies in 26 lines of business answered a questionnaire of conditions as of October 15, J. Lewis Benton, general secretary said.

Favorable factors, on these bases of these reports, were noted as follows:

1. Better business than last fall is reported by 8 per cent of the companies, compared with 5 per cent last year. Eighteen per cent held the same business, compared with 14 per cent last year.

Employment Increase.

2. Employment shows a slight increase over October, 1931. Five per cent of the companies increased their forces, compared with 3 per cent last year. Thirty-one per cent have held the same personnel, compared with 29 per cent last year.

3. Wages have held their own or been bettered in 54 per cent of the companies. Decreased production, sales and prices strike a general average nearly three times that of wage reductions.

4. Inventories are the lowest in years, indicating that when general buying is increased, plants will be compelled to enlarge forces to speed production.

Several industries showed marked improvement over their state of trade a year ago. Among these were automobile accessories, 14 per cent increase; chemicals, 11 per cent; electrical supplies, 18 per cent; leather, 27 per cent; paper and pulp, 14 per cent; rubber, 25 per cent; stationery and printing, 9 per cent; textiles, 17 per cent, and miscellaneous, 9 per cent.

Fifty-eight per cent of the firms said they considered prospects for the winter fair, good or excellent.

The employment relations committee recommended that unemployment relief should be on the basis of payment for work actually performed. It urged that politics be kept out of administration of public relief funds, and that local bodies control the work under the supervision of a central State authority.

Available work should be spread over the week to help the largest possible number of applicants, the committee suggested.

New England Survey.

James W. Hook, of New Haven, Conn., described a survey made by the New England's council's industrial committee to determine what business executive believe are the activities most needed to increase employment.

"The majority vote," Hook said, "urged employers to keep as many people on their pay rolls as possible by eliminating overtime and reducing weekly hours."

William G. Rose, of Cleveland, proposed a similar program, suggesting a 20 per cent reduction in working hours with corresponding decrease in pay.

"This will necessitate the hiring of approximately 20 per cent more hands without materially changing the cost of the goods made," he said.

Relief programs in Grand Rapids, Mich.; Rochester, N. Y.; Wilmington, Del. and the Schenectady plant of the General Electric Co. were described. All the speakers urged that administration expenses of relief funds be held to a minimum.

Marines Honored By Kiwanis Club

High Officers Guests at Navy Day Program of Organization.

The Washington Kiwanis Club dedicated its Navy Day program at the Washington Hotel yesterday afternoon to the Marine Corps.

Brig. Gen. John T. Myers, acting commandant of the Marine Corps, who was "commended for eminent and conspicuous conduct in battle," expressed his appreciation on behalf of the corps; Brig. Gen. Dion Williams detailed briefly the mission of the Marine Corps and its relation to the Navy; and Lieut. Christian F. Schilt told of his experiences as a flier in Nicaragua. Lieut. Schilt has been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy David S. Ingalls, Rear Admiral Frank B. Upham, chief, Bureau of Navigation; Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief, Bureau of Aeronautics; Rear Admiral Henry V. Butler, commandant, Washington Navy Yard, were also present. The program was arranged by Radford Moses, lieutenant commander, Naval Reserve Corps.

Girl Accusing Japanese Actor to Abandon Suit

Los Angeles, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Attorney Daniel Farr said tonight that dismissal of a suit filed by Ruth Noble to regain custody of the 2-year-old child whose parentage she says she shares with Sessue Hayakawa, Japanese film actor, will be asked when the case is called for trial here tomorrow.

Farr, representing Miss Noble, a former vaudeville partner of Hayakawa, did not indicate whether a settlement had been reached or whether the dismissal is temporary.

arrangements necessary for the convention.

It has been determined to have the national committee meeting here on December 15 with selection of the convention city as the primary task. Early speculation indicates that Cleveland and Chicago will fight it out for the session, with the former favored.

With Fess remaining at the helm, the regular setup of the national committee probably will be kept with Robert Lucas in charge of headquarters as executive director.

Mr. Hoover has given no indication of his choice for national chairman and campaign manager should he be renominated at the June convention. It is known, however, that Fess' decision to continue is satisfactory to him. He called him to the post a year ago when Claudius H. Huston resigned.

New Book Bares Secrets Of War Backstage in Capital

Col. Frederick Palmer's Work Reveals Baker as Fighter, Hoover Advocating Mixing American Troops With Allies and Confusing Pershing Orders.

The strategic screen, which hid from the rank and file of Americans the back-stage conduct of the war, was stripped of much fabric last night in a war correspondent's sketch of Newton D. Baker and "America at War."

Based on confidential papers and files of Woodrow Wilson's Secretary of War, the two-volume work, written by Col. Frederick Palmer, throws light on many events of the struggle, only partially revealed in Pershing's memoirs.

The wartime commandant was pictured as cabling on the eve of the armistice for a year's supply of men and munitions, "though German resistance had already broken. One passage indicates he forgot he collaborated in drafting one of two sets of orders he received on departing for France.

Baker, often charged with pacifistic leanings, was portrayed as an aggressive fighter, staunchly supporting Pershing, though differing with him on many policies. He is shown actively preparing for war even before the war President himself conceded that a break must come.

The books disclosed that Herbert Hoover, in a memorandum to Col. E. M House on February 13, 1917, favored infiltration of American troops into the French and British armies instead of an independent set-up of the American Army in France.

Because Secretary Baker thought it would be a mistake to mix men of different languages and habits, subjecting American troops to alien control, the plan was rejected. Later, nevertheless, separate American regiments were infiltered into the French army.

Mr. Hoover believed, according to Palmer, that a separate American unit would result in "political difficulties in association." He favored the volunteer system instead of the draft already decided upon by the Secretary of War.

"He would have America become a recruiting ground for the French or other allied armies," Palmer said, quoting in part from the Hoover memorandum. "If our Government gave a stimulus by the provision of pensions, &c., I am confident that a large body of men could be recruited and sent simply as manpower to France. These men, put into training depots in Europe would be ready for front-line work within four or five months, and they would form a nucleus upon which a skilled army could subsequently be built up if we desired to go further into the matter."

Concerning the two sets of orders given Pershing when he left for France, the war general in his memoirs said he did not understand how the two sets came about. Palmer's book, however, which will make its appearance in the bookstalls today, claims Pershing and Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord collaborated on a draft which was "obligingly" signed by Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, chief of staff. Secretary Baker handed Pershing the other set, signed by President Wilson.

Difference in Orders.

According to Pershing, the main difference between the two sets was that "the Pershing version made no reference to the importance of keeping our Army intact, which was to be the subject of so many tribulations for our commander in chief in France."

Pershing proposed a 24-division American Army, it was stated, and his plan was expanded by Marshal Foch, of France, who asked for 100 divisions. Secretary Baker, on the other hand, pointed out that France could not handle the men and supplies for such a force, which would have involved 5,000,000 Americans in France, a larger force than Germany had in the field.

When Theodore Roosevelt proposed to recruit a special volunteer division to serve under him in France, it was Secretary Baker who vetoed the plan, the book disclosed. He told President Wilson it would have a bad effect on recruiting for the regular Army and National Guard.

Gen. Harbord, the book disclosed, was slated by Baker to receive the supreme American command if anything happened to Gen. Pershing.

Preparation For War.

Chapters describing American preparation for the war tell how Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, averted a general railroad strike just before American entered the war by acting on advance information on the Supreme Court decision on the Adamson eight-hour act.

Palmer, whose information was supplemented by two sets of the confidential telegrams which passed between the War Department and A. E. F. headquarters in France, says Pershing cabled Washington urgently demanding replacements three days before Germany chose her delegates to negotiate the armistice.

That same day, it was claimed that Baker, seeing the end of the war in sight, was writing a memorandum to President Wilson urging him to issue a statement calling on the peoples of Central Europe to guard against revolutionary violence on cessation of hostilities.

Goethals' Plan Opposed.

Palmer disclosed that Gen. Pershing objected to Baker's proposals that Gen. George W. Goethals take charge of the service of supply in France, and that Gen. Bliss function as the diplomatic intermediary with the allies, leaving Pershing free to concentrate on fighting. His reply cable opposed any division of responsibility.

The Hoover memorandum, it was stated, suggested that an American of Cabinet rank be named to maintain liaison with the Allies. Col. House was said to have recommended Mr. Hoover for the position. The plan, which was rejected, was to create a kind of a Roman proconsul in Europe, according to Palmer.

It is understood here that Mr. Hoover later warmly supported Gen. Pershing's stand for a unified American army. The memorandum, it was understood here, was furnished to Col. House at his request two months before the declaration of war. Mr. Hoover was then head of the commission on Belgian relief. His memorandum was regarded as part of many preliminary discussions for the purpose of developing the policies of the United States. Many suggestions in the memorandum were subsequently carried out. Others were altered as circumstances required.

BIG CHANGES IN U. S. POLICY ON EDUCATION ARE SOUGHT

Parents and Teachers; Dr. J. C. Merriam, president of the Carnegie Institution, and Dr. W. F. Willoughby, of the Institute for Government Research.

Previous Plans Rejected.

Nationally the committee included members representing the American Association of University Professors, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Academy of Arts and Letters, the American Philosophical Society and a score or more related groups.

The final report of the committee is understood to reject all previous plans for establishment of a Federal department of education, as presented in specific bills in the past in House and Senate. Instead, according to the preliminary summary, the new project would take the form of a national clearing house for educational information, a center for research and an agency through which to coordinate some 84 educational functions now scattered from the Panama Canal office to the Bureau of the Plant Industry.

Launched upon the work of formulating "the fundamental principles and policies which should guide and control the Federal Government's activities in the field of education," the committee, early in its deliberations, thus defined its problems:

"Vast economic, political and social changes have been occurring in the United States and they are modifying the administrative and teaching processes of the American system of education. It is time to appraise our circumstances, formulate our necessities and substitute an inclusive national policy of education for the present attitude of drift, with its piecemeal readjustments and its innumerable inconsistencies and confusions."

Local Autonomy Preserved.

In surveying the educational policies of some 120,000 local administrative units throughout the States, the committee found that the question of Federal relations had become "a problem of national dimensions" and "a disturbing matter in the minds of our people." Throughout its deliberations, however, the committee clung tenaciously to the guiding principle that local autonomy is the basis of American education and that any step from that principle could not be contemplated.

"The history of American education * * * reveals that there has been, politically speaking, a constant enlargement of the power of the citizens of all groups and of all communities, to say what kind of schools their's should be. * * * Every departure from that long, politically established policy should be regarded skeptically and accepted only when overwhelming evidence is presented that changes in our national life require detailed modifications here and there."

But the burden of proof in each case must rest upon the advocates of the departure, however slight, "from this fundamental American tradition, which expresses the essential wisdom of a long experience and favorable result in our national life."

Unconditional Subsidies.

So determined was this sentiment in the committee that the suggestion at one time was put forward that all direct Federal subsidies to the States be made unconditionally, instead of for specified educational projects. A counter-proposal suggested continuing Federal aid on the present basis for five years, after which the States would be free to apply the particular Federal grants according to their own policies. And to this was coupled the general expression: "New participations of the Federal Government in education, designed to meet changing economic, social and political conditions, should be inaugurated under tentative policies, regarded frankly as experimental, and subject to revision as circumstances warrant."

From colonial times, the committee emphasized in its historical survey, education has been accepted as a function of local government. So firmly was this principle established in the colonies that education is not mentioned in the Constitution. But the Federal Government made what was characterized as "a regrettable departure" from this policy when, in developing the land-grant colleges after the Civil War, it undertook to control to a degree the educational policies of all institutions sustained by Federal aid. More and more over a period of years the Federal authority projected itself as an influence in local policies, stimulating certain lines, supervising various experiments and otherwise attempting to give direction to local developments in about the degree it contributed financially to the support of local institutions.

The acceleration of this tendency after the World War so enlarged the sphere of the National Government that "Federal participation in the management of our education has become a public issue." The way out, as the committee sees it, is three distinct programs—local, State and Federal—"to supplement, complement and reinforce each other in the achievement of the common national purpose."

Communists' Kidnaping Denied by Legion Post

Council Bluffs, Iowa, Oct. 29 (A.P.). Members of the Rainbow Post, No. 2, American Legion, today passed a resolution instructing the post adjutant to confer with State and national headquarters, making it clear that the post had no connection with the abduction of George Papcun and Gordon Burroughs, Communist workers evicted forcibly from Council Bluffs Monday and Tuesday night.

Papcun was quoted in newspaper stories as intimating the legion was responsible for his kidnaping.

BETHLEHEM STEEL DECLARES DIVIDEND

Announcement of 50 Cents on Common Stock Comes as Surprise.

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—A weighty piece of testimony was piled on the heap of evidence of returning confidence in the outlook for industry with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation declaration of its 50-cent common dividend today.

Wall street had been inclined to look for an omission, or at least a reduction of the common disbursement, since it was well understood that even the preferred dividend would have to come out of surplus, but the directors unanimously ordered a repetition of the 50-cent payment.

The corporation's earnings statement for the quarter ended September 30 proved as unfavorable as Wall street had expected; in fact, was one of the worst in the corporation's history. After provision for depreciation and depletion and interest on its funded debt, this large steel maker had a loss of $1,502,002, before payment of preferred dividends. Provision for the regular preferred payment of $1.75 a share and the common dividend of 50 cents left a total deficit for the quarter of $4,852,002.

Sentiment Improved.

Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem, declined to comment on the action of the directors, but in discussing the steel industry as a whole said "sentiment has unquestionably improved. We think that in the last week we have noticed better activity on the part of the buying public. Prices are being maintained very well."

President Grace said the more active inquiry had not as yet resulted in any important increase in the volume of business on the corporation's books, but there has been a slight increase in steel making activity. He added, however, he was making no predictions.

Bethlehem's operations are currently at 31 per cent of capacity, a little higher than recently, but somewhat under the average for the entire third quarter, which is 32 per cent, compared with 41½ per cent in the second quarter, and 54.6 per cent for the third quarter of last year.

I. C. C. Action Encouraging.

Mr. Grace regarded the Interstate Commerce Commission's decision on the railroads' petition for higher freight rates as encouraging. "It shows some disposition on the part of the commission to help the railroads," he said, "which in itself is encouraging." The railroads are one of the leading customers of the steel industry, but Mr. Grace pointed out that the low state of carrier earnings had recently caused some cancellation of orders for railway steel.

The corporation's earnings statement failed to reflect the 10 per cent wage cut, which became effective October 1. Mr. Grace hoped that the "decrease in costs obtained through the lower wages now in effect will not be given away in the form of lower prices."

Merger Cancellation.

Mr. Grace declined to comment on cancellation of the merger contract with Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., or the prospect of a renewal of merger negotiations. He said his company had not considered the prospect of a British tariff and felt that comment on it would be premature.

The net deficit before dividends of $1,502,002 for the third quarter compared with net income of $1,452,743 in the previous quarter, and $3,783,425 the third quarter of 1930. In the previous quarter the company fell $297,257 short of its preferred dividend.

The results for the third quarter were similar to those of the United States Steel Corporation, which reported Tuesday, but U. S. Steel was able to credit itself with part of the profit of its per cent sale of the Gary Public Utility property, so that with special income it was able to show its preferred dividend partly earned. It also maintained its recent common dividend rate.

Col. Turner to Be Buried At Arlington on Nov. 6

(Associated Press.)

Col. Thomas C. Turner, Marine Corps aviation chief, will be buried at Arlington National Cemetery November 6.

Col. Turner, a native of Mare Island, Calif., died at Port au Prince, Haiti, Wednesday, of injuries suffered when struck by an airplane propeller. His body yesterday was placed aboard the U. S. S. Kittery, which is due at Norfolk November 5.

TEMPORARY SPEAKER URGED TO AVOID HOUSE DEADLOCK

President Hoover, that I could see no possibility of our organizing after December 7 and passing important legislation before December 15. The President undoubtedly has some definite program. As the matter stands, before December 15, important laws must be changed. Either we must pass legislation before December 15, or foreign nations owing us $245,000,000 must be in default. "A precedent for nonappointment of committees was established in the Sixty-third Congress, when the Underwood tariff act was passed. The only committee appointed at that time was the ways and means committee."

(Associated Press.)

A gruff "bosh" was the greeting Representative Wood, of Indiana, yesterday gave Senator Moses' prediction that the Democrats would organize the next House.

"Every presumption is favorable for Republican control," the veteran chairman of the Republican congressional committee said in discussing the New Hampshire Republican senator's remarks of last night.

"There is no indication, in my judgment, that the Republicans will not unite and organize the House," Representative Wood said.

"The insinuation that the Republican membership will not be loyal is unjustified. There is nothing in the situation, as far as I can judge, that warrants Senator Moses' prediction."

Representative Wood said the Republicans expect to fill four vacancies with party candidates before Congress convenes in December. Which would give them a lead of one over the Democrats.

"Surely, a candidate for the Speakership can be found who is satisfactory to both conservatives and independents," he asserted. "And unless there is such an unfortunate thing as another death in our ranks we will have sufficient strength to organize."

Wood said that the "Republicans have as good a chance" to get the vote of the lone Farmer-Laborite, Representative Kvale, of Minnesota, as the Democrats, "because all of his antecedents are Republican."

Representative Britten, of Illinois, chairman of the last House naval committee, said if the Republicans had sufficient votes to elect a Speaker, and did not organize, it would mean the House would be controlled by a Democratic minority.

Republican Control Predicted.

The Illinois Republican was joined in his belief that his party would control the next House by Representative Hess, of Ohio, who also predicted John Hollister, of Cincinnati, Republican, would succeed the late Nicholas Longworth of the First Ohio District "by a substantial majority" over the Democratic candidate, David Lorbach.

On the other hand, Representative Sandlin (Democrat), Louisiana, said: "It seems as if Senators Moses and Watson, of Indiana, are trying to force the organization on the Democrats.

"The Republicans have gotten the country into a mess and now want the Democrats to take the responsibility of getting it out," Sandlin said. "We don't dodge the responsibility and we can do the job."

Teachers Get First Salary Since April

Chicago Scrapes Bottom of Treasury to Give One-Month Pay.

Chicago, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The mails tonight carried one month's pay to Chicago's 18,000 schoolmarms and other employes who keep the schoolhouse running. Many of them had not seen a salary check since April.

One month's pay was all the school board, representatives of the city and county governments and civic leaders were able to find in the treasury, so empty because of delayed payment of Cook County taxes since the 1928 reassessment. The financial move that made possible this one month's check resulted from the city's purchase in cash of $4,600,000 in 1931 school tax anticipation warrants.

To the teachers the prospect of the one check brought future pay days and back pay days. The board owes them $17,000,000, of which they accepted $6,000,000 in scrip.

FORD SHOPS RETURN TO $6 MINIMUM PAY

Increased Wages Have Cost Company $35,176,101, Statement Says.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The Ford Motor Co. announced today that its shops have returned to the $6-a-day minimum wage which was in effect before Henry Ford increased it to $7 on December 1, 1929.

The announcement, which said the change was made three weeks ago, referred to the dollar added in 1929 as a "depression dollar," and to the $7 rate as an "emergency rate." The increased wage, it said, cost the company $35,176,101, or an average of $1,600,000 a month during the 22 months it was in effect. Total payrolls for the 22 months, the statement said, amounted to $397,442,837.

After Hoover Conference.

The increase to a $7 minimum, which, the statement said, was accompanied by proportionate increases to employes drawing higher wages than the old $6 minimum, was announced by Mr. Ford when he attended President Hoover's conference of business leaders at the White House shortly after the stock market collapse of 1929.

Reports that it had been abandoned had been in circulation in Detroit recently, partly as a result of a heavy labor turnover at the Ford plants. Some men who had been asked for their factory badges were rehired at $6 a day, but it has been a practice of the company in the past to pay new employes a probationary wage, lower than the established minimum.

The announcement said that the $6 rate will be paid to newly hired men and that the old probationary rate of $5 has been abandoned.

Statement Is Made.

The statement which was made after several days of refusal to discuss the reduction reports, said in part:

"The Ford Motor Co. has not changed its standard wage rates nor abandoned its basic wage principles. Its wages remain the highest in the automotive industry. The minimum wage now in effect is that paid by the company throughout the so-called 'prosperity' period from 1919 to 1929.

"When the depression came, President Hoover called upon industry to counteract as far as possible the downward tendency. The Ford Motor Co., as its contribution to the betterment of conditions, added an emergency dollar to its wage rate, thus increasing its minimum from $6 to $7 a day. This was done December 1, 1929. Proportionate increases were made to every employe in every plant.

Russian-Born Painter Wins Chicago Art Prize

Chicago, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The eerie fantasy of a Russian-born and American-trained painter won him today the first prize of $2,500 and the Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Logan medal at the Art Institute's annual exhibition of paintings and sculptures.

Basing its award on originality and creative ability rather than initiative qualities, the jury selected Morris Kantor's weird "Haunted House"—the interior of a colonial room flooded with light and surrounded by fantastic forms of houses against a night sky, a menacing shadow of a man with roofs on his back cast over one wall.

LEADERS BELITTLE ECONOMIC COUNCIL

Practical Value of Plan Held Doubtful at Hearing by Senate Committee.

(Associated Press.)

Proposals for a national economic council to steer the ship of American business away from future squalls were belittled yesterday by James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, and Gov. Eugene Meyer, of the Federal Reserve Board.

Both, testifying before a Senate manufacturers subcommittee, expressed doubt of the practical value of plans suggested by economists for setting up an agency to post danger signals as a warning to the public.

Mr. Meyer summarized his testimony with the statement that "the voice of warning" in times of inflation is "inarticulate."

Mr. Farrell said the idea would not work as far as the steel industry is concerned, but added the suggestion might be worth trying out.

The steel executive, large framed and white haired, discussed financial and economic problems for more than an hour across the committee table with Chairman La Follette and Senator Sheppard (Democrat), Texas.

Predicts Better Days.

He predicted better days in the near future for the steel industry. Employment in his own company, he said, is beginning to show an upward movement.

He expressed opposition to abolition of the antitrust laws but said some modification might enable a certain degree of stabilization in industry.

When Mr. Meyer took the witness chair he found his arch senate foe, Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, facing him from across the table. Senator Brookhart is not a member of the committee, but apparently attended to hear Mr. Meyer's testimony.

"The voice of warning," Mr. Meyer said, "is the most valuable in times of expansion and the most scarce and the most inarticulate." He added that if the "voice of warning" were far enough ahead to do any good it would be accused of being unpatriotic and would not be heeded.

Sphere of Action Limited.

The reserve board had expressed hope it would be possible by stabilization of industry to avoid in the future the wide variations of the past.

He said the reserve system could play a part in bringing about stabilization but its sphere of action is limited. He expressed the opinion there must be some changes in the banking laws along lines now being considered by the Senate banking committee, but did not go into detail.

Banks, he said, were misled and went beyond the bounds of justified optimism during the boom days. Excessive loans were made abroad, he added.

The committee received additional testimony yesterday in favor of a planning board from Dr. Lewis L. Lorwin, of the Brookings Institution, of this city.

Dr. Lorwin described the experience of European governments with economic councils and said they had succeeded "only moderately well," but in the face of a great many difficulties.

Police Seeking Kin Of Man Picked Up

Unidentified Young Man Is Found Wandering Near Ellicott City.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 29. — Efforts were being made here tonight to ascertain the identity of a 21-year-old white man, well dressed, and apparently of good family, found wandering on Columbia pike, near Ellicott City, yesterday. The man, apparently an amnesia sufferer, once mentioned the name "William Roland West" in answering police inquiries at the Ellicott City Jail, where he is being held.

Chief of Police Julius Wosch, of Ellicott City, picked the man up, after drivers of several cars with whom he had obtained lifts from the direction of Washington, had stopped and reported his unusual actions. Wosch said the man was 5 feet 11 inches tall, wore a gray suit, raincoat, and was hatless.

A label in the raincoat worn by the young man bore a label, "Murray's, Chester, Pa.," and drivers of cars that had picked him up said he had two suitcases. The baggage was not in his possession when he was picked up.

Trade Hope Seen By Reserve Bank

Improvement Over August Noted; Sales Losses Decrease.

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—While there was no "boom" in trade in the New York Federal Reserve district during September, the monthly review of credit and business conditions by the reserve agent finds that things were not quite so bad as they were in August.

The review states that "sales of reporting wholesale firms in this district averaged 20 per cent smaller in September than a year previous, a decline slightly less than that shown in August. Large declines from a year ago continued to be reported in the sales of groceries, shoes, paper, cotton goods, hardware, stationery and diamonds.

"Jewelry sales also remained considerably below the 1930 volume, but the decrease was the smallest in several months; the decline in sales of men's clothing was the smallest since June, and drug sales compared more favorably with a year ago than in August."

Warren Delano Robbins Hurt in Fall From Horse

(Associated Press.)

A fall from a horse caused Warren Delano Robbins, assistant chief of protocol at the State Department and ceremonial officer of the White House, to appear at the Executive Mansion with his left arm in a plaster cast yesterday.

Robbins broke a bone in his wrist in a tumble at Warrenton, Va., as his mount was taking a fence during a hunt.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

NOTHING GIVES SO MUCH FOR SO LITTLE

$14,000,000 ESTATE WAS LEFT BY EDISON

Widow Previously Provided For and Youngest Sons to Receive Bulk.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 29 (U.P.)—Thomas Alva Edison left an estate of more than $14,000,000, it was learned today when his will was filed for probate in the surrogate's court of Essex County. The bulk of the fortune was bequeathed to the inventor's two youngest sons, Charles and Theodore M. Edison.

There was no bequest to charity, to science, to art or to education. Nor was there a bequest to the widow, but the will explained that provision has been made for her. Edison, during his life, had been a generous giver to his favorite philanthropies.

Edison's four other children, three by his first marriage, are to share the income from a trust fund. Charles and Theodore are to receive equal shares of this income with the others. The inventor named Charles and Theodore as executors, and administrators of the estate.

Few Mentioned in Will.

Only three persons, outside the immediate family, were mentioned in the document. Francis P. Ott, a technical associate of the inventor's for many years, is to receive $8,000. His brother, John F. Ott, who died the day after Edison's death, was bequeathed $10,000. Another $10,000 goes to William F. Meadowcroft, Edison's secretary for many years.

All the inventor's shares of the capital stock of Thomas A. Edison, Inc., are to be divided evenly between Charles and Theodore. Edison controlled all of the capital stock of the corporation and had extensive real estate holdings.

After the will had been filed Charles Edison revealed that Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone and Edison's six children are partners in a new corporation, the Edison Botanic Co., which will carry on the rubber interests left by the inventor.

Synthetic Rubber Outlook.

Shortly before his death Edison's efforts to extract rubber from the goldenrod were crowned with success. He had spent the last years of his life experimenting with various plants.

Charles Edison said that under present market conditions it would be too expensive to produce synthetic rubber, but he pointed out that in time of war when the natural supply would be cut off, the process would be extremely valuable.

The six children jointly hold one-third of the company while Ford and Firestone each have a third.

Credit Body Loans Ready in Fortnight

Chairman Reynolds Says Company Will First Build Soundly.

Chicago, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—George M. Reynolds, Chicago banker and chairman of the board of the National Credit Corporation, said today he expected money from the giant corporation to be available before November 15 in support of the country's credit situation.

"From present indications," Reynolds said, "the corporation should be making actual loans within two weeks from today. Of course, this is a big project, and should not be advisable to go so rapidly as to omit any essential step.

"It is necessary to get all the subscriptions in, and when those are completed a call must be sent for the funds needed at first. It is just as important to build soundly as to build quickly."

Farmer Amputates Own Injured Hand

Uses His Pocket-Knife to Free Limb Caught in Machine.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 29 (U.P.).—John Oglesby amputated his own right hand with a pocket knife today after it had been injured in a corn shucking machine.

The accident occurred while Oglesby, a 44-year-old farmer, was helping a neighbor with the machine. When his hand was drawn into the gears, he worked for half an hour to free himself, but was unsuccessful. He then took his knife from his pocket, opened it with his teeth and handed it to Frank Sharp, tenant farmer.

"Please cut my hand off," directed Oglesby. "It hurts."

Sharp took the knife, but could not bring himself to perform the operation. Finally Oglesby could bear the pain no longer, and he did the job himself.

Check on Hoarding Is Seen in Report

Reserve Board Shows Trend of Money in Circulation.

(Associated Press.)

Indication that hoarding had been checked was seen yesterday in a Federal Reserve Board statement that there was a $24,000,000 decrease in money in circulation for the week ended October 28.

In the last year, however, the increase has been $1,054,000,000. At the close of business last Wednesday the total money in circulation was $5,480,000,000. While the sum was on the increase, officials attributed it to hoarding by persons who feared to trust their money to banks. They added there was no greater demand for money than a year ago.

The board's statement also showed a continuance of gold exports, with the decrease in monetary gold stock for the week reaching $49,000,000. Last September 16 the stock was $5,015,000,000; Wednesday it was $4,387,000,000.

Gandhi to Visit Ireland For Informal Conference

London, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—The Mahatma M. K. Gandhi will visit Ireland and confer informally with members of all political parties immediately after the India round table conference is concluded, the Daily Express will say tomorrow.

Court Orders Ruth Judd Back to Phoenix for Trial

Writ of Habeas Corpus Dissolved as Counsel Reach Accord.

Los Angeles, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—Winnie Ruth Judd, confessed killer of two women companions, will be moved to the Phoenix, Ariz., county jail tonight, Sheriff J. R. McFadden told the United Press.

"We should get to Phoenix early tomorrow morning," he said.

He did not announce exactly what route would be followed.

Paul Schenck, Mrs. Judd's attorney, did not oppose dissolution of a writ of habeas corpus, the writ was dissolved on the understanding that Mrs. Judd would not be moved until tomorrow.

Previously, another attorney, Louis P. Russell, who was discarded today in favor of Schenck, had announced that he would fight extradition in every way possible. No reason was given for the latest shift in counsel, Schenck being the fifth attorney enlisted in Mrs. Judd's defense since her arrest.

There was some mystery surrounding the mode of transportation that will be used to take Mrs. Judd to Phoenix. Sheriff James R. McFadden said the trip would be made in a trimotored plane owned by Lynn Lockhart, of Phoenix, but later announced an automobile would be used. Many believed the woman would be spirited away to an airport.

Fred Williams, who said he was a chemist from El Paso and told police he had helped Mrs. Judd kill the two women, was released from custody tonight after being held as a material witness for almost two days.

Authorities did not believe any part of his story, and Sheriff McFadden, who said the youth's face "looked familiar," expressed the opinion that he had been hanging about Phoenix and told the amazing tale merely "to get a free ride back to Arizona."

HOOVER TO NAME COMMITTEE TO SIFT NAVY LEAGUE CHARGE

restrict, to reduce and to starve the United States Navy—under the present plea of budget limitation on which we may have further cause to comment."

Mr. Gardiner used the "abysmal ignorance" expression in commenting on the President's proposal some time ago that food ships be made immune from attack in time of war.

"It would be difficult," his statement said, "to express too much regret that the most humanitarian of pacific intentions has led President Hoover into exhibiting abysmal ignorance of why navies are maintained and how they are used to accomplish their major mission that his proposal to immunize sea-borne food supplies displayed to those here and abroad who are intimately conversant with maritime matters.

"For, acceptance of his suggestion would have * * * made for bigger and bloodier wars. And, yet, such is the psychology that is not only controlling our internal naval policy but dictating its external subordination to those of foreign naval powers."

Early yesterday morning, reporters, feeling that it was unbelievable that President Hoover could let Mr. Gardiner's statement go unchallenged, besieged Theodore Joslin, secretary to the President. What, they wanted to know, was the President going to do? Would he hit back?

Issued Late in Day.

Evidently, the President made up his mind what he would do late in the afternoon. His announcement that he would show Gardiner's remarks to be "untruths and distortions of the facts" was issued after 6 o'clock.

The manner in which the President proposes to go about forcing a "public correction" from Mr. Gardiner is unusual.

The President is not exactly placing himself on trial. The committee he will appoint, a committee including members of Mr. Gardiner's own organization, will not pass on the evidence in the case. So far as is known, it will not make any report.

The committee will simply listen while persons representing "agencies of the Government will demonstrate these untruths and distortions of fact."

Evidently, only the Government agencies are to lay evidence before the committee, with any possible rebuttal from Mr. Gardiner ruled out.

Surprised at Suggestion.

Last night Mr. Gardiner, who lives at the Powhatan Hotel, made this brief statement:

"I am somewhat surprised at the suggestion of the President that he himself will appoint a commission to look into matters touching on administrative policy, especially in view of the fact, as I understand it, that the Congress is the investigating branch of the Government.

"Of course, I should welcome a congressional investigation that would bring out and publish all the pertinent facts."

The row between President Hoover and Mr. Gardiner is the climax of a controversy that has been going on for two months.

Determined to Have Economy.

President Hoover is determined that all departments of the Government shall economize in the next fiscal year and thus help offset the tremendous deficit that is steadily piling up.

The Navy was the first of the departments to come under the President's economy ax. The President asked Secretary of the Navy Adams and the ranking admirals to reduce the 1933 budget from $401,000,000 to $340,000,000.

While this was being done, something occurred, something was said or written that caused the President to become extremely angry with those individuals he believed were starting a "backfire" against his naval economy program.

About three weeks ago, Secretary Adams and the admirals submitted a revised budget, with close to $61,000,000 lopped off.

Proposed Reductions.

They proposed that the reduction be effected by closing the Boston, Mass., Navy Yard, the Charleston, S. C., Navy Yard and the Newport, R. I., Naval Training Station; by temporarily laying up several battle craft, by closing radio stations, arsenals and other naval structures, by delaying construction of a new Naval Hospital here, by scrapping the Navy Band and by laying up the frigate Constitution.

This program has caused a terrific backfire from the communities to be affected, and a bitter fight in Congress is in prospect.

A few days ago, President Hoover announced he had no intention of seeing the Navy Band scrapped or having Old Ironsides laid up.

It may be a libel on them, but the admirals are being accused of recommending the abandonment of the band and the laying up of the old frigate simply to start a sentimental backfire against the economy program.

Threatened to Ask Public Aid.

At one stage in the controversy President Hoover threatened to carry his fight to the country. Later he did issue a statement calling on the public to back him up in his economy drive.

From time to time there have been reports that Secretary of the Navy Adams would resign. The rumor reached its most torrid pitch the day Adams left the White House after submitting his slashed budget to the President. As he emerged from the White House he seemed extremely melancholy. When asked that evening if he would resign, he smiled and made a negative answer.

Mr. Gardiner's pamphlet, in reviewing the naval policy of Mr. Hoover from the time he held up cruiser construction down to today, said that the President, in conversations with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain at the Rapidan in 1929 "reached agreements that have never officially been divulged in their entirety."

Refusal Pointed Out.

"This suggests," the pamphlet continued, "why the administration refused to allow even an executive session of the Senate committee on foreign relations to see the full record of its negotiations and possible commitments preparatory to the London Naval Conference of 1930."

Shortly before he issued his statement late yesterday with regard to Gardiner, President Hoover approved the American reply to the League of Nations, accepting that body's proposal for a one-year holiday on naval construction.

With regard to this holiday proposal, Mr. Gardiner had said the day before that it would "serve British and Japanese interests to the prejudice of analogous interests of the United States, although the responsibility of the President is primarily to and for the United States."

Kerens Loses Plea For Estate Share

Son of Late Ambassador Is Denied Rehearing in $1,900,000 Case.

St. Louis, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today denied a motion of Vincent Kerens, son of the late Richard C. Kerens, former Ambassador to Austria-Hungary, for a rehearing of the case in which the court disapproved the proposed payment to Kerens of the principal of his $1,900,000 share of his father's estate. Former Senator James A. Reed, of Kansas City, is one of Kerens' attorneys.

The Court of Appeals also denied a motion by the St. Louis Union Trust Co. for modification of the expressions of its disapproval of the trust company's action in seeking, as trustee, to pay Kerens his share under the provisions of the elder Kerens' will that it should be paid to him when he could show five consecutive years of continued sobriety and good behavior.

LABOR TO GIVE AID TO OWN JOBLESS

City-Wide Conference Is Addressed by E. F. McGrady.

Declaring that "organized labor will take care of its own," and abjuring those present that "if any member of organized labor comes to you, don't give him a dime. Send him to us," Edward F. McGrady, of the American Federation of Labor, proved the sensation of last night's meeting of the city-wide conference on social work, held under the auspices of the Council of Social Agencies at the United States Chamber of Commerce Building. Mr. McGrady, who had just returned from the national meeting at Chicago, said that conditions here are much better than in the industrial centers.

He declared that the chief problem is the self-supporting young woman and the so-called "white collar" type of man out of employment, and predicted that the civil service employes of the Government would be asked before long to divide time with some of those unemployed, in order that all might live without charity. He said that members of organized labor are already giving part time to their less fortunate fellows.

Government Aid.

Ferry K. Heath, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, said that the Government, while spending approximately $10,000,000 a month on building, can not replace the building program of other cities, but that this work acts as a stimulus toward encouraging other builders to construct buildings of various kinds. He said that this was not the case in Washington, where the Government will spend $70,000,000 in the next two years in its building program, a sum equal to Washington's usual program. He told how this building by the Government is helping Washington.

George Adams, secretary of the committee on unemployment, told of the work of that committee in the last year, stating that it had furnished 20,000 hours of made work in that period and hoped to do much better this year. He spoke of plans for raising funds now under way.

Edward A. Rule, chairman of the committee on unemployment of the Cosmopolitan Club, told of the plans adopted by the service clubs, whereby each member pledges himself to give a certain amount of extra work each week. He said that twelve clubs had adopted the plan and that it was becoming a national issue in some instances.

E. C. Graham, chairman of the committee on unemployment, told of prospects ahead of his committee this winter. He advocated the hiring of the person most needing a job when an opening occurs, giving preference to men with families.

The Rev. John A. Ryan, of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, indorsed some of Mr. Graham's ideas and told of effects of unemployment nationally. He, too, advocated work rather than charity.

Devoted to Cases.

With Paul Benjamin, executive secretary of the District of Columbia Social Hygiene Society, presiding, yesterday afternoon's session was devoted to a discussion of "The Newer Approach to Social Case Work." Miss Laura Merrill, of the Philadelphia Family Society, read a paper on this subject, which was discussed by Miss Margaret Hagan, director of psychiatric social service at St. Elizabeths Hospital; Miss Edith Spray, assistant to the director of war service of the American Red Cross, and the Rev. F. J. Haas, director of the National Catholic School of Social Service.

The morning session was again devoted to child welfare, the needs of Washington in this particular being discussed in the light of findings of the White House Conference. Dr. William C. Fowler, health officer of the District of Columbia, presided.

Mrs. Clara M. Beyer, director of the industrial division of the U. S. Children's Bureau, spoke on the situation from an educational view, declaring that every effort should be made to keep the children in school and to provide them with the education that is their right under the laws of the District. She deplored the practice of permitting children to fill jobs which, she declared, should be given to adults, who in turn would permit their children to attend school.

Staff Too Small.

Dr. Fowler said that physical examinations were curtailed, to some extent, by the smallness of his staff which, while it has been increased slightly, is still inadequate for proper performance of its duties.

Thomas S. Settle, secretary of the National Capital Park and Planning Committee, speaking from a recreational standpoint, declared in favor for more recreational facilities for both children and adults.

Miss Louise McGuire, assistant professor of social economics at the National Catholic School of Social Service, recited the causes leading to dependency and delinquency among children.

Miss Katharine Lenroot, assistant chief of the U. S. Children's Bureau, discussed the papers of the three speakers.

Today's session will be a luncheon meeting at the Willard at 12:30 o'clock at which William Hodson, director of the New York Welfare Council, will speak on "Community Team Work in the Present Crisis."

Capone's Quarters Raided And Its Luxury Revealed

Chicago, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—While Alphonse (Scarface Al) Capone fretted in the city jail today, detectives raided his headquarters at the Lexington Hotel. No hoodlums were present, no shotguns and no bombs announced the officers, but they did discover just how luxurious a gangster chieftain likes his living.

Capone, they learned, rented the entire fourth floor of the south Michigan boulevard hostelry and a large part of the third. He had a private kitchen which sparkled with stainless steel; a living room cluttered with period furniture, five radio sets, and a bedroom, said the awed police, with the biggest and softest bed this side of Utopia.

In Capone's superkitchen the officers obtained their only captives, Head Chef Jimmy Arpadi, self-admitted expert in preparing spaghetti; Second Chef Joe Abruzzi, whose specialty was spumoni, and Joe Jones, Negro bus boy, whose duty it was to serve the "Scarface."

Arcadi, Abruzzi and Jones insisted they didn't know for whom they worked, although they admitted seeing Capone frequently.

Chief of Detectives William (Shoes) Shoemaker said the Lexington raid was his first in a renewed attempt to "put all the gangsters in with Capone, where they belong."

Capone lounged as best he could on a hardwood bench in his cell, awaiting final disposition of his eleven-year prison sentence for income tax fraud. He played solitaire, read a detective story, and turned down Warden David Moneypenney's offer of "congenial work pushing a mop."

Frank Bell Found Sane Must Die November 27

Chicago, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Frank Bell, who was saved from the electric chair two weeks ago by a last minute petition for a sanity hearing, was found sane by a jury today. The jury deliberated 20 minutes. His execution was set for November 27.

Bell was guarded by five bailiffs to prevent a repetition of yesterday's outburst, when he attacked prosecuting attorneys. Four other men were executed the morning Bell was originally scheduled to die. He was convicted of shooting Chris Patras, cafe proprietor, in a holdup.

Congress Faces Oil Row in Next Term

Independent Producers Plan No-Truce, No-Quarter Campaign.

(Associated Press.)

Oil will trouble congressional water again next session.

Aroused by failure to obtain a tariff at the last session, the independent producers are planning a no-truce, no-quarter campaign.

Their intention was made known yesterday by Russell B. Brown, of Tulsa, Okla., secretary of the Independent Petroleum Association. He said a $1 barrel duty on crude oil would be demanded. Appeals for this protection reverberated throughout the last Congress almost from its opening until the final gavel fell, but no action was taken.

CORN CREDIT POOL BEING ORGANIZED

Corporation Would Grant Loans in Seeking Higher Prices.

Chicago, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Farm leaders of several Midwest corn producing States agreed today on a plan for organization of a credit corporation which would grant loans to farmers and enable them to hold their corn for higher prices.

The pool, known as the National Corn Credit Corporation, would be financed by Federal and private funds. Representatives of the Federal Farm Board, Midwest banks and manufacturing concerns attended the conferences at which organization plans were worked out.

Definite announcement concerning the pool will not be made, it was said, until details have been more completely worked out. So far, the conferees indicated, the plan has not been set down permanently on paper, all of the necessary capital has not been pledged, and its legality has not been finally decided.

Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association, and sponsor of the conference, disclosed only the preliminary plans, but the proposed financial set-up of the credit pool was learned from other sources.

Incorporation under the laws of Illinois, with capitalization of $1,000,000 probably will be decided upon at another conference Tuesday, the delegates indicated. Loaning capacity of the credit corporation would not exceed $8,000,000 to $9,000,000.

One-half the capital stock would be furnished by the Federal Farm Board, represented by the Farmers National Grain Corporation. Bankers, industrial concerns and others would purchase the remainder of the stock.

Under the plan, the credit corporation would loan money to corn producers in several States, with warehouse receipts as security. The State departments of agriculture in Illinois and Iowa are empowered to issue such receipts, after sealing and inspecting the corn in the producers' bins.

Laval Aid And Bankers Discuss Buying Surplus

(Associated Press.)

Pierre du Pasquier, economic adviser to Premier Laval, returned to Washington yesterday from a conference with bankers in New York and planned to discuss further with the Farm Board credit arrangements for the purchase of American wheat and cotton to go to France.

It was repeated at the board that thus far no definite proposals for buying from board stocks have been made by Du Pasquier.

In New York, the Frenchman was reported as discussing methods by which American banks could handle bankers' acceptances for French mills. Du Pasquier hoped to have the customary maturing dates extended from 30 to 90 days to 12 months.

U. S. TO PARTICIPATE IN HOLIDAY ON ARMS

all nations accepting the league's truce. Secretary Stimson has convoked especially for this purpose the two men that were principally concerned in drafting the American note. They are also working on a comprehensive plan for reduction of armaments in accordance with the desires of President Hoover, and this plan will be sufficiently advanced at the time of Foreign Minister Grandi's visit here the end of November to admit of a general review of its purport with the Italian foreign minister.

Premier Mussolini is known to be in complete accord with the program of the President for the reduction of "crushing arms burdens" of the world.

The favorable reply of the United States to the league's proposal was generally anticipated. However, while its effect in the United States and other European countries has been generally discounted before now, the Italian foreign office probably will see in the American reply an indication of American and Italian cooperation at the sessions of the General Disarmament Conference which will create considerable uneasiness in France.

Foreign Minister Grandi will arrive in the United States within three weeks, and his conversations with the President and with Secretary of State Stimson will revolve very largely about the disarmament question.

Hoover Confers On Court Reform

Changes in Federal Practice Forecast After Hughes' Visit.

(United Press.)

Reforms in the Federal court practice and procedure was predicted yesterday following a conference between President Hoover and Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes at the White House.

The conference was understood to presage renewed efforts to bring about reforms and improvements frequently recommended by Federal jurists based on their first-hand contacts in administering the present unwieldy machinery.

The recommendations, covering reforms in the much-criticised bankruptcy laws, procedure to eliminate grand jury inquiries when the defendant indicates an intent to plead guilty, and the creation of several new Federal judgeships have frequently been made to Congress without avail.

Man's Leg Broken In Fall.

Slipping as he alighted from an automobile at Fifth and H streets northwest, yesterday afternoon, Alonzo T. Chesney, 56 years old, of 4410 Prospect avenue, Brentwood, Md., suffered a broken right leg. He was reported last night as resting at Sibley Hospital, where he was taken after the accident.

...sparkling vitality and a clear skin reflect rich, red blood cells

"IT is good of you to say those nice things," she replied.

Some people just "bubble over" with vitality * * * they inspire compliments.

Nature has its own way of making a strong body and a clear skin * * * by its use of the red-blood-cells.

So often the pressure of work and worry or some sickness "burn up" these precious red-blood-cells—then the hemoglobin percentage begins to fall and we wonder "what is the matter."

If this is your trouble, why not take steps to overcome it—remembering that a "tired feeling" may be a warning * * * so are pimples, boils and paleness.

A general run-down condition means a lack of normal resistance to infection and disease. A lagging appetite often leads to underweight and ill health in various manifestations.

You cannot be low in strength and be happy—let's be happy.

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

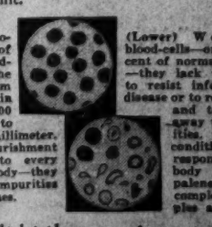

Enriches the Blood

Why you should be interested in your Blood Count

The above shows the tiny blood vessels (highly magnified) carrying nourishment to the skin. It is important for body and skin health, as well, that the red cells are up to full fighting strength in number and vitality.

Whenever bad complexion or blemishes on the skin are due to a low blood count, or to a lagging appetite, the condition can be relieved or benefited by a course of S.S.S. If you are pale, or languid, give S.S.S. a trial. It may help you as it has helped thousands of others. It builds red blood cells. It is a splendid tonic.

(Upper) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to the cubic millimeter. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

(Lower) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild flesh and to carry away the impurities. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils.

Don't let them count you out!

THE REDS TAKE A HAND.

Soviet Russia's apparent inclination to take a hand in the Sino-Japanese dispute over Manchuria is the most ominous development since the quarrel began. Officials at Moscow deny that troops are being mobilized along the Manchurian border. But the world has little faith in the veracity of the Communist government. Dispatches from China persistently report that from 20,000 to 30,000 Russian soldiers have been concentrated near Pogranichnaya.

It is highly improbable that Japan would have risked an offense to the Soviet by protesting against the mobilization of Russian troops if the Japanese cabinet had not been certain that such action was taking place. What does the Soviet intend? It is absurd to suppose that Russian territory is in danger of invasion. Apparently Moscow is preparing to take advantage of any opening that might give an excuse for extension of Soviet influence in Manchuria.

The dangers in this situation are apparent. Japanese troops continue to push farther into Manchuria to protect railroad property in which that country is interested. Frequently they clash with former Chinese soldiers who are now organized bandits. Moscow may find a pretext to send an armed force into Manchuria to protect Russian interests in the Chinese Eastern Railway. China has virtually lost control of Manchuria, and stands almost helpless between two traditional enemies, both of which have vital interests in Manchuria.

China has been relying upon the League of Nations to take up her quarrel with Japan. But the Japanese insist on direct negotiations and the league has been able to offer no solution. Meanwhile, China has allowed affairs to drift. Adequate protection for life and property in Manchuria has not been provided, and the menace to peace in that unhappy province is increased by the sullen threats from the Russian border.

In this hour of world-wide crisis China can not expect Occidental nations to pull her out of the mire. Japan has given assurance that her troops will be withdrawn and that friendly relations will be reestablished on the basis of existing treaties if China will negotiate directly. But if the situation is allowed to drift from bad to worse and Soviet Russia begins to interfere, a settlement on that basis may become impossible. Under such circumstances China would certainly be the loser. China has nothing to gain from an alliance with the bolsheviki on any terms. The greatest calamity that could happen to that war-torn country would be a new infusion of Moscow communism.

In view of these circumstances it is difficult to understand why China does not hasten into negotiations with Japan. Every day that Chiang Kai-Shek delays in the hope that the League of Nations may save him from embarrassment he augments the threat of an Oriental war at China's expense.

CONGRESS CAN HELP.

The next Congress will be confronted by an urgent demand for regulation of motor buses and trucks. After agreeing to negotiate with the Interstate Commerce Commission on freight rate increases for the benefit of weaker roads, the Association of American Railway Executives closed its annual meeting at Atlantic City by demanding the regulation of carriers that compete with the railroads. A similar demand arose at the convention of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners at Richmond. In common justice to the railroads action on this matter should be taken by Congress as well as by the State legislatures.

Carriers that use the public highways are, in effect, subsidized by the various governmental units. Funds supplied by taxpayers are spent in the construction of excellent roads that are used free of charge by truck and bus companies. The Bureau of Railway Economics recently estimated that those who use the highways contribute directly only 18 per cent of the amount necessary for their construction and maintenance. From 1921 to 1929 Federal, State and county governments spent on rural highways $10,781,444,000. During the same period motor taxes, including license fees, gasoline taxes, &c., amounted to only $1,854,510,000.

It is up to the States to bring about a better apportionment of highway costs. As matters stand the railroads are actually contributing through their taxes to the upbuilding of facilities used by their competitors. State legislatures will be asked to tax buses and trucks and thus relieve other taxpayers of part of the expense of highway construction. Regulatory measures for intrastate traffic will also be pushed.

Indications are that the Parker bill, which was accepted by the House and allowed to die in the Senate at the last session, will be revised to include trucks as well as buses. There are a number of controversial features in this bill that may be ironed out before it is again presented to Congress. But it appears highly probable that some action will be taken during the coming session. The Government has denied the railroads higher rates on the ground that they would stimulate competition by unregulated carriers. The recent findings of the Interstate Commerce Commission are a cogent argument in favor of putting transportation agencies on an equal footing. Enactment of regulatory measures for both trucks and buses ought to be regarded as a prime responsibility of the next Congress.

PROTECTION FOR BRITAIN.

General satisfaction in the United States with the results of the British election has been somewhat dampened by unwarranted predictions that a Conservative tariff will ruin British-American trade. Senator Hull, manifesting his usual cheerfulness, forecasts that exports to Britain will be "whittled down to a record minimum, not to include prospective losses to Canada and other colonies." The gloomy Tennesseean sees the Tory landslide as merely another retaliation against the Smoot-Hawley act, with naive disregard for Britain's internal situation which has brought that country to the verge of economic collapse.

It is by no means certain that the National government will enact a high tariff. The winning group is not pledged to a tariff, but to take such action as may seem necessary for the economic rehabilitation of Britain. Its objective will be restoration of a balance of trade. That may be accomplished to some extent by failure to restore the pound sterling to the gold standard. So long as the pound is depreciated British industry pays less for labor and rent and for some raw materials. This puts manufacturers of the "tight little isle" in a more advantageous position in world trade. Part of their expenses are paid in depreciated pounds, while the return from their exports is paid in foreign money.

It remains to be seen whether this differential will give British industry enough protection to make higher tariffs unnecessary. It is a fact, however, that the victorious Conservatives are determined to protect British industry against the encroachment of foreign competitors by one means or another. Americans can not fail to recognize the common sense of this policy.

Only Democratic politicians whose business it is to find calamity in the American tariff can see how protection for British industry will destroy trade with that country. It is not to be supposed that Parliament, under any circumstances, will levy high duties on foods and raw materials. The British people are dependent upon foreign markets for these supplies, and of course they want to purchase them as cheaply as possible. How, for example, could Britain aid her prostrate textile industry by taxing American cotton?

A large percentage of the exports from this country to the United Kingdom is agricultural, unmanufactured cotton being the leading item. Other important commodities that the British purchase here are tobacco, wheat, fruit, meat and lard, undressed furs, copper, lumber, gasoline, leather and industrial machinery. Being a manufacturing country, England does not take large quantities of American industrial products. Even if all finished manufactures were barred from the British market, this country would still carry on a lively trade in raw materials and foodstuffs.

One reason why the American farmer is in a serious plight is because foreign markets for his produce have been curtailed. If a tariff should make Britain prosperous, it would increase British consumption of American farm products. This country has every reason to be optimistic over the revival of which the British election gives promise.

FRANCO-GERMAN TRADE.

An interesting paradox of the postwar economic development of Europe is that Germany, politically antagonistic to France, has, nevertheless, developed a strong system of cooperation with that country, while Germany's amicable relations with England have not strengthened the commercial bond between the two nations. This is due to the fact that England is a business competitor of Germany, while France's assets and capabilities supplement those of her late enemy.

France for years has been the only nation to ease the German situation by taking a large part of the reparation payments in kind. Virtually every product that Germany could offer would compete directly with British industry, and, therefore, England refused to accept anything but money as payment. France has received every year a long list of German materials, of which coal, machinery, chemicals and coke are the chief items. France has preferred to use some imported commodities rather than to develop her native reserves. Germany has duly appreciated this privilege of keeping many workers as well as money employed at home, and the system has developed an interrelationship of German and French industry.

A number of export associations which serve the two countries have advanced this cooperation. In the case of the International Iron Steel Association, the quotas of Germany, France, Belgium, Luxembourg and the Saar are roughly proportioned as 16, 9, 4, 2.5 and 2, and orders totaling more than 30,000,000 tons are proportionately filled annually. Direct importations from France have also helped to strengthen the alliance. It is estimated that Germany purchases more than 3,000,000 tons of French ore annually, so that only Sweden surpasses that country in ore exports to Germany.

A new field has now presented itself for cooperation between the former enemies against their economic rival. Renewed shipping enthusiasm on the part of the British companies has become evident since the depreciation of the pound. The strongest single competitor of the English lines is the great North German Lloyd-Hamburg American combine. Were a shipping war to break out at this time the French lines would not find themselves in an advantageous position, and it might behoove them to reach an understanding with the German combine. It so happens that the German companies find themselves somewhat short of funds now, and it would not be surprising if French advances in this line would prove agreeable to Germany. Such opportunities are, furthermore, valuable to France, whose tremendous gold supply has become almost sterile.

WHEN WINTER COMES.

The American spirit is giving a good account of itself. Never, outside of war emergency, has such a nation-wide demonstration of helpfulness been inaugurated so promptly and so thoroughly. Busy men and women from every walk of life, quite regardless of political or other affiliations, are responding to President Hoover's request by organizing systematically and effectively to provide all necessary relief this winter.

From many sections of the country word has come that cities and communities have already subscribed the necessary quotas to care for the unemployed; that special work has been provided for the able-bodied who are without jobs, and that local relief workers will look after those who are without resources and unable to work. With remarkable unanimity cities and States have announced their determination to care for their own people. Outside help was neither asked nor desired, and particularly strong feeling is expressed against Federal doles in any form or under any subterfuge.

The large cities of the country are making extraordinary provision for the winter months. They are burdened with the care of an unusually large number of nonresidents who have gravitated cityward seeking work. In the free distribution of food and lodging in New York last winter it was found that as many as 70 per cent of the applicants were not residents of the city. Many smaller communities with limited means have given notice that their relief must be restricted to residents. In view of this situation the unemployed should not wander far afield, but should endeavor to fit into plans where they have some hold through residence or former occupation.

It is natural that New York should face the greatest difficulty of all in taking care of its jobless and floating population. The coordinating committee of the welfare council has combined the efforts of more than 100 social and service agencies in arranging their winter program, with the result that there are now facilities in hand to provide every homeless person in New York with food and shelter. When the metropolis can thus care for all within its vast area there is no reason to believe that smaller communities can not and will not be prepared to look after their own people.

We hope there won't be as much hypocrisy in deciding the gold question as there has been in dealing with the brass rail.

The Roosevelts are a normal family. One of Theodore's greatest ambitions is to keep Franklin out of the White House.

UP TO EUROPE

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

One important result of the Hoover-Laval conversations has been to return the initiative as to action upon the German reparations issue back to Europe. The French wanted to be sure that President Hoover would not, as he did last June, put forth any further proposals, that he would not even suggest, as has been urged upon him by American bankers, that the "Hoover year" of debt suspension be extended.

To this course the President consented. In the first place, Premier Laval probably laid before him a plan of action which appeared satisfactory under the circumstances. In the second place, there was the American Congress to consider. Mr. Hoover has obtained sufficient pledges from senators and representatives to assure confirmation of the one-year suspension of intergovernmental obligations. There is considerable doubt, however, whether Congress would so easily consent to increasing this period to two or three years. So probably nothing substantial has been lost by agreement with the French on this point.

What the French expect to do can not now be known. Two methods of approach are possible. Germany has a right under the Young plan to ask for a partial moratorium. France has a right to call a conference of Young plan signatories to revise, either temporarily or permanently, the schedules of German payments. There may be other choices, but one of these two seems the most likely.

Premier Laval, since he visited Berlin recently, must know what the possibilities are of a moratorium request by the German government. It could be made only at considerable risk, for such an appeal would seem to be a renewed acknowledgment of the Young plan and of the reparations provisions of the Versailles Treaty. The German Nationalists and the Hitlerites are intensely opposed to any move which would put Germany in a position of reaffirming the postwar treaties and agreements, and are prepared to go to considerable lengths to emphasize their stand. As the German Reichstag does not meet again in regular session until February, Chancellor Bruening might be willing to take the risk.

For the Germans to attend a conference called by France under the Young plan machinery might be a smaller risk, for, while the existence of the Young plan would thereby be acknowledged, the move for revision might take the curse off this method of procedure. Revision, after all, might be tantamount to cancellation — though, of course, it will not.

Premier Laval must also know how far President Hoover thinks the United States could go in the temporary reduction or suspension of war debt payments. So, with this much assurance, the French could, within the bounds of the Young plan, ease the strain upon German finance and President Hoover could lay before Congress proposals as to war debt payments.

Every one agrees that something must be done about these two sets of payments. There is, nevertheless, a danger that Congress, without bringing forward any alternative plan, may block any proposals which may be made by President Hoover. The presidential campaign for 1932 is already under way. The Democrats and insurgent Republicans do not want to smash American finance, but neither do they want Mr. Hoover to have the credit for saving the situation. Such is politics.

Evidently Satisfactory.

POST HASTE.

Senator Moses remains the same vindictive partisan. He is already saddling the Democrats with the woes of organizing the House.

China warns Japan, Japan warns Russia, Russia warns China—thus the eternal triangle becomes a vicious circle.

Paradoxical as it sounds, England has gone radically Conservative by a very liberal majority, and yet there is no consolation in it for either Henderson or Lloyd George.

Buy now what you can afford—spread the jobs—loosen up on credit—contribute to unemployment funds—that's the tabloid version of plans for business recovery.

When England puts a tariff party in power with a record vote it is rubbing it in on the free-traders of all the world.

Politics in Argentina is peculiar. The government announced that it was not obstructing the activities of the opposition party, but had merely annulled its nominations for president and vice president.

It will be interesting to see how long the British Conservative dog can stand being wagged by the Labor tail.

It is too much to hope that the rout of the Socialists and the utter elimination of Communists from the British Parliament will so disgust Bernard Shaw that he will emigrate to Russia.

The greatest compliment on England's return to common sense comes from Soviet Chief Stalin, who finds British mentality "inscrutable."

It humbles Uncle Henry Ford to announce a wage cut after all the years during which he has enjoyed rubbing in his ability to synchronize wage boosts and car price reductions.

Senator Hull, of Tennessee, is another one who asserts that American exports have been "reduced to the minimum by superprotection," without the least evidence to substantiate such a statement.

If decreased purchasing power throughout the world due to the depression and lower prices are considered, they will account for virtually all temporary export losses.

The British elections must be entirely over—even the king has been notified of the result.

That building you hear going on is Senator LaFollette erecting his czar's throne in the middle of the congressional see-saw.

DO GROUSE MIGRATE?

How thorough our students of birds become! When referring recently to the experiment undertaken by a professor at Aberdeen University to discover the secrets of grouse migration, if any, I did not know that he had ringed all the grouse on a particular moor. An example that may be compared with it was Mr. Chance's preliminary work when he was investigating "the Cuckoo's secret." He located and watched every single meadow pipit's nest on a spacious common and by this means, and this only, was enabled to anticipate the actions of the female cuckoo. The Aberdeen experiment should give not less remarkable results, says the London Spectator, if sportsmen (and poachers) will return every ring they find to the university. It is not unlikely that abnormal weather may produce abnormal movements in the covers.

If a Fool and a Wise Man Agree, What Is the Disadvantage of Folly?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

A CERTAIN MAN owned an orchard and employed an Indian to tend it, promising him in return for his labor two-fifths of the harvest.

When the apples were gathered and placed in baskets for the market, the man said to the Indian: "Is not ten greater than five?" "Much greater," said the Indian. "Then I shall do better than I promised," said the man. "Instead of two-fifths, I shall give you two-tenths of the crop."

The Indian knew he was being cheated and threatened suit at law. "That isn't necessary," said the man. "I shall call in my two nearest neighbors and leave the decision to them." The Indian agreed and the neighbors were called.

One of them was a stupid man who thought a tenth greater than a fifth and therefore concluded that the Indian had been given his just due and more. The other neighbor was an expert mathematician, but hated all men whose skins were not white. He also decided against the Indian.

Now what shall you say of these neighbors? One was stupid and the other prejudiced, and they reached the same decision. Was the stupidity of one any more of a handicap than the prejudice of the other? If each depended on his mind for guidance, and both were tricked in the same manner, in what way is a prejudiced man superior to a stupid one?

You have heard the old story of the mother and daughter who saw a drunk man stumble and fall as he tried to negotiate a street crossing. "Filthy, disgusting brute," said the older woman; "he should be sent to jail." "Oh, mother," cried the girl, "it's Brother Billy." "Poor darling boy," said the mother; "some filthy brute has got him drunk."

Do you think such bias rare?

What does the ordinary American think of Japan's butchery of Chinese? The Japanese, justified by might alone, occupy Chinese territory. Patriotic Chinese, enraged past endurance, strike a blow for freedom—as the American colonists did. In revenge the Japanese bomb and destroy helpless hundreds. The excuse is that the patriots are 'bandits." The brutality of it enrages Americans.

Yet the Nicaraguans who resented invasion by American troops were "bandits," also, and few Americans gave them sympathy.

It matters much whose ox is gored. The wrong of murder depends on whether it is done by a distiller or a dry agent. Repudiation of debts is vile only when other nations do it.

Bias is loss of mental balance. If a biased mind makes you agree with a stupid one, stupidity is your equal.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Bad Prospects in Congress.

New York Times.

When Congress meets in December it will have been nine months since one was in session. This was of no particular consequence to members of the Seventy-first Congress who failed of reelection. But to the veterans and novices who will make up the Seventy-second the deprivation has been cruel. Speech upon speech has welled into their throats, and nowhere to deliver them. There were the local newspapers, of course. But the floor of Congress is a national forum. This is where real publicity begins.

Mr. Hoover is not likely to be any better defended than he was in the last Congress. In the Senate there is almost nobody to say an effective word for him, because those who mean it have no influence, and the ones with influence don't mean it. In the House the closeness of the party division is expected to repress administration oratory. The Democrats have no program but attack upon the President. If compelled to indorse his acts, they will assert that action was too late. A purely political session is bad enough when there is a responsible party majority. When there is not, and in a presidential year, the prospects are gloomy for cooperation, constructiveness or restraint.

Or Maybe a Moratorium.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

When every man expecting a job under a Democratic President will pony up a dollar the party debt will be fully paid before Christmas.

Democratic Relief Fund.

New York Herald Tribune.

With the methods and slogans of a Liberty Loan drive, the Democratic National Committee is setting out to raise $1,500,000 before the national convention in June. It is to be known as the Democratic Victory Fund. All Democrats are asked to become "stockholders" in the party, help to lift the mortgages from the "old homestead," underwrite its activities until the candidate is selected and provide a $500,000 nest egg. Then they will be expected to respond to further calls, for the plan is to raise an additional $4,500,000 to carry on the 1932 campaign.

This is a pretty tall contract. There would seem to be room to doubt that it could be carried out in these times of depression. Indeed, it is a grave question whether, in view of the general economic conditions and the great need for funds for unemployment relief any party should undertake to raise $6,000,000 for purely political purposes in the coming twelve months.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Taxing Machinery Offered as Solution to Helping the Men It Has Deprived of Work and Wages.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Machinery, through proper management, should be a great benefit to mankind, releasing him from much arduous and monotonous toil, thereby giving him leisure for study, rest and recreation. However, it seems that machinery has become a source of evil, depriving workers of their jobs and the wages necessary for the support of themselves and their families; piling up tremendous fortunes in the hands of the already rich, and robbing industry of a large share of its market through the inability of the unemployed to purchase the necessities of life. By robbing industry of its market, machinery has not only become a menace to the worker, but to the manufacturer as well.

A man working pays board, rent and taxes; usually supports a wife and children, and purchases the necessary commodities for their living. A machine does the man's work, but assumes none of the man's responsibilities; yet, as far as earning power is concerned, it is a man—but as a citizen, it is a shirker, a slacker, created only to make wealth for the owners.

While taking its toll from the wealthy, a sales tax would place a burden upon the workers who are fortunate to have jobs. These workers are at present carrying a large part of the burden of the unemployed. Almost every working person has at least one relative needing aid. Yet tremendous drives are in progress to raise huge sums from these already overburdened workers. While trying to meet this obligation, the workers are faced with the fact that the burden increases steadily, as new machines are being invented and more men laid off.

Our legislators should concentrate upon what is needed to alleviate this deplorable condition, and distribute the amount in taxes, per man power, where it rightfully belongs—in taxes on machinery. If machinery is to take the place of the worker, it must also assume some part of the worker's responsibilities. It is not fair that labor and industry should be made to suffer while capital reaps all of the benefits of our modern inventions.

Commends Post for Supporting Stalwart Americanism—Time for Citizens to Wake Up.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial, "On Bearing Arms," in your issue of October 23 is deserving of the highest praise from every red-blooded American. It is gratifying to have in Washington a daily paper that is possessed of a desire to thrust American ideals to the front.

In this time of "undermining and tearing down" propaganda put forth by pacifists, communists, internationalists, liberals, socialists, and what not, it is inspirational to have something said that rivets the attention of all on sane Americanism.

If something could only jar loose from American citizens their exasperating, smug conceit and cause them to take a good, healthy interest in what is going on around them, the hallucination of the pacifists would soon be dissipated and the enemies within the Nation would run to cover. Rats are exterminated because they are carriers of the bubonic plague. The rodents of communism carry a far more dangerous disease.

Debt Cancellation Might Lead to Prosperity—or War.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Why worry about debt cancellation? We will get it all back with interest in the form of renewed prosperity with maybe another European war thrown in for good measure.

It was the Democratic Wilson administration that got us into this mess, and then they left it to our Republican friends to get us out. Of course, some people are naturally dumb, and it takes more than a war to teach them a lesson, so they stick to the Democrats.

TURNING THE TABLES.

The golf professional was ill; he called the doctor in.
"There's something wrong with me," he said. "I'm strangely growing thin.
My muscles ache, my cheeks are pale,
I've lost my appetite,
I have a gnawing pain right here and can not sleep at night."
The doctor looked him up and down, outside and underneath,
And said: "As far as I can tell, the trouble's with your teeth."

"My nerves are jumpy," said the pro.
"It's teeth!" the doctor said.
"My back is aching all the time, and when I bend my head
I have a touch of dizziness; my stomach's out of gear,
And something dreadful's wrong with me, I very sadly fear."
"Oh, no," the doctor answer made,
"You're sound as you can be.
The trouble's with your teeth, my boy.
A dentist you should see."

The doctor was a golfer, too, and later filled with woe,
In search of help and comfort, he sought out his patient pro.
"There's something wrong with me,"
he sighed. "I can not drive at all!
Though once my shots were long and straight, I'm slicing every ball."
The grinning pro observed his swing.
"It can't be that," said he.
"Perhaps the trouble's with your teeth—a dentist you should see."

FIRES SWEEP ON IN NORTH CAROLINA

High Winds Send Blaze Into Rich Woodlands Over Huge Areas.

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 29 (U.P.).—North Carolina's forest fires, worst in years, advanced before high winds to new and richer areas today, leaving behind more than 150 square miles of charred wasteland.

This huge expanse of devastated timberland was in the Pocosin country in the southeastern corner of the State, and did not include a large area in the mountainous western section, where the flames were extinguished by heavy rains early today.

Rain Stops Blaze.

Damage in the mountain counties of McDowell and Avery spread over 30,000 acres or approximately 50 square miles before the welcomed rain stopped the destruction even more swiftly than it began in the heavily wooded Blue Ridge Mountains.

It was in this western section that residents and college students fought fires successfully for a day and a night and at last saved two towns, Newland and Banner Elk, from the flames.

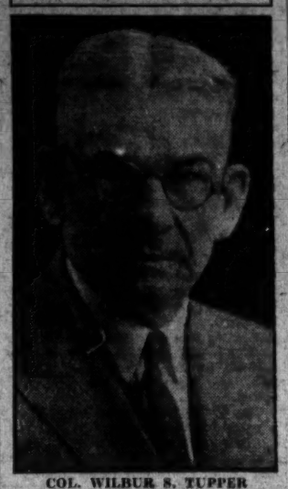

Over in the Pocosin country, around Wilmington and Kinston, the most serious fires were in Carteret and Craven counties, between White Oak River and Craven Lake, where nearly 100 square miles already has been denuded by the conflagration.

Jones County Area.

Heavy damage to more thickly settled country is threatened in Jones County, where the flames are spreading surely but slowly toward towns. A long strip 8 miles one way and 3 miles wide was doomed in Inslow country, east of the Maysville-Stella road, but the village of Stella, previously endangered, was saved by veering winds.

The blaze at White Oak River today reached and gained new ferocity in a great stand of virgin timber, where pine and cypress trees never before affected by fire or ax and worth many thousands of dollars were directly in the path and certain to be destroyed.

Mortgage Bankers Close Convention

Proposal for Federalized Discount Bank Is Condemned.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The closing executive session of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America today received a report which members unofficially admitted condemns the proposal for organization of a federalized mortgage discount bank for rediscounting real estate credits.

William H. McNeal, of New York, chairman of a committee of five appointed to investigate sentiment among members, made the report, which will not be made public until after it has been submitted to President Hoover's investigating committee, which asked for it.

It was learned from members that the report vigorously assails the principle of Government entry into business, declaring that loan rates would not be lowered through establishment of such an institution, and expressing fear that taxpayers would have to bear the burden of any loss.

Bob and Russell Trial Goes Forward Rapidly

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.)—Six prosecution witnesses were called and examined in rapid order today in an effort to complete the Government's mail fraud case against Charles V. Bob and Frederick C. Russell before the end of the week.

James Baird, engineer; James L. Rogers and Fritz Luis Boos, accountants; Harry Talbot, an inventor; Walter J. Jubien, brother of Louis P. Jubien, former partner of Bob in Charles V. Bob & Co.; Robert S. McClellan, engineering expert, and Arthur D. Parsons, financier, were the witnesses.

Kin of Mrs. Hoover Guests at White House; Turkish Envoy Entertains at Reception; Lindsay Gives Bride Away.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. HOOVER have with them for a few days at the White House Mrs. Hoover's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Robinson, of California.

Mrs. Hoover will go to Baltimore this morning to attend the meeting of the Alumnae Council of Goucher College when Dr. David A. Robertson, president of the college, will preside. Mrs. Hoover received the degree of doctor of laws when Dr. Robertson was installed as president last spring.

Mrs. Hoover received Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe, member of the executive committee of the National Orchestra, and Mr. Hans Kindler, conductor and founder of the organization, at the White House this week. Mrs. Hoover is a box holder for the series of symphony concerts.

Mrs. Hoover, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann and the Bishop of Washington, Dr. Freeman, head the list of box holders for the concert of the Westminster Choir next Wednesday night.

Vice President Curtis and Mr. and Mrs. Gann will entertain a company of twenty guests tonight at the premier performance of the new picture, "The Mad Genius." Many of the Cabinet and other officials have accepted invitations to see this premier.

Doaks Are Guests of Alexandria Masons.

The Secretary of Labor and Mrs. Doak were the honor guests at dinner last evening of the Scottish Rite Masons in Alexandria, at the George Mason Hotel. The dinner marked the close of the four-day reunion which has been held there.

The Cuban Ambassador and Senora de Ferrara will entertain at dinner tomorrow evening in the embassy.

The Turkish Ambassador, Mr. Ahmet Muhtar, entertained at a reception yesterday afternoon in celebration of the anniversary of the Turkish republic. Among the guests were the little house party which the ambassador has been entertaining this week, including the former Minister of Finance of Turkey, Saracoglu Sukru; the secretary to the former minister, Mukdim Osman; Ahmet Emin Bey, Turkish journalist, who is visiting in this country; the son-in-law of the ambassador, M. Nebil, who is on his way to Japan to be in charge of the embassy at Tokyo, and Mme. Nebil, who passed last winter in Washington with her father, and two young officers, Lieut. Tevfik, of the Turkish navy, and Lieut. Cevat, of the army, who are studying at Fort Monroe.

The delightful reception rooms of the embassy were decorated with a profusion of pink and white chrysanthemums and a stringed orchestra played in the hall hidden by clusters of tall palms.

Receiving with the ambassador was his most distinguished guest, the former Minister of Finance of Turkey and M. and Mme. Nebil, the son-in-law and daughter of the ambassador. Mme. Nebil was charming in a gown of golden beige crepe with touches of pale pink plaiting, and graciously greeted the guests, many of whom she had met during her visit here last winter.

Among the guests who gathered in the rooms downstairs and in the smaller drawing rooms on the second floor were the Cuban Ambassador and Senora de Ferrara, the Charge d'Affaires of Italy, Count Alberto Marchetti di Muriaglio; the French Ambassador and Mme. Paul Claudel, the Charge d'Affaires of Spain, the Marques de los Arcos; the Minister of Uruguay, Dr. J. Varela; the Minister of Switzerland and Mme. Peter, the Hungarian Minister, Count Laszlo Szechenyi; the Greek Minister, Mr. Charalambos Simopoulos; the Norwegian Minister and Mme. Bachke, the Minister of Guatemala, Senor Dr. Don Adrian Recinos; the Minister of Bolivia and Senora de Abelli, the Minister of the Irish Free State and Mrs. Michael MacWhite, Mr. Herbert Hengstler, of the State Department; Lieut. Don Lowrey, Mrs. Frederic D. McKenney, Mrs. Parker West, Col. and Mrs. George C. Thorpe, and their debutante daughter, Miss Jane Thorpe; Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Charles B. Drake, Mrs. Robert Hinckley, the Counselor of the Cuban Embassy and Senora de Baron, and the Military Attache of the Embassy and Senor a de Prieto.

Col. Allen Macy Smith and Mrs. Smith, who have spent the summer at Quogue, Long Island, have returned to Washington for the winter and are at the Martinique.

Wesley Heights Club Plans for Halloween.

The annual Halloween senior dance of the Wesley Heights Club will be held in the club tonight from 9:30 to 12:30. Mr. and Mrs. C. Everett Lancaster and Mr. and Mrs. Royal R. Rommel will be the hosts. Guests will all be in costume and the hall will be decorated in Halloween colors.

The Wesley Heights Club will give a party for the younger members tomorrow night. Mrs. Charles B. Heinemann, Mrs. W. Hiles Pardoe and Mrs. Edward J. Roth will be hostesses. A regular old-fashioned Halloween party will be given by the young people, who will come in costume.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Goodman, of New York, are at the Shoreham until the middle of November. They are planning a motor trip to California, returning to New York later in the season.

Miss Julia H. Hunt, daughter of the late Gen. Henry J. Hunt, United States Army, has returned to Washington after spending the summer at Newport, and is at the Martinique for the winter season.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

FALL PLANTING OF ROSES.

WHEN to plant roses has always been a debatable question. Now most dealers, and, in fact, most authorities, will tell you to plant in the fall, explaining that during the winter the roots have ample time to become established to support a normal growth of foliage and abundance of bloom the fllowing season.

To be successful, fall planting should be done as late as possible, after, as one dealer tells us, "the plants have thoroughly matured and the wood has been hardened by several good frosts." Where you have hard frosts it is wise to cover the ground with a mulch of straw to prevent it from freezing before you have time to plant your roses.

This is the time to prepare your ground for roses; in fact, it might better have been done ten days ago. Keep in mind that these plants must have a large proportion of humus (thoroughly rotted manure or vegetable matter), well mixed with any ordinary garden loam.

When actually planting set the hybrid teas 14 inches apart (remember we want an effect of roses, not soil). In Europe they set the plants 12 inches apart. Of course, the strong-growing sorts may be a trifle farther apart. Experienced persons know that where roses are planted close together they take care of themselves in some measure. At least, they keep the ground cool and shaded and usually because of this have better, healthier foliage. They also protect each other from winds, which are so harmful to roses in general.

Never plant or scatter isolated specimens through the grass. When so planted they neither do well nor are they attractive. Of course shrub roses, such as the yellow hugonis or rugosa, are exceptions to this rule.

Do not neglect to destroy by burning any leaves that show black spot, and to dust the remaining stems and foliage with Massey dust. After November 15 it is well to begin protection of your roses. This should be applied after the first freezing of the ground. After the first decided frost cover them up for winter, if you live where they need so much protection. Also tie down the cones to prevent the winter winds from whipping them about.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

These Selfish Parents.

MY DEAR FRANCES McDONALD: I have read with pleasure many articles which you answered and I hope you will have room enough to publish mine:

I took notice of an article by Mephistopheles expressing his viewpoint of sensible companionship. This kept me wondering why we all haven't got the chance to meet a companion with the same ideas of pleasure, enjoyment and life. I have often wondered myself why all sensible people, with a particle of brains, shouldn't act respectable and at the same time enjoy themselves sufficiently.

Here I am, a young, considered attractive girl who has had education to hold a secretary's position for three years. I am still occupying this position. I am not allowed to go out nights, or even one night a week. I am permitted to go for a walk, to a girl friend's house or even to the library, but when it comes to going to a respectable party, people who are acquainted with my family, the answer is no, because we get home too late.

This is only half of my story. I also have an older sister, who never goes out unless I go with her. We are always together and for that reason conisdered as very good girls by onlookers. We are not trusted by our parents, and I think this is one of the biggest mistakes that most parents of today make. We have a good knowledge of what is right and wrong and can take care of ourselves. We are agreeable at home with our parents and can not understand their selfish position. For this reason I very seldom ask them permission to go anywhere, because I know the answer is no, with a capital N.

Now, how on the beautiful earth, do they expect you to meet nice people if you don't associate with them and find out the way Mephistopheles did, the right kind of partner you would like to share your life with. I myself prefer the companionship of a person with the same ideas as Mephistopheles.

Won't you kindly give me your side of my story, Miss McDonald? Thank you in advance for your attention to my problem. A. D. C. F.

Well, my opinion of parents like yours would greatly shock all the parents on earth. So I will refrain from expressing it. I will, however, state that any girl old enough to earn her own living is old enough to choose her own friends, live a normal life and be a human being in her own right. If she submits to the thoughtlessness or the selfishness of two people old enough to know the dangers of thwarting youth she can expect to suffer the consequences of weakness.

Every girl who works all day needs relaxation and companionship at night and should neither ask permission nor submit to tyranny in the matter of seeking that companionship. Make dates and keep them. Go to parties among your friends and enjoy yourself as a normal human should. Your parents are about 100 years behind the times. They are seeking to retain the control exercised by parents of sheltered females of the dead past, while yet they enjoy the relief from the necessity of supplying the sheltering! If you can go forth to bring home the bacon, you can go forth to have a little much needed fun and diversion.

Assert yourself. Make a life for yourself before you become a freak of nature. After a few years of this unnatural persecution you will be afraid to look a man in the face. The thousands and thousands of self-conscious, sex-conscious old maids all over the world are the results of such unnatural modes of existence. Stop being an adult by day and an infant by night. Be a normal woman and live a normal life. (Now watch for the shocked protests of all the parents!)

Service Bid Is Received.

The Fidelity Construction Co., Inc., submitted the lowest of 22 bids today on the construction of a garage in the yard of the District sewer department. The estimate was $33,[illegible]5.

Jane Interprets the Mode

White satin, effectively draped, forms the evening frock of quiet distinction. (Courtesy of Mirande, Paris).

SHOES are changing their outlines rapidly as colder weather comes on apace—and always the changes make them more substantial and warm, the while they do not detract anything from chic! And isn't it nice to know that our shrinking feet won't have to go forth on a freezing cold evening, clad in one of the cut-out sandals that have been getting more and more cut out, and less and less sandal?

Operas, strap slippers and oxfords are all getting higher in a way rather reminiscent of Spanish and Viennese influence. That is, the part of the shoe that covers the toes is covering more of the instep, getting closer to the ankle, as it were. People with long feet who have depended for an appearance of smallness on short-vamped shoes didn't like the longer line, just at first—but when they saw how this longer vamp was piped and beaded and embroidered and decorated in a way to make them look as short as the old short vamp, they didn't care!

And, of course, this change to new lines is felt by all the popular materials, such as suede, alligator, dark glace kid, black patent leather, the novelty sharkskin leathers, and the latest and most attractive of all, bronze kidskin. No foolin' now, breathes there a woman anywhere who doesn't have a soft spot in her heart for bronze shoes? And what lovelier color and material could be found to accompany our brown and green frocks? And when this bronze kid is further glorified by discreet copper bead embroidery, it's just twice as irresistible as before!

The most distinguished and perennially popular of fabrics for evening is white satin. It's a favorite of nearly every type of women, blonde and brunette. And besides, if it is made up as simply and distinctively as the gown from Mirande that I illustrate today it needs no other claims. The cowl neck line is very softly draped, with a rever on one side only, and a flat bow posed at the waist line on the opposite side. The hip yoke is incrusted to the bodice on a diagonal line, and the skirt falls full and longer than most this season, as it touches the floor all around.

Don't ruin your white satin with gadgets that don't mean anything—it is lovely enough by itself.

And just the loveliest white wrap in the world had a very original wide-shoulder idea, so I sketched it for you today. It is of white chiffon and the wide band of black fox extends from wide cuff to wide cuff.

And how many lovely ladies have sat down in their brand-new and expensive velvet dresses, only to arise and find the back part crushed out of any semblance of newness? And in spite of the fact that every woman loves velvet, and that velvet is just the most fashionable material there is, many lovely ladies haven't bought it for just that reason. But there's a way, my dears—a simple but tricky arrangement of two black peplum-panels that lift out of the way when you sit down and cover the crushable area when you stand up, and if you send your stamped, self-addressed envelope right off to the Dare department of The Post for this week's leaflet, you'll find out how simple the trick is if you know how!

Au revoir!

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"SCORPIO.

IF October 30 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. and from 3:10 p. m. to 7 p. m. The danger hours are from 8:10 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 10 p. m.

October 30, according to the stars, will be irritating and a restless day, characterized by nervousness and "I-don't-know-what's-the-matter" feeling. Only routine work should be attempted. The younger people will sense more keenly the unsettled influences than the middle-aged or old. The former will chafe at fluctuating conditions, unsuitable family surroundings, and will lack any definiteness of purpose.

Children born on this October 30 will be hasty and bad-tempered. They will not have violent tempers, but they will be sulky and moody when things do not go their way. They will be industrious by fits and starts, and their lives will reveal no continuity of purpose. They will be "rainbow chasers."

You, if born on October 30, are methodical, with an exceptional faculty for influencing others to do their "durndest." You could easily become an able executive. Not only do you possess driving power without allowing it to be very much in evidence, except in results achieved, but you show tact, toleration, sympathy and unflagging determination. You are not always talking of what you are going to do; you go ahead and do it. Then you point with pride—a very excusable pride—to what has been done.

Your interest, too, in human affairs is great. You, however, often permit your judgment to be warped by unjustifiable sympathy for the "underdog." You are always ready to champion the cause—though it may be a forlorn one—of those who you think are oppressed or treated with a scant show of justice.

Your natural power and endurance are no mean factors, and you at times show too much eagerness to draw on your reserves. These should be built up, not depleted. You always have yourself in hand and are excellent in a sudden emergency.

Your horoscope denotes a life of intensiveness, with one or two serious physical collapses. You are destined to accomplish much, but more would be possible if you could school yourself to spread your activities over a longer period of time.

Successful people born on October 30:

Rev. T. J. Gooley Calls Selfishness a Block

Individual selfishness is blocking the recovery of business, the Rev. Thomas J. Gooley, assistant rector at Sts. Phillip's and James' church, at Phillipsburg, N. J., yesterday told the Cosmopolitan Club at its weekly luncheon at the Carlton Hotel.

If the world would "live up to" the motto of the Cosmopolitan Club, "Unity, Service, Action," prosperity would soon be restored, Father Gooley told the club members. Edward Rule, chairman of the committee on unemployment, reported that 12 of 15 clubs in Washington have adopted the "employment pledge" already subscribed to by the Cosmopolitan Club.

BIDDING GRAND SLAMS.

WITH slightly better than an even chance to fulfill the contract, a Small Slam is mathematically justified. The bid to seven for a Grand Slam is "a horse of another color." A Small Slam, vulnerable, will roughly net the winners 1,500 points. The additional premium for a "big one" is 750 points. Hence the chances must be better than 2 to 1, or, conservatively, 3 to 1, to warrant the bid.

Recently, in a week-end of play in Des Moines, Iowa, a young protege of mine learned, or at least claims to have learned, this valuable lesson. He held two tremendous hands, and refused to figure the swing in points from Small Slams to the defeated Grand Slam contracts.

West—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The Bidding.

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	7NT (1)
Pass	Pass	Pass

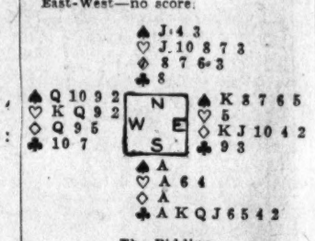

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraph.)

1—With 8 plus in honor-tricks, the Fourth Hand bidder realized that a Forcing bid of two diamonds could only bring a two notrump response. On the theory that the hand would play better with the strength in the closed hand rather than in the Dummy, as it must be if the two diamond bid was properly answered, he made his slightly optimistic bid. I'll let you answer the question, "Who wouldn't?"

The blind Opening lead of the spade 9 certainly enhanced the chances of fulfillment. Now, if the clubs break! Just a big hand gone wrong.

This is the other "power house."

East—Dealer.
North-South vulnerable.
East-West—no score.

The Bidding.

East	South	West	North
Pass	2♣	Pass	2NT
Pass	3♣	Pass	3♡ (1)
Pass	7♣ (2)	Pass	Pass
Pass

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

1—The heart bid over the three club bid was unsound. South had a right to anticipate at least a biddable suit. A two notrump response to an Opening Forcing bid is entirely justified.

2—Again, who wouldn't?

West made a bold but smart lead—the heart King. North didn't hold the Ace or his response would have been two hearts over the two clubs. Two club leads—a spade followed by a diamond lead—and then five more club leads failed to dislodge the heart Queen. Result: defeat.

In spite of my friend's forbearance to estimate the loss, the two hands figure a total of 3,230 points, not to be sneezed at, and if he reads these figures I'm sure he'll not only think twice, but look at his hand thrice before calling a Grand Slam again.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question: What is the point value of the first game?

Answer: About 400 points. Defense may take a penalty of 3 tricks doubled, to save it.

German Scientist Wins Nobel Prize

Dr. Warburg Honored for His Study of Respiratory Organs.

Stockholm, Sweden, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Dr. Otto H. Warburg, German scientist and cancer specialist, was awarded the 1931 Nobel prize in medicine today for his studies of the respiratory organs.

The Swedish Academy of Medicine, which makes the award, announced he would receive his prize from King Gustave December 10, when the awards in literature, chemistry, and physics also will be distributed.

Last year's Nobel prize in medicine was awarded to Dr. Karl Landsteiner, American, who is associated with the Rockefeller Institute, in New York. The honor has been conferred on German scientists five times since the fund was founded.

Broker Husband Sues Irene Rich for Divorce

San Francisco, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Irene Rich, motion picture actress, was sued for divorce here today by David Blankenhorn, wealthy San Francisco investment broker.

Blankenhorn, who became Miss Rich's third husband in 1927, charges in his suit she was "cruel and inhuman" in her treatment of him, and alleges she declared married life a "detriment to her career."

Virgin Islands Producers Protest New Competition

St. Thomas, Virgin Islands (A.P.).—Virgin Island producers of bay rum have entered a protest before J. M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol at Washington, against a new regulation which they claim is intended to level competition between their product and "synthetic" bay rum.

They also alleged that the brands of the Lonal product, all that is left of what was one of the most famous rum trades in the world before prohibition, have been misappropriated by manufacturers of the synthetic rum.

Van Meter Is Named To Post of Collector

(Associated Press.)

Gregory T. Van Meter was named by President Hoover to be collector of internal revenue for the First District of Illinois.

Mr. Van Meter will fill the Chicago vacancy left when Mrs. Myrtle T. Blackledge resigned after becoming involved in a gambling scheme.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

HEATING A RURAL SCHOOL.

IT is an observation of the New York commission on ventilation that in rural schools the heating of the room has much to do with the prevalence of minor ills, such as common colds. On the other hand, major illness seemed to be due to causes not related to school heating. It was found that the prevalence of colds differed in various school groups, whereas the prevalence of more serious diseases tended to be uniform among the schools of a district.

The report relates to schools heated by ordinary stoves, others heated by jacketed stoves, and a third group—one having furnace heat. The conclusions are based on observations extending over some time and made in one large county in a far north State. Such schoolrooms are very likely to be overheated except on very windy, cold days.

The temperatures which were found to be most conducive to comfort were those around 72, or about 4 degrees above the level ordinarily set. It was in rooms kept at this temperature that the pupils suffered least from colds.

The report rated the different types of heating in respect to the tendency to overheat. Jacketed stoves were found to be the worst offenders. Ordinary, old-fashioned stoves got the best rating. Furnaces came in between.

Important from the standpoint of comfort is the distribution of heat throughout the schoolroom. In the possession of this capacity or ability, furnaces ranked first, jacketed stoves second and ordinary stoves third. In the various tests that were made it was found that improper distribution of heat was the greatest weakness encountered in the heating of one-room schools. More than half the schools had records of floor temperatures that were as low as 60, or even below.

A difference of 13 degrees between different parts of the room was not infrequently encountered. Some of the pupils were in areas where the air was too hot, while others were chilled by that which surrounded them. The heads were sometimes in hot air, while the feet were unpleasantly cold from drafts and cold floors. There is great need for some efficient method of insulating schoolroom walls, especially for one-room schools.

PROBABLY NOT HARMFUL.

Mrs. O. B. J. writes: The water from the town water supply where I live is clear when it comes through the pipes, but if allowed to stand is almost red with rust and has an oily varicolored surface to it. There is considerable rust settling at the bottom of any water allowed to stand.

1. I want to know if such water is harmful to drink.

2. How often should water be analyzed to determine its purity? I think the water here is tested about once a year, or maybe less often.

REPLY.

1. My guess is that it is not. It is probably rich in some iron, and this goes out of solution as gases evaporate.

2. Once a year is often enough to examine a water for mineral content. It is not often enough to examine it for organic pollution and bacteria.

CHASING THE WARTS AWAY.

M. W. writes: It is a common practice among stockmen to put shoe blacking on warts, which they claim to be a sure cure.

REPLY.

I am prepared to believe that cases have been thus cured. Many are the wart cures with record of success. I have known of cures following the use of stump water, and also some cured by "conjure."

HINDENBURG ASKS DOMESTIC TRUCE

Aged Head of Reich Voices Appeal to Advisory Council.

Berlin, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—President Paul von Hindenburg appealed today to the men who rule Germany's industries to drop all partisanship and join in a domestic truce that the nation may weather its economic crisis.

The aged head of the Reich voiced his appeal at the first session of the economy advisory council, formed two weeks ago for the purpose of laying down a concerted economic program for the nation. Its 25 members include the industrial and commercial powers of Germany.

"I expect," he said, "that you will be animated by an inflexible will to ward off from our people whatever can be warded off by Germany's own strength.

Urges Dignity.

"Only the consciousness of devotion to duty and of supreme effort will enable our people to bear with dignity, and with a feeling that all belong together, whatever proves to be an inescapable fate.

"None of you will fail to realize to what extent Germany's situation is determined by world political and economic considerations. These constitute the great tasks of Germany's foreign policy."

There can be no help from abroad, the president declared, unless there is union of the divergent factions at home. He warned that collaboration between the government and the economic elements of the nation is indispensable if the condition of the country is to improve.

Compares Speeches.

Those who heard the 84-year-old president's appeal compared it with two other public declarations he has made since he became head of the Reich—his famous war guilt speech on his eightieth birthday in 1927 and his address in March, 1930, in explanation of his reasons for signing the Young plan. Only on these three occasions has he sharply broken his rule of reserve.

Chancellor Bruening, who originated the council and prevailed on President von Hindenburg to head it, outlined to the members the tasks that confront them. His speech was not made public.

The council is composed of representatives of Germany's commerce, industry, trades, agriculture and labor. Among the men who agreed to serve on it are Ernest von Borsig, manufacturer; former Chancellor William Cuno, president of the Hamburg-American Line; Herman Schmitz, director of the Dye Trust, and Paul Silverburg, industrialist.

Policemen Freed In Assault Case

Attorney Startles Court by Declaring His Distrust of Cane Users.

Park Policeman John W. Sheedy and Norman G. Henderson, two of the four men arrested on a warrant charging them with assault upon A. H. Hollidge, rental agent, in an apartment house on Fourth street northeast, last week, were found not guilty by a jury in Police Court yesterday.

Two of the others, George W. Lee and Edward R. Lee, did not have their case passed upon for the same jury disagreed as to their part in the affair. It is probable that the charge against them will be dropped.

Attorney John P. Mullen, attorney for three of the defendants, startled the courtroom when he said that "you can't trust any man who carries a cane." He was referring to Hollidge, but Judge R. E. Mattingly and one of the jurors are frequent users of the cane, and the judge promptly asked if he was included in the class of those who couldn't be trusted.

The four men were charged with attacking Hollidge, who lives at Wardman Park. Hollidge had several ribs broken, and to add to that he was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Sheedy's wife charging him with disorderly conduct. The case was dismissed.

Exposition Gives "Inventors' Night"

Whole Section of Floor Is Devoted to Display of Local Men.

Washington inventors and their families will be honored by the Washington Chamber of Commerce tonight, when "inventors' night" will be observed at the chamber's Seventh Annual Industrial Exposition at the Washington Auditorium.

A whole section of the exposition floor is devoted to displays of Washington inventors, past and present. The hand-operated gramophone built by Berliner when he was perfecting the disc phonographic recording machine, was loaned to the chamber for the occasion.

More than 18,000 persons crowded the auditorium yesterday and last night, bringing the number who have viewed the exhibits to near 60,000 persons. C. Francis Jenkins, Washington inventor, was unable, because of illness, to attend last night's display dedicated in his honor.

Scouts Collecting Clothes for Needy

Mount Pleasant Troop No. 51 Gathers Bundles for Red Cross.

As a part of a national program being carried on throughout the country by the Boy Scouts of America, the Mount Pleasant Congregational Troop, No. 51, are at the present time at work gathering bundles of clothing for distribution to the needy through the American Red Cross during the coming winter.

Commenting upon the work of the scouts, Marshall Field 3d, chairman of the national committee on operations of the Boy Scouts of America, in a letter to John Poole, president of the Washington Community Chest, said, "Boy Scouts look upon the present emergency as their biggest chance for service since the war."

"In the same spirit in which they gave their services in Liberty Loan campaigns, and in other Nation-wide activities during the World War, they offer their help in this winter's crisis," Mr. Field continued.

CREDIT BANK'S FATE HINGES ON PLAN'S RECEPTION IN PARIS

plan of forming an international credit bank to provide for funding of the $1,300,000,000 credits frozen in Germany.

Wall street bankers were intensely interested in his project, which in effect would provide for an extension of the so-called "standstill" agreement under which banking groups in the leading creditor countries have agreed to leave their funds in Germany until March 1. American bankers have some $600,000,000 in commercial credits tied up under this agreement.

Wall street bankers, however, appeared rather cool to M. Francqui's plan. While official comment was withheld, one prominent banker said informally that Germany first should make some effort to reduce these credits in order to restore the confidence of bankers in her financial affairs. This, he said, would result in bankers voluntarily extending fresh short-term credits. Somewhat later, however, it was felt that a plan of placing credits on a somewhat longer basis might be considered.

To Serve as Trustee.

M. Francqui, while reluctant to discuss his plan in detail with reporters, said he proposed "an institution which would serve as a trustee for international credits." Under such a plan, the credits which were extended six months from September 1 could be taken over by, the trustee, and extended for a longer time. M. Francqui declined to state how long, but Wall street bankers understood that a period of from one to three years was in mind.

M. Francqui discussed his plan with Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the governing board of the Chase National Bank, and with Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the board of directors of the National City Bank. He came to New York from Washington, where he is understood to have discussed the project with President Hoover, and is planning to sail for Europe shortly for conferences with Premier Laval, of France, and other leaders.

M. Francqui was the Belgian delegate to the meeting of leading bankers in Basle, Switzerland, under the chairmanship of Mr. Wiggin, following upon the London conference last summer.

Federal Reserve officials denied they were in any way interested in M. Francqui's plan, which appeared to be purely a private banking proposition. M. Francqui called at the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co. on Monday, but, so far as could be learned, has not discussed his plan with Morgan partners since his return from Washington.

Belgium's Leading Banker.

M. Francqui is regarded in Wall street as Belgium's leading banker. He is a former minister of finance of that kingdom.

The group of American bankers in charge of the German credit situation is headed by Mr. Wiggin, and includes Mr. Mitchell, of the National City; Thomas W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan & Co., and William C. Potter, of the Guaranty Trust Co.

Premier Laval Studies New Credit Bank Plan

(Copyright, 1931, by the United Press.)

Aboard the S. S. Ile de France, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—Premier Pierre Laval today studied radio dispatches outlining the plan for an international credit bank to release short-term credits frozen in Germany.

Although the premier did not comment on the plan to free investments of Americans, French, Britons and others in Germany, Prof. Charles Rist, honorary governor of the Bank of France, expressed doubt that either the French government or the Bank of France would participate directly in the scheme.

Prof. Rist said he doubted the utility of the plan and suggested other methods of releasing the credits. He said the creditor foreign banks might act directly to draw draft bills countersigned by the Reichsbank, which they could market at regular discount rates of the emission banks, without the necessity of an intermediary bank as proposed by Emile Francqui, of Belgium, in his reported talks with President Hoover in Washington.

Desired No Dollar Slump.

Prof. Rist, discussing international finances generally, expressed surprise that some leading American bankers had been reported as believing that the Bank of France desired a slump in the doHar. On the contrary, he said, the Bank of France's suggestions that the United States Federal Reserve Bank raise its discount rate was prompted by the fact that much gold was being withdrawn from America.

He said the low rate of the Bank of England has obliged the United States and France to maintain low discount rates until England went off the gold standard, when the necessity was terminated. As a result the Bank of France officials believe it is an opportune time for France and the United States to raise their rates, although France has not attempted to put any pressure on the Federal Reserve to raise its rate.

White House Is Reticent On Reports As to Bank

(Associated Press.)

Attention was given at the White House yesterday to published reports that Emile Francqui, Belgian minister of state, and international banker, had placed before President Hoover a plan for establishing a bank for international credits, designed primarily to loosen frozen short-term credits in Germany.

Officials would neither affirm nor deny the reports. It was said, however, that M. Francqui conferred at length with the President Tuesday night when he was an overnight guest at the White House.

Theodore Joslin, one of the President's secretaries, said M. Francqui's "financial ideas concern bankers rather than governments." This statement was not expanded, but was interpreted as an indication that the proposals of the Belgian financier might have been referred by the President to the bankers who would be concerned.

Mr. Joslin said the banker was "an old friend of the President, and was associated with him during the war."

M. Francqui has left the Capital and is believed en route back to Belgium.

Meanwhile, the Belgian Ambassador said he personally knew of no such plan as that reported for creating a bank for international credits.

Extension of Credits Seen By New York Bankers

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The New York Federal Reserve Bank issued no announcement on extensions of credit to the Bank of England and the Reichsbank, which are understood to fall due next week, after the weekly meeting of directors today.

It was understood in prominent banking quarters, however, that the credits, or such portions of them as may be necessary, would be renewed. It was expected that announcements may be forthcoming later.

These loans include the $125,000,000 credit extension to the Bank of England, through an arrangement to purchase bankers' bills from the Bank of England if and in the amount requested. It was recently understood that this credit had been substantially reduced, but it was not known whether this was merely a temporary reduction.

W. E. MOONEY RITES WILL BE TOMORROW

Funeral of Contractor Is to Be Held at Fifth Baptist Church.

"Mr. Mooney was a gentleman of uncommonly fine traits of character," a statement issued by the Building Trades Employes Association on his death yesterday said. "Both among the members of his own association and the various other affiliated associations Mr. Mooney was regarded not only as an outstanding business executive but as one of the fairest men in this highly competitive industry."

E. H. Rosengarten, president of the Building Trades Employes Association, will head a special delegation from the organization to attend the funeral.

Funeral services for W. E. Mooney, 62 years old, of 1544 First street southwest, prominent builder and contractor, who died yesterday after a long illness, will be held at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Fifth Baptist Church.

Mr. Mooney came to Washington 35 years ago from Charlottesville, Va., where he was born. He was a member of Amity Lodge of Odd Fellows; Lafayette Lodge, F. A. A. M.; the Washington Round Table and the Shriners. He was also a vice president of the Master Builders Association, treasurer of the Organized Bible Class, a member of the board of the American Temperance Life Insurance Co., and chairman of the board of deacons and trustees of the Fifth Baptist Church.

Mr. Mooney is survived by his widow; one daughter, Mrs. Grace Mooney Richards, both of Washington; a brother, Perley Mooney, and two sisters, Mrs. Rosa Bailey and Mrs. Nela Evans, all of Charlottesville.

WALTER J. TURVEY RITES.

Obsequies Will Be Held From Late Residence Tomorrow.

The funeral for Walter J. Turvey, who died in Sibley Hospital Wednesday after a short illness, will be held from his late residence, 2009 Wisconsin avenue, tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock. Requiem mass will be said at Holy Trinity Church at 9 o'clock, followed by interment at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Mr. Turvey was born in this city 58 years ago and was a life-long resident here. He was employed in the office of Robert W. Bliss for the past nine years and was active until taken sick several weeks ago.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary F. Turvey; a son, Carl, and three daughters, Miss Anna Turvey, Mrs. Mary Saunders, and Miss Edna Turvey, all of this city.

SIMPSON RITES ARRANGED.

Resident Who Died After Extended Illness to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Funeral services for Mrs. Rosa E. Simpson, who died yesterday at her residence, 2707 Twenty-fourth street northeast, after an extended illness, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at Zurhorst's funeral parlors. Interment will be at Addison Chapel, Md.

Mrs. Simpson was born at Marlboro, Md., 49 years ago and was a resident of this city for the past 30 years. She was a member of the Eastern Star Order.

She is survived by her husband, George T. Simpson; two daughters, Mrs. Ruth Hipley and Mrs. Edna Ferrell, and two sons, Russell and Robert Simpson, all of this city.

WAR DEBTS SLASH TALKED IN TREASURY

$2,500,000,000 is raised through national revenue collections.

Allied debt payments, under the present funding plan, would grow somewhat larger in the future, but even so, it was said, a scaling down by half would not materially affect the normal United States budget.

To cut the last payment in half, it was pointed out, would be to lop $125,000,000 from the annual installment. The tax now collected in this country on gasoline alone, officials said, was $500,000,000 a year.

Representative McFadden, who has consistently blamed international bankers for the ills of the world, had this to say about the Hoover-Laval conference:

"Steps for the relief of Germany are to be taken only through the present structure of the Young plan, and in accordance with the findings of a committee of the Bank for International Settlements which will determine Germany's capacity to pay. Whatever this alien institution decides upon is to bind the United States which thereupon will reconsider the capacity of the allies to pay.

"In addition, the United States enters an agreement with France for the support of the American gold standard, a thing which ought to bow the head of every American in shame.

"Are there dreams of grandeur in Washington which picture a Gallic peace in Europe created and maintained by the genius of Washington statesmanship?

"Great and dangerous departures from our traditional policies are now being undertaken. It is the part of wisdom that we check them before they are carried further. I have sought to emphasize the financial menace of the Young plan. It is more than a financial menace; it is the open door that leads the United States into foreign political adventures and into foreign wars."

Justice Proctor stayed at the courthouse awaiting a return of the jury, but when it became apparent that no decision would be forthcoming for some time, he left to go to his home, leaving instructions that he was to be called as soon as a verdict was reached.

Seigal's argument in his own defense packed the courtroom. His voice resounded so fully throughout the entire building that he could be heard in the far wings. Seigal took up every exhibit in the case—and there were about 35—and went over for the benefit of the jury each of them.

He again denied that he had bribed the guard, Harry S. Dean, either directly or otherwise, and in a four-hour stay on the witness stand earlier in the day, he vehemently denied the charge of bribery.

Audition Winners Selected Tonight

Boy and Girl to Be Picked in WRC Studios in National Contest.

Two Washington children—a boy and a girl—will be selected tomorrow night to represent the District of Columbia at the fifth national radio audition of the Atwater Kent Foundation to be held in New York City on November 23. The selection will be made in the studios of WRC.

The contestants will be Marietta Fleetwood and Ina Marie Holtzscheiter, lyric sopranos; Beverly R. O'Brien, contralto; Helen Zunkel Donofrio, coloratura; Hugh Phelps Clark, bass, and Robert W. Cushman, Leonard R. Davis and Edwin C. Steffe, barytones, who were recently adjudged the best of 40 entrants in a preliminary audition.

Freedom Is Gained By Thorne Suspect

Prochazka Released on His Own Bond After Threat of Habeas Corpus.

Frank Prochazka, who had been held in connection with the murder of Emanuel Thorne, is free on his personal bond pending a hearing on a murder warrant sworn out against him.

The hearing was scheduled to have been held yesterday, but was postponed until November 16. No official reason for the delay was given, but rumors were rife in Marlboro, the county seat, that the action was taken to forestall a habeas corpus action planned by Prochazka. It is known that no additional facts to connect Prochazka with the murder of the Marine private have been uncovered since he was arrested last Sunday. Authorities were apparently afraid that a habeas corpus writ would result in his being released on the charge.

Prochazka was proprietor of a garage in Greater Capitol Heights, near where the body was found last April, when the Marine's shallow grave was uncovered. At the time of his arrest it was stated that two more arrests were expected, but neither of these has materialized.

Alfred E. Smith was reproved yesterday for his criticism of New York's reforestation program.

His position was characterized as "regrettable ignorance" by Seth Gordon, president of the American Game Association.

Hains Point Plan To Be Heard Today

Committee Is to Tell Grant of Proposal for Eternal Light.

Plans to construct on Haines Point a national memorial to Thomas A. Edison will be discussed this morning with Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, by a committee interested in the erection of an artistic shaft at the base of which will be located a powerful electrical beacon whose light will be thrown toward the sky.

The group of men calling on Col. Grant includes Dr. Alexander Wetmore, assistant secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, representing science; C. Melvin Sharpe, representing electricity; Capt. Frederick Hellweg, superintendent of the Naval Observatory, representing navigation; Issac Gans, representing commerce; Stoddard Taylor, representing the stage, and Fairfax, Naulty, representing aviation and engineering.

In presenting the project to Col. Grant the committee will point out that no subscriptions are being asked from the public for the proposed memorial, no cost will result to the taxpayers of the District, nor will the Government be asked for financial or other support beyond furnishing the site for the purpose of the construction of the memorial.

It is expected that the project will be presented to the Fine Arts Commission at its meeting in Washington on November 2.

Government Seeks To Save Key Home

Commission Open for Offers to Rehabilitate Old Georgetown House.

The National Capital Park and Planning Commission is open for offers from patriotic organizations to rehabilitate the old Georgetown home of Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the commission, announced yesterday that the residence, now remodeled as a hardware store, had been purchased in connection with the plans to beautify the Washington approach to the Key Bridge. But the commission has no money to restore the structure to its original design, and is dubious about its chances of getting any very soon.

The Key residence, 3518-18-20 M street, was also once the law office of the author of the national anthem. Key took possession of the house in 1809 and acquired title to it in 1830, the commission learned. Hugh T. Taggart, father of Miss Etta Taggart, Washington attorney, owned the old Key home at one time.

ENGINEERS' BANQUET ENDS SESSION HERE

Association Head Reviews Auto Roads and Freights; Humorist Speaks.

While the speed of highway travel has increased from only 5 miles an hour, a few years ago, to an average of more than 50 miles an hour now, the cost of highway freight transportation has dropped from 25 cents per ton-mile to 6 cents per ton-mile over improved modern highways, William R. Smith, president of the American Roadbuilders Association, said last night at the banquet which concluded the convention of the Society of Automotive Engineers at the Shoreham Hotel.

Mr. Smith cited statistics showing that there are about 3,000,000 miles of country roads in the United States, and at least 250,000 miles of city streets.

Of the 3,000,000 miles of country roads, he said, only 700,000 miles have been surfaced to provide a firm roadbed for vehicles, and of this mileage about 200,000 miles are State highways and 500,000 miles are roads for local use.

Aid by Government.

The Federal Government, he continued, has paid part of the cost of building only 88,000 miles of State roads, of which 51,000 miles are of pioneer type without strong surfaces.

"It is seen, therefore," he declared, "that the building of a complete highway system to care for the 26,000,000 motor vehicles in the United States hardly has more than begun."

In 1902, Mr. Smith related, there were 6 miles of road for every automobile in the United States, but now the situation is reversed; roadbuilding has not kept pace with motor construction, so that now there are 37 automobiles for every mile of road. He stated that the operating cost of an average automobile is 2 cents per mile higher on an unimproved highway than on a surfaced road.

Roe Fulkerson, Washington humorist, also addressed the banquet.

Body and Chassis.

"Relation of the Motor Coach Body to the Chassis" was discussed at a technical session of the convention yesterday by R. W. Naegel, of the Bender Body Co., who dealt with factors of chassis construction affecting body design and their coordination in complete vehicle design.

G. H. Scragg, of the International Motor Co., talked on "Relation of the Motor Coach Chassis to the Body," pointing out that comfort and appearance are as essential as speed, reliability, and safety. He described body and chassis weaknesses and their remedies, and emphasized the trend toward compactness of components and engine accessibility.

Memorial to Jefferson Is Planned at Meeting

Preliminary steps toward the erection of a memorial to the memory of Thomas Jefferson were made last night by a group of persons interested in the movement at a meeting held at the Hay-Adams House, Sixteenth and H streets northwest.

Grattan Kerans was elected chairman of the group and it was announced that the first organized meeting would be held at the same place on November 13.

Club Stockholders Take Legal Action

30 of Original Concord Members Ask Rights Be Protected.

More than 30 original stockholders of the Concord Club, Incorporated, attended a grievance meeting at the home of Karl Artherkirchen, 1607 Varnum street northwest, last night. The Concord Club was incorporated by prominent German Nationals under the incorporation laws of the District of Columbia in 1921, and owned and operated the Concord Club Building, 314 C street northwest, until its recent acquisition by the Government.

The premises were the center of German activities for a number of years. The minority stockholders claim that certain officers have usurped their powers, and have elected a committee of stockholders consisting of George W. Kreis, chairman; Henry Weigand, Julius Wondrack, Peter Dorsch and George Plitt, all of whom are prominent in the business and civic affairs of the District of Columbia.

TELEGRAPH OFFICIAL FOUND SLAIN IN BED

Beverly Wilkes, Formerly of Richmond, Shot to Death Near Jacksonville.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Beverly C. Wilkes, 38, prominent clubman, today was found shot to death in a tourist camp cottage and tonight officers could not agree on whether he was slain or killed himself. Deputy Sheriff Clarence Hooks said all evidence pointed to suicide.

Wilkes was city manager for the Western Union Telegraph Co. His body was in bed, a pistol across the folded arms, when it was found by Elmer Adams, a Negro servant. He had been shot through the head.

Two shots had been fired from the pistol. Both were found imbedded in the walls of the room. Acting Coroner Hunt said the course of the bullets indicated they had been fired on a line with a nearby window.

Adams and Mrs. Jennie Jork, operator of the tourist camp, were held pending an investigation of the case. Mrs. Jork said Wilkes came to the cottage several days ago alone. Hunt said, however, he had learned the clubman had been accompanied by six friends, and Wilkes remained after the others left.

Mrs. Wilkes and her son, Beverly, jr., were visiting relatives in South Carolina when Wilkes' death was announced.

WOOD HITS LAMONT IN TARIFF ANSWER

Charges Morgan Partner Is Seeking to Break Down Workers' Protection.

Representative Will R. Wood, of Indiana, yesterday charged that Thomas W. Lamont, a partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., in his recent article assailing the tariff, was endeavoring to break down the protection to the American workingman in the sole interest of the collection by internatonal bankers of their debts abroad through a flood of imports, which would be exchanged for the moneys due them from overseas.

Mr. Wood's statement, issued through the Republican national committee, follows:

"Thomas W. Lamont, partner in the international banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., again joins in the propaganda for a general reduction of American tariffs to the detriment of employment in American industries.

"In an article in the Saturday Review of Literature, Mr. Lamont says 'ways could be found with all due regard for our industries * * * to reduce materially the height of our tariff barriers and at the same time through encouraging greater imports in certain schedules to increase substantially our customs revenues.'

"It becomes pertinent to ask Mr. Lamont to point to a single schedule in the tariff act that he regards as too high for the protection of American labor and to ask him to state specifically what are the 'certain schedules' in which he would encourage greater imports and at the same time not create more unemployment by substituting foreign goods for American labor. If Mr. Lamont knows of such a schedule he can at once secure its review by the Tariff Commission. Generalities do not suffice, particularly when they come from one of Mr. Lamont's standing.

"The real nubbin of Mr. Lamont's article is in his statement that American bankers and investors have about come to the point where they no longer feel safe in making loans abroad 'while their government continues to stick rigidly to a tariff policy that threatens to take away from the foreign borrowers the means for payment of such loans.'

"In other words, Mr. Lamont, in joining tariff rates with the private foreign debt question, shows the plain effort to transport the unemployed of Europe to the United States so the international bankers can collect their debts abroad through the displacement of American goods in the American market by the products of cheap foreign labor."

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

AS HAS been intimated by this department on previous occasions, the third subscription season of the Theater Guild in Washington will begin on Monday evening, November 9, in the National Theater, with the production, "Reunion in Vienna," starring Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne. The second Guild offering will be John Golden's production of Rachel Crothers' successful play, "As Husbands Go," the following week in the same theater.

What may not have been mentioned, however, is that the remaining plays in the series will be selected from among the following:

"Mourning Becomes Electra," the new 14-act play by Eugene O'Neil, which has been hailed as the first substantial hit of the season in New York, where it was unanimously acclaimed by the critics.

"Too True to Be Good," a new comedy by George Bernard Shaw.

"Versailles," the story of the peace conference, by Emil Ludwig.

"The House of Connelly," a play of Southern aristocracy in conflict with modern conditions, by Paul Green.

"The Coward," a penetrating psychological study, by H. R. Lenormand.

"Three Times Waterloo," a satirical farce, by Eugene Gurster.

The Guild also expects new plays from Maxwell Anderson and Sidney Howard.

The subscription books are now open.

Indications are that a large representation of official and social Washington will be present at the premiere presentation of John Barrymore in "The Mad Genius," at the Metropolitan Theater this evening at 8:30 o'clock.

Vice President Charles Curtis, with Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Gann and a party of twenty will be the guests of honor.

Other luminaries who have accepted invitations include the Secretary of Labor, William N. Doak, and party; Senator Claude A. Swanson and Mrs. Swanson, of Virginia; Senator William H. King, of Utah, and party; Senator James Couzens, of Michigan; Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, and party; Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, United States Navy; from the German Embassy, Baron von Wuthenow; Senator Lynn J. Frazier, of North Dakota; Senator Harry F. Ashurst, of Arizona; Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the United States Veterans' Administration; Supreme Court Justice and Mrs. George Sutherland; Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Robebrt P. Lamont.

A motion picture of all those who attend the premiere will be taken by Vitaphone cameramen as the patrons enter the theater and will be shown at the end of the performance the same night.

A camera crew of three men with complete portable laboratory equipment will film, develop, title and print this film in less than two hours.

I doubt, though, that they'll show you any proofs from which to make your selection!

It comes to my knowledge that the Washington Federation of Churches is at work on a play to be produced some time early in December, under the tentative title of "Greater Love." This play will be directed and produced by and for the unemployed of the National Capital. Details of the plan will be made public at a later date.

On October 28, Ramon Navarro completed his tenth year of continuous service with the organization—now known as Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer—with which he began as an extra and in which he was elevated to "bits" by Rex Ingram, the self-expatriated director, to prove his point in an argument with Rudolph Valentino.

It seems that one day Ramon Gil Samaniegos was appearing as one of the mob in a Valentino picture being directed by Ingram. At the moment, the director and his star were arguing about a scene which Valentino said he could not "feel."

"I can make an actor of any man," said Ingram. "I'll take that boy playing extra and make a star of him. Any man can be an actor."

And I'm a son-of-a-gun if he didn't do it!

The process, however, was not so simple as it sounds. Ingram found young Senor Samaniegos' work so satisfactory in bit parts that after diligent effort he finally persuaded the company executives to put him under a term contract.

Then a name, a shorter, easier name to pronounce and remember than his real one, had to be picked. Ramon himself suggested his mother's maiden name of Novarro. It became famous in "The Prisoner of Zenda" and has been pursuing an ascending course ever since, through such productions as "Where the Pavement Ends," "Scaramouche," "Ben Hur" and other romantic stories.

You can almost count the stars on the fingers of one hand who have been with their original producing companies a full decade.

So along came a long westernunion from Estelle Taylor, appearing this week at the Albee Theater, in Brooklyn, saying, in part:

"This is hard work, but the crowded houses make it gratifying. Have been offered an hour on the radio and may accept; will let you know.

"Visited doctor, took singing lesson, gave five performances, made personal appearance with "Unholy Garden," gave supper to 26 members of the press—all yesterday—also an interview between shows. Would you call that a full day?"

Lady, I'd hate to tell you what kind of a day I'd call that!

And now comes a frothing courier—evidently having heard of an earlier paragraph in today's column—with official documents to the effect that among those who have accepted invitations to tonight's "Diplomatic Night" at the Fox, signalizing the world premiere of "Ambassador Bill," starring Will Rogers, are the following:

The Minister of Czechoslovakia and Mme. Ferdinand Veverka, the Minister of Guatemala and Mme. Adrian Recinos, Senator and Mrs. Elmer Thomas, of Oklahoma; Senator and Mrs. Thomas P. Gore, of Oklahoma; the Minister of the Irish Free State and Mrs. Michael MacWhite, the Minister of Nicaragua and Mme. Juan B. Sacasa, the Minister of Ecquador and Mme. Homero Viteri Lafronte, the Minister of Panama and Mme. Harmodio Arais, Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union; the Minister of Egypt, Sidarouse Pasha; the Ambassador of Belgium and Mme. Paul May, the Minister of Lithuania, B. K. Balutes; the Minister of the Netherlands, Dr. J. H. von Roijen; the Minister of Bolivia aand Mme. Abelil, Representative F. B. Swank, of Oklahoma; Theodore Joslin, secretary to the President; Miss Mildred Hall, secretary to Mrs. Hoover; Col. E. W. Starling, of the White House staff; Commander M. L. Hersey, jr., of the Navy Department; Lieut. Col. Ira Longanecker, of the War Department.

With all these gold-braid-and-epaulette evenings going on, I am beginning to realize that I should not have permitted that old Knights of Pythias uniform of my grandfather's to get away.

My customary Eton jacket and Windsor tie are going to look just a little silly!

LAND CONFISCATED IN RUM VIOLATION

Farm Plots Are Taken, Although Owners Have Not Been Convicted.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—What is said to be the Government's first confiscation of farm lands on which the national prohibition act had been violated was revealed here today with the announcement that Federal Judge Louis Fitzhenry has ordered the seizure of more than 20 acres in Putnam and Bureau Counties where prohibition agents found two stills in 1930.

E. C. Yellowley, Federal district administrator, said the proceedings opened a new avenue of attack for prohibition enforcers and were based on a 67-year-old statute directed at operation of illegal distilleries.

Twenty acres of Joseph Engelhaupt's 520-acre farm in Putnam County and 1.87 acres of Elmer F. Flaherty's 208-acre farm in Bureau County will be sold by the Government. Rights of persons holding mortgages will be respected. Neither of the two farmers was convicted of liquor law violation.

Yellowley said the statute was invoked against them because the stills on their properties were of such size that they must have known of their existence.

The distilleries statute allows seizures, he said, of all property used in connection with the operation of a still; all rights, titles or interests of the distiller in the lot or plot of ground in such property of any person who knowingly permits operation of an unregistered still.

Both plots ordered seized were fenced off from the rest of the farms. Several persons found operating the stills have been convicted.

HALLOWEEN SPIRIT LOOMS IN FAIRFAX

Many Colorful Celebrations Are Scheduled for This Evening.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

The Halloween spirit in Fairfax County is manifested by the many colorful celebrations which are to take place this evening in the various communities. The high school faculty and the pupils of Herndon, Va., will give a party in the auditorium of the high school. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes and an entertainment program and refreshments have been planned.

The Girls' Music Study Club of Herndon will hold its party at the home of Miss Jean Humme in Herndon. Members of the refreshment committee include Miss Anne Chamblain, Miss Evelyn Groff and Miss Louise McNair. The entertainment committee, Miss Jean Humme, Miss Louise Cockerille and Miss Jean Thompson.

The School League at Chesterbrook, Va., will give a masquerade party in the auditorium of the schoolhouse. Prizes will be awarded and there will be fortune-telling booths, bobbing for apples and many games and stunts. The committee in charge of the party includes Mrs. James Tayman, Mrs. Charles E. Furlong, Mrs. Alma Groff, Mrs. James Cockrille, Mrs. Alma Omens and Mrs. Edward Humme.

Costume Square Dance.

A costume square dance will be given tomorrow evening by the Colvin Run Citizens Association in the community hall at Colvin Run. The music committee includes Mrs. Alfred Millard, chairman; James Coulter, C. C. Fling; doorkeepers, James Snyder and Joseph A. Wheeler; refreshment committee, Mrs. Bessie Coulter, Mrs. Bernard Roberts, Mrs. Josie Oliver and Mrs. J. A. Wheeler.

The Pioneer Grange will hold a costume dance this evening in the Grange Hall at Masonville on the Falls Church-Annandale road. The committee in charge includes Paul Johnson, chairman; Mrs. W. W. Thomas, Mrs. Lester Powell and Mrs. Milton Hartley. Costume judges will be Mrs. Martin T. Webb, Mrs. H. H. Gaston and Miss Elma Besley. Judges of the prize waltz will be Martin T. Webb, Mrs. Mable Crandall and Mrs. H. H. Ankers.

High School Party.

The faculty of the Franklin Sherman High School at McLean, Va., will give its party tomorrow night in the schoolhouse. Miss Jennie Tomko has been selected as general chairman, assisted by Miss Elizabeth Diller, Miss Sophia Fairfied, G. Claude Cox and Gorden E. Smith as decoration committee, Miss Hannah Hall and Miss Adele Pfalzgraf in charge of fortune telling; Miss Ruby Dunkham, Miss Virginia Kache and Miss Grace Bailey in charge of refreshments and Miss Louise Millard and Miss Mary Leigh in charge of punch.

The young people of the Lewinsville Presbyterian Church near McLean will give its party this evening in Dunham Hall, which adjoins the church on the Chain Bridge road. Miss Francis Hileman and Miss Louise Cameron will have charge of the celebration.

The members of the Presbyterian Church at Falls Church will be entertained this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hollins on the Alexandria-Leesburg pike. An entertainment program will be given and refreshments served.

The Merrifield Improvement Association will give its party tomorrow evening in the Community Hall on the Lee Highway at Merrifield.

Montgomery Road Contracts Are Let

Six Projects Are Awarded by Maryland State Commission.

Contracts for six Montgomery County road projects have been awarded by the Maryland State Roads Commission, it was announced yesterday by Maj. E. Brooke Lee, member of the commission. The contracts include extension of Massachusetts avenue from the District line to the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks, where an underpass is to be built this winter, and widening of the Frederick Pike through the town of Gaithersburg, Md. The six contracts carry a total expenditure of $79,171.

The four other projects are construction of shoulders along Garrett Park road from Kensington to the Rockville pike; 1.11 miles of pavement from Avenal toward White Oak; construction of a double-span concrete bridge from Bucklodge to Dawsonville over Bucklodge Branch; construction of a single-span concrete-slab bridge over Sligo Branch on the road between Wheaton and Four Corners.

The roads commission is advertising this week for bids on the widening of the Frederick pike through the town of Rockville, the bids to be received at Baltimore November 10.

Letters to Falls Church Woman Land Man in Jail

Harry Strauther, 25 years old, of 1306 Four-and-a-Half street, is in Fairfax County Jail because of failure to pay his fine and costs on charges of disorderly conduct and being drunk in the town of Falls Church.

According to Falls Church authorities, Strauther has been writing letters to Mrs. Dora Daley, who makes her home with her sister, Mrs. Nettie Woodworth, in Falls Church, and in these letters made threats against her if she refused his attentions. Wednesday night he appeared at the Woodworth home, demanding entrance, but was ordered off the premises by Mr. Woodworth, who summoned Town Sergt. Paul Herrman. Strauther was arrested as he was leaving town on a street car.

A warrant was sworn out by Mrs. Woodworth, charging disorderly conduct, before Mayor L. P. Daniel, who, after hearing the evidence and examining the letters, imposed a fine of $10 and costs or 30 days in jail. Sergt. Herrman then placed a charge of being drunk against Strauther, which resulted in an additional fine of $20 and costs or another 30 days in jail.

Because of alleged threats made by Strauther, he was ordered to put up a $200 peace bond, and Mayor Daniel told him never to return to Falls Church or he would face other arrests.

WOMEN AGAIN AID RED CROSS DRIVE

Mrs. M. W. Troth in Charge of Alexandria Campaign to Start Nov. 11.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The annual Red Cross roll call will be sponsored again this year by the Business and Professional Women's Club, with Mrs. Mary W. Troth, chairman of the Public relations committee, in charge. The Business and Professional Women's Club has conducted this drive for a number of years, and this year the president was requested by the president of the Red Cross in Alexandria, J. Randall Caton, again to undertake this work. The drive will begin November 11 and continue until Thanksgiving Day.

Mrs. Mary W. Troth, chairman of the public relations committee, will arrange for workers to be stationed in banks and drug stores of Alexandria, and at a meeting of the club on November 14 members will be asked to enroll 100 per cent to start the campaign.

In the last year Alexandria has had four Red Cross services: The life-saving lessons, the first-aid courses given the relief squad of the fire department, service to former service men and their families, and the junior Red Cross course.

One-half of every dollar collected in the membership campaign remains in the local treasury for relief calls and the other half goes to national headquarters.

Donations to the fund for purchasing apples to be distributed to the school children of Alexandria amounts to $185.25, according to a statement issued yesterday. The committee in charge of this drive expects to raise $1,500 and has requested that donations be sent to any of the banks of Alexandria; to Roger C. Sullivan, city treasurer, or Capt. T. M. Hamilton.

The apples will not only be distributed to the public school children, white and colored, but also be distributed to the children of the parochial and other private schools and also to the children at the day nursery. The drive, however, has no connection with the day nursery drive now under way.

Patrick Leo Magner, former member of the Alexandria police force, fell dead yesterday morning while at work in the yard of his home at 505 North Royal street. Dr. T. Marshall Jones, city coroner, was summoned and issued a certificate of death from heart disease.

ALEXANDRIA REUNION IS ENDED BY MASONS

Doak Is Principal Speaker at Banquet; Barrett Also Makes Address.

The fall reunion of the Scottish Rite Masons, Valley of Alexandria, which has been in session for four days, closed last night with a banquet in the George Mason Hotel in Alexandria. Secretary of Labor Doak was principal speaker.

Mr. Doak's speech followed one by Dr. Robert South Barrett, a member of the Alexandria lodge, who described Masonry in this and foreign countries.

Harry H. Newton was in charge of arrangements, with Col. John H. Trimyer as chairman of the banquet committee. The banquet was served by members of Martha Washington Chapter, Order of Eastern Star. The reception committee was composed of Dr. Robert S. Barrett and Mrs. Barrett; Harry A. Lipscombe, and Charles H. Callahan, the latter past grand master of Masons in Virginia.

Mrs. Doak accompanied her husband to the banquet. Other invited guests are E. J. Skidemore, worshipful master of Alexandria-Washington Lodge; R. W. Nixon, worshipful master of Andrew Jackson Lodge; J. Frank Moriarity, worshipful master of Henry K. Field Lodge of Potomac; E. R. Thomasson, high priest, of Mount Vernon Chapter, R. A. M., No. 14; R. Samuel Luckett, commander of Old Dominion Commandery No. 11.

The work of conferring the degrees on the class of candidates was completed yesterday afternoon with the conferring of the thirty-second degree. This work was held in the Masonic Temple on Cameron street.

Montgomery Federation Calls Finance Meeting

A meeting of the committee on public finances and budgets of the Montgomery County, Md., Civic Federation has been called for tonight at 5:45 o'clock at the University Club, Fifteenth and I streets northwest, by Frederic P. Lee, chairman.

The committee will act upon the final matters which are to be presented at the next meeting of the federation: Final draft of report on comparative expenditures for the past decade; progress report on comparative expenditure of tax and bond money between the upper and lower ends of the county and between the eastern and western suburban areas; final draft of the report upon extensions of the period for redemption of properties sold for taxes, and final draft of report on observation of standards of safety in bond issues for the present year.

ARLINGTON STIRRED BY CAMPAIGN SIGN

Letters "K.K.K." Written on Placard; Klan Head Offers Reward.

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

A sign erected on a Government road near the experimental farm in Arlington County, attacking a candidate in the heated county race and signed "K. K. K.," led Howard E. Bidding, exalted cyclops of Ballston Klan, No. 6, last night to denounce the placing of such placards and to offer a reward for apprehension of the guilty parties.

"Any signs that have appeared have been erected by individuals and not by action of the organization," he declared. "I will offer a reward of $500 for any information leading to the apprehension and conviction of the guilty parties."

The sign is said to have read: "Let us show our strength. Defeat Albert H. Cohen for County Board. K. K. K."

The Republican party of Arlington County, after having carried on a vigorous campaign for county offices, will bring it to a close with a mass meeting tonight in the auditorium of the Cherrydale Firemen's Hall at 8 o'clock.

Edgar C. Snyder, United States marshal for the District of Columbia, will be the principal speaker.

Candidates who will speak are J. Foster Hagan, nominee for delegate to the General Assembly; Clarence R. Ahalt, for Commonwealth's attorney; B. M. Hedrick, for trial justice; C. W. Clever, for commissioner of revenue, and W. R. Rose, Fred A. Gosnell, Louis C. Carl, W. W. Wright and Clemens Rauth, county board candidates.

Harry B. Mason, Republican committeeman from Cherrydale, will preside.

Meeting at the courthouse last night with the judges, Claude O. Thomas, secretary of the county electoral board, discussed the law pertaining to the election.

Gives Out Ballot Rules.

Mr. Thomas stressed the point that great care must be exercised in the handling of the ballot, and to see that no voter enters the booth with any of the sample ballots which have been printed and circulated by the thousands.

With the ballot containing the names of 78 candidates, a condition that the voters and judges in Arlington County have never in the past been confronted with, Mr. Thomas suggested the counting of each office separately.

Each of the eleven voting precincts, Mr. Thomas stated, will be furnished with two printed tally sheets.

Corrects Statement.

The cross section ballot committee wished to correct the statement made in a recent public meeting by one of the candidates involved in the cross section ballot. This candidate made the charge that persons who happened to be officers in more than one organization had cast more than one ballot in the vote taken.

"That statement is incorrect. Before the ballots were mailed the envelopes were arranged in alphabetical order and any duplicates were thrown out. No one received more than one ballot.

In selecting the persons whom the committee considered would correctly reflect the political views of the many communities to which ballots were sent the committee took the names of the officers of the many civic and patriotic organizations in the county and the ballots were mailed accordingly. It was this fact that brought forth he charge of duplication.

More than 60 members of the Fields-for-Sheriff Club met last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Marcey.

Woman Is Held In Liquor Raid

Misfortune Continues to Follow Maryland Resident.

Arrested last night for possessing two cases of alleged liquor was just another knock in a life of misfortune for Mrs. Olga Kissler, of Bowie, Md.

County Policeman Ralph Brown conducted a one-man raid on Mrs. Kissler's home and placed her under arrest after finding the intoxicants. She was removed to the Hyattsville Police Station and booked on a charge of illegal possession and her 5-year-old child had to go to jail with her as there was no one to leave the youngster with.

Four months ago, Mrs. Kissler's husband was shot to death in an argument with another man. Two months ago, a boarder at Mrs. Kissler's house killed himself after an argument with her over another woman.

Man Found Guilty Of Shotgun Attack

Queen Anne Storekeeper Fired Into Auto Full of Young Men.

A Prince Georges County jury yesterday found Walter T. Nicholson, a storekeeper of Queen Anne, Md., guilty of assault and battery on Robert E. Walker, though it declared him not guilty on an indictment of assault with intent to kill Walker.

Nicholson still has to stand trial on similar indictments wherein Clement Tyding is the complainant. The charges arose out of a shooting affair last summer, when a charge from Nicholson's shotgun is said to have struck a car full of young men. Nicholson claims the machine backfired and he thought they were firing a pistol at him, whereupon he shot in self-defense.

James Lewis Jones, indicted for housebreaking and stealing a number of auto tires from Richard H. Steele, pleaded guilty when arraigned yesterday.

Man Freed in $10,000 In Liquor Row Killing

D. J. Alexander, 25 years old, of 900 North Columbus street, Alexandria, arraigned in Police Court yesterday on a charge of having shot and fatally wounded Melvin Carter, colored, on the night of October 24, was held for the action of the grand jury by Judge William S. Snow, and subsequently released on bond of $10,000.

According to Detective Sergt. Edgar Sims, who investigated the shooting, Alexander stated that he was met by Carter, who asked him if he had any whisky for sale. Upon being informed by Alexander that he had none, Carter is said to have attempted to seize a shotgun carried by Alexander, and in a scuffle for its possession the gun was discharged, the load entering Carter's head and resulting in his death.

Legion Auxiliary Plans For Winter Activities

Meeting last night, the American Legion Auxiliary discussed plans for its activities during the coming winter. One of the first projects that will be carried on, it was announced, will be the card party to be given in the Lyon Park Community House the evening of November 11, Armistice Day.

Plans are now being made for an Armistice Day party for the patients at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, the evening of November 10. The committee having charge of arrangements are Mrs. Marie T. Ricker, Mrs. Lucille Johnson and Mrs. Thelma Miskell.

MONTGOMERY PICKS CIVIC CENTER SITE

Land East of Silver Spring Armory Is Chosen by Commissioners.

Following an inspection of the proposed sites yesterday, the Montgomery County commissioners decided to locate the new Montgomery County Suburban Building for Silver Spring on the site east of the National Guard Armory. This site was approved as first choice by the Silver Spring Chamber of Commerce at a recent meeting.

The land is to be purchased from the North Washington Realty Co. at a price of approximately 30 cents a square foot, making the total cost approximately $75,000 for the 252,000 square feet of land. The site is to be utilized as a civic center, several other public buildings, including the proposed senior high school, the proposed new postoffice building, public library and recreation buildings.

The North Washington Realty Co. offered the land at the price it has cost the company to purchase the land and to maintain it, including taxes and interest on the mortgage and with interest at 6 per cent computed semiannually.

Funds for the construction of the new county building are available, $75,000 having been authorized in a bond issue and the county expects to sell the present building for about $35,000. The present building has been outgrown.

Montgomery County's larger high schools have been accredited by the Commission on Secondary Schools of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Middle States and Maryland, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Edwin W. Broome, county superintendent of schools. Dr. Broome has received word from the commission that the four large high schools which had filed applications had been approved by the commission.

Accrediting by the commission means that pupils graduated from the five large county schools may enter colleges and universities throughout the United States on a parity with those graduated from Washington high schools and those of other large cities. This action is regarded by educational officials of the county to be one of the most important advantages yet received by the county school system.

The high schools which now are accredited are Bethesda-Chevy Chase, which was accredited last year; Montgomery County High School at Rockville; Sherwood High School, at Sandy Spring; Gaithersburg High School, Takoma-Silver Spring High School, the latter four being included in the latest acceptance.

In accepting the high schools the commission took into account organization and administration, preparation of teachers, teaching load, program of studies, physical equipment. Dr. Broome explained that the smaller high schools were not included because the commission does not receive applications from small schools although these have the same quality of teaching, course of study and other provisions for high school work as the larger high schools.

Virginia Man Seized In U. S. Raid on Still

Leonard Burke, 31, of Oakton, Va., was arrested by State Prohibition Inspector Virgil Williams and Deputy Sheriff Henry Magarity on a charge of possession of a still. Burke was ordered held for the action of the grand jury at the November term of the Fairfax County Circuit Court.

According to the police, when they approached Burke's home he attempted to make his escape into the woods, but was captured after a chase.

RAILS LEAD STOCKS IN PRICES ADVANCE

Gains Are Small as Sales Drop in Volume; Steel Issues Close Firm.

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—For the first time this week stocks closed higher today, although in the main the session was one of indecision.

However, a firmer tone to the rails finally turned the balance and principal issues generally showed small net gains. Volume dropped to 1,343,116 shares.

Wall street gossip had it that the railroad executives were close to an agreement with labor for a temporary wage cut. There was, of course, no confirmation of this report, yet it attracted considerable buying to the carrier group and tended to offset the dividend omission by Central of New Jersey. New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania and Atchison closed moderately higher, although Jersey Central broke 8 points.

Steel Issues Firm.

Steel issues firmed quietly as the time for Bethlehem's meeting drew near and both leaders in that group returned small net advances. There was also fractional improvement in American Telephone, Sears Roebuck, National Biscuit, Westinghouse, Standard Oil of New Jersey, North American, Woolworth and numerous others. American Can was heavy, off a point. Paramount and Loew's rallied briskly toward the close. Tobacco issues softened.

Bethlehem's directors decided to pay the 50-cent dividend despite the deficit from operations. Maintenance of the rate was probably influenced by the slight increase in activity evident in the steel business at present, although spokesmen for the company were careful not to make any predictions.

Probably the most cheerful news of the day was to be found in the Reserve Bank statements. Money in circulation decreased $24,000,000 over the whole country this week, thus reversing recent trends, while reserve note circulation was almost stationary, increasing by only about half a million dollars.

Evidence of Confidence.

Bankers interpreted this as evidence of returning confidence and that timid depositors were being broken of the hoarding habit. This is the first time in several weeks that total circulation has declined.

France took no gold today, although small amounts were withdrawn for Portugal, Italy, Holland, Germany and Belgium. Most foreign exchanges favored the dollar, sterling dropping more than 4 cents and closing 3 cents lower, while the French franc sagged to 3.93⅝. The pound's heaviness may have reflected withdrawal on support which had reputedly been operating prior to the election.

German marks firmed to 23.70, perhaps in response to suggestions for the establishment of an international credit bank to take over her short-term indebtedness, existing agreements on which expire in February. The final rate on the mark, however, was unchanged from the previous close.

Bank of England.

London, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes in pounds: Total reserve decreased 898,000, circulation increased 800,000, bullions decreased 98,000, other securities increased 5,142,000, public deposits increased 1,840,000, other deposits increased 2,830,000, notes reserve decreased 797,000, government securities decreased 3,265,000.

The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability is 41.91 per cent, compared with 42.90 last week.

Rate of discount 6 per cent.

Bank of France.

Paris, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes in francs: Gold increased 1,730,000,000, sight balances abroad decreased 1,447,000,000, bills discounted at home increased 66,000,000, bills bought abroad increased 76,000,000, circulation decreased 169,000,000, current accounts increased 981,000,000.

Rate of discount, 2½ per cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Corn attracted sharper attention today and developed independent strength, whereas wheat price advances failed to hold. Corn buying showed augmented interest both on the part of the general public as well as professional traders, with more notice generally taken of moves to furnish better credit facilities for corn held in rural storage. There was also much undoing of spreads between corn and other grains, a process that involved purchases of corn against wheat especially.

All cereals unsettled, .94, ⅝ to 1 cent advanced, wheat at ¼ to ¾ decline, oats ⅛ to ½ up and provisions varying from 20 cents decline to 10 cents gain.

Broader shipping demand here for corn was an outstanding feature, together with scarcity of country offerings. Previous speculative sellers were conspicuous on the buying side of the market and a falling off was apparent in the volume of corn receipts not only at Chicago but at all primary markets. Arrivals of corn totaled only 135 cars, compared with 160 a week ago and 211 at this time last year. Primary receipts were 339,000 bushels, against 429,000 a week ago and 492,000 on the corresponding day in 1930.

Wheat displayed notable strength much of the day, helped by estimates that North American new export business amounted to more than 2,000,000 bushels. Word of severe dust storms in western Kansas acted also as a bullish factor. Most of the buying orders for wheat future deliveries, however, although large in the aggregate, were individually small, and there were indications that recent big speculative purchasers were taking profits.

Indications that much new Iowa corn would move northwest instead of to Chicago received considerable notice. It was said special freight rates intended for drought relief favored this. Oats sympathized with corn price upturns.

Provisions were irregular owing to market fluctuations. The firmness o corn caused some buying.

EARNINGS AND DIVIDENDS.

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Hazel-Atlas Glass Co., of Wheeling, W. Va., continued in the third quarter its record of increased earnings over last year, as shown by reports of the two preceding quarters. The company, manufacturer of fruit jars, tumblers, glass specialties and similar products, reported for the quarter ended September 30 net income of $1,063,988, equal to $2.45 a share, compared with $529,332, or $1.22 a share, in the like period of 1930.

Consolidated Cigar Co. reported for the September quarter net profit of $432,737, equal to 87 cents a common share, against $569,370, or $1.38 a share in the like quarter last year.

Bendix Aviation Corporation for the nine months ended September 30 reported net profit of $1,787,976, including $411,000 nonrecurring income, equal to 85 cents a share, against $1,718,184, or 81 cents a share, in the first nine months of 1930.

The report of American Type Founders Co., excluding National Paper & Type Co., for the fiscal year ended August 31 shows net profit of $463,131, equal to $2.03 a common share, compared with $1,104,241, or $9.16 a common share, in the preceding fiscal year.

Wheeling Steel Co. and subsidiaries reported September quarter net los of $718,927, against net profit of $304,374 in the third quarter of 1930.

A statement issued today by the Central Railroad of New Jersey said that as the road already has paid this year dividends amounting to $8 a share, directors today decided to omit the dividend usually paid November 15. The railroad has paid three regular quarterly dividends of $2 each and one extra of $2 was paid January 15. On June 15 last directors decided not to pay the usual extra dividend of $2 a share "in view of present conditions." The extra had been paid semi-annually in each of the years from 1923 to 1930, both inclusive.

Southern Pipe Line Co. today declared a dividend of 50 cents, payable December 1 to stockholders of record November 16.

The American Metal Co. today omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.50 on the 6 per cent preferred stock due at this time. The company reported September quarter net loss of $250,537, against net profit of $357,327 in the like period last year.

Curb Review

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Tradin on the curb developed few outstand ing changes today. A fair degree o rallying power was evident in th early afternoon and the resistanc throughout the session was somewha more encouraging, but final price were irregular. Sales approximate 220,000 shares against 270,000 yester day.

Net changes in most active issue were fractional, although there was rather liberal sprinkling of decline Electric Bond & Share, holding a nar row range, ended the day with a gai of ¼. American Gas and Unite Light "A" were also steady, but As sciated Gas "A," Brazilian Tractio and Commonwealth Edison had smal losses. Duke Power was a soft spot dipping 6 points on small transfers.

Gulf's loss of a point and Standar of Ohio's decline of 2 points feature the quiet petroleum group. Standar of Indiana eased below 20 but close unchanged. Northern Pipe firmed couple of points.

In the specialties, Ludlow Manufac turing, an inactive, broke 4½, to 6 Deere & Parker Rust eased, but Gle Alden Coal and A. O. Smith mad progress, although volume was limite Aluminum of America surrendered 3-point advance.

Investment trusts were quie United Founders slipped down to where a fair volume of sales appeare but made up its nominal loss.

BOND PRICES LOWER IN IRREGULAR TREND

Foreigns and Rails Lead List in General Decline; Wide Losses Recorded.

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Led by railroad and foreign obligations, the bond market declined irregularly today.

Losses in the foreign group ranged upward to 2 points, and the trading was somewhat more active than among other loans. German 5½s and 7s, Polish 7s and Austrian 7s made some of the larger losses. French 7s and 7½s, Italian 7s and San Paulo 7s of 1940 were fractionally lower. Belgian 7s were one of the most active issues of the whole list and gained fractions. Argentine 6s of May, 1961, Australian 5s and Brazilian 6½s of 1926-57 were strong.

The decline in rail issues was almost universal, but the turnover in most of them was limited to a few sales. St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s of 1978 were an exception in the latter respect and eased off fractionally. Missouri Pacific Series F 5s and Pennsylvania Series D 4½s were about 1 point lower. Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1960, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s, of 1960, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s of 1992, Chicago & Northwestern 4¾s of 1949, Delaware & Hudson 4s of 1943 and Erie 5s of 1975 lost fractions. The trading in most of these bonds was limited. Atchison general 4s were steady to firm.

United States Treasury and Liberty Loans made small irregular declines on a moderate turnover.

Public utility obligations were more active than the industrials and declined narrowly and irregularly. American & Foreign Power 5s, American Telephone 5s of 1960, Detroit Edison 4½s of 1961, International Telephone debenture 5s, Utilities Power & Light 5½s of 1947 and Western Union 5s of 1960 were lower.

Industrial issues lacked a definite trend, although a number of them experienced sharp fluctuations. Goodyear 5s and Lorillard 5½s lost about 1 point each. International Match 5s gained as much.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Rallies from an opening decline in cotton today carried the price of January up from 6.62 to 6.77, but the demand tapered off on the advance and there were reactions later. January closed at 6.66, with the general market closing steady net unchanged to 5 points lower.

The opening was barely steady, 3 to 7 points lower, with active months showing net losses of about 5 to 8 points during the first few minutes under overnight selling orders, which appeared to come partly from the South and part of which were attributed to liquidation brought in by the rather sharp break of yesterday. December sold off to 6.55 and March to 6.73, but there was enough trade buying and covering to absorb offerings at these figures and prices steadied up during the middle of the day.

There was very little Southern selling in evidence after the early selling had been absorbed, while Liverpool was credited with buying here and there was also some other foreign as well as domestic trade demand on the rally. This carried the market up to 6.70 for December and 6.91 for March, or about 9 to 11 points net higher, but the demand then tapered off and later fluctuations were irregular, with last prices showing reactions of 10 to 13 points from the best under a slight increase in Southern offerings and realizing or liquidation.

The market here seemed to pay very little attention to the relatively firm showing of Liverpool when trading here started, but the change in the differences seem to bring in considerable buying to houses with Liverpool connections. The South was a moderate seller at the start, but offerings from that quarter became light after the first few minutes and the absence of hedging in greater volume, together with a firm spot basis, probably accounted for some buying of December, which ruled relatively firm, closing 39 points under May, compared with 44 points at the closing previous day. Part of the early selling here was attributed to Southern interests against purchases of spot cotton in the South.

Liverpool cables reported continental buying and trade calling in that market, and said the Manchester cloth trade was optimistic with further business pending. Exports today, 81,771, making 1,628,059 so far this season. Port receipts, 47,523. U. S. port stocks, 4,851,127.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. will mail tomorrow dividend checks payable Saturday to 51,621 stockholders. This is an increase of 6,463 in the number of stockholders during the last 12 months. An analysis of the shareholders' list indicates that during the last two years the majority of new stockholders have purchased ten shares or less. Of the total number of stockholders more than 6,000, or 12 per cent, reside in the Pittsburgh district.

Directors of Canadian Car & Foundry Co., Ltd., have drawn plans for formation of a new all-Canadian car company which will specialize in the leasing of tank cars. The new company will be sponsored by Canadian Car & Foundry, which will have a large stock interest in the proposed enterprise.

Stockholders of Tricontinental Corporation have approved a reduction in the stated value of the 6 per cent preferred stock to $25 a share and changed the par value of $100 to $6 no-par cumulative preferred. They also approved reduction in the stated value of the common stock to $1 from $2.50 a share. As a result of the reduction in stated values, the surplus is increased by more than $25,000,000.

The regular quarterly dividend on the class "B" stock of International Hydroelectric System was paid to 8,032 stockholders, a new high level and an increase of 14 per cent over the 7,044 shareholders of the system at the beginning of the year. The present number represents an increase of 50 per cent over the number at the end of 1929.

Ward Melville, president of Melville Shoe Corporation, said the company will open 50 new retail outlets by next spring. He made it clear that the company does not expect any sensational immediate upturn, but said that, on the contrary, it looks for business to continue at present or only slightly higher levels for some time to come, improving gradually and in the ratio of restored public confidence.

A statement issued by Electric Auto-Lite Co. said the present $3 annual dividend rate is assured of being maintained by the company's earnings of $1.01 a common share in the third quarter. "The management," the statement said, "feels much encouraged to think that the company could earn its present dividend rate during the third quarter, which was the poorest quarter the automobile industry has seen for at least ten years. This assures the permanence of at least the present dividend rate."

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

ADVERTISING BUILDS UP TITLE BUSINESS

Many Companies Increase Incomes to 1926 Peak Through Publicity.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

A survey by New York Title & Mortgage Co., with local offices, indicates that those title and abstract companies throughout the United States, that have been consistent advertisers, have shown better business than those who did not advertise.

Despite a year of light activity in real estate, they have practically duplicated their income of 1926, a year when real estate was most active, according to Walter A. Tuttle, of the advertising staff of the company and chairman of the advertising committee of the American Title Association.

Mr. Tuttle received 282 answers to a questionnaire sent to title companies and abstracters' companies throughout the United States. The advertising questionnaire dealt with various phases of the title business, and from the results it was hoped conclusions could be drawn as to the effect of advertising.

Advertising Gets Results.

"While many elements of an economic nature play their part in the business written by title or abstract companies, such as drought, floods, real estate activity and general business conditions," Mr. Tuttle said, "the value of intelligent, planned advertising is indicated in the analysis of the advertising questionnaire. During 1930, a general unsatisfactory business year, the gross income of 46 per cent of the reporting members of the American Title Association equaled or exceeded their gross income for 1926. More than three-quarters of those companies were consistent advertisers and reported that 47 per cent of their appropriations was being spent in newspaper advertising."

Telephone revenues of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., of Baltimore City, in September amounted to $1,182,145, the report of operations just filed with the Maryland Public Service Commission shows. Expenses during this period were $906,747, making net telephone revenues $275,398.

Telephone revenues for the nine months ended September 30 were $10,703,813, as compared with $10,561,252 for the same period last year. Expenses during the nine months ended September 30 were $8,229,778, as compared with $8,329,089 for a similar period in 1930. Net telephone revenues for the first nine months this year were $2,474,035.

Revenues for Twelve Months.

The company's revenues for the twelve months ended September 30 were $14,322,613. Expenses during this period were $11,098,912, making net telephone revenues $3,223,700. This is equivalent to 6.70 per cent on the average value of the company's property as fixed by the Maryland Public Service Commission as of December 31, 1924, plus additions. This value on Sepetmber 30 was $47,993,600.

Taxes assignable to operations in September totaled $124,609. This was an increase of $11,113 over the same month in 1930. Taxes for the nine months ended September 30 were $1,146,976, an increase of $89,890 over taxes paid during the first nine months of last year. Taxes for the twelve months ended September 30 totaled $1,499,690.

Capital expenditures for new plant and equipment in Maryland for the nine months amounted to $3,047,450. Gross retirements during this period were $1,943,695, making net additions $1,103,764. Net additions to plant for the twelve months ended September 30 were $1,233,177.

Phones in Maryland.

Maryland was served by 221,273 telephones at the close of business September 30. Since January 1, 5,025 telephones have been added to the system in the State. Telephone users during this month made more than 26,736,000 calls, which was an increase of 3.5 per cent over the number made during the same month last year.

A decrease of $2,817.42 compared with the month a year ago is shown in the net income item of Washington Railway & Electric Co.'s statement of operations for September filed yesterday with the Public Utilities Commission. Net income for the month totaled $26,917.25. That for the nine months of 1931 is $1,526,313.37, a gain of $168,555.78 over the corresponding period last year.

The statement of Potomac Electric Power Co., also filed yesterday, shows net income for September, 1931, of $355,103.23, an increase of $11,588.95 above that of the month last year. For the first nine months of this year, there is a total net income of $3,341,707.82, a decline of $15,638.47 from that of the comparative period of 1930.

Editorial Staff Announced.

Aubrey O. Dooley, president, Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, announced the appointment of this year's editorial staff of Dollars and Sense, chapter publication, yesterday. It will be composed of Norman E. Towson, Washington Loan & Trust Co., editor; Miss Catherine M. Krieg, Riggs National Bank; Miss Mabel V. Royce, Washington Loan & Trust Co.; Stuart S. Ogilvie, Second National Bank; O. Lehmann, Security Savings & Commercial Bank; Lloyd E. Johnson, Northeast Savings Bank.

Mr. Towson was the original editor of Dollars and Sense, when it first appeared eight years ago. He was secretary of the chapter for two terms and served several terms on its board of governors. He has been a delegate to a number of institute conventions; is a standard certificate holder in the chapter's courses and a member of its board of governors at the present time. The first edition of the current year will be out shortly. It will be about one-half the size of the old magazine, containing but 16 pages.

Van Sweringens Plan Retirement of Notes

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The board of directors of the Van Sweringen Corporation today authorized a proposal for the retirement of its outstanding $30,000,000 five-year 6 per cent gold notes maturing May 1, 1935.

The offer provides for payment of $500 in cash along with 20 shares of no-par common stock for each $1,000 note. The Van Sweringen Corporation will purchase approximately $16,000,000 of the notes, and Van Sweringen interests will acquire approximately the same amount.

VETERAN TECH TEAM CHOICE OVER CENTRAL TODAY

School Rivals Face 29th Meeting

Victory Today Seen Tantamount to 1931 Series Title.

Tech, Unbeaten in 3 Years, Fortified by 8 Veterans.

THE greatest game of the high school football year, bringing together Tech and Central, arch-antagonists over a period of 29 years, will be played this afternoon at Central Stadium at 3:30 o'clock. Something in the neighborhood of 10,000 fans will view what has been the best scholastic game in this region for a quarter of a century. Fair and crisper weather is the promise of the man in charge of such matters.

Tech, spinner-playing itself into the halls of fame on a winning streak which has extended to three undefeated years of high school series football, and fifteen consecutive games, sends its three complete teams of huskies on the field today a sound favorite to come off victor and preserve its unspotted record. It will be an upset if Central, long standing rival, emerges victorious.

Today's game virtually will decide the 1931 winner of the series. Comparatively easy sailing lies ahead of both teams after today's battle.

All-High Material On Tech Squad.

Tech will throw eight veterans from last year's team into the game today, and several reserves who saw action last year, and, in some cases the year before. Graduation has not touched Tech's all-high ends, Wohlfarth and Meikeljohn; its captain and greatest line-plunger, George Sachs; its fleet half back, Steve Hatos; its sturdy full back, Johnnie Gormley; its center, Baxter; its guard, Rhodes and its tackle, Bell. The ends, Sachs, Gormley, Rhodes and Baxter made last year's Post All-High.

It is in its reserve strength that Tech holds the bulk of its advantage today. Its first team can be replaced in every department without plunging the school's colors into the ranks of mediocrity. Tech actually has a third team which might well hold its own in the high school series.

Coach Bert Coggins, Central's new football guide, has the best Blue and White squad in two years. The first Central team is a sterling outfit, with two more than good backs in Frank Cumberland and Frank Koscis; an outstanding defensive player in Hank Gibbins, guard and reserve back, and a good end in Emmett Buscher. Otherwise the team is sturdily put together, as big as Tech, as fast and as strong. But Tech's untiring reserves should wear them down.

Graham Replaces Heflin In Central Line.

Both teams are in good shape. Central was a bit hit by Ed Heflin's injury, but has a worthy substitute end in Graham. Tech has Rhodes with a broken nose, but the stocky running guard will be in the game behind a mask. Coach Hardell, in consonance with his usual routine, was uncertain just which combination would start the game, but it seems certain that he will place the eleven on the field in whose ranks are eight veterans and who have seen most of the service this year.

Central worked out yesterday and freely predicted a victory. Coggins shifted Gibbins, who has been a blocking half back all year, to the line, where he will be needed to bolster his team's frontal wall. Work on forward passing continued at Central yesterday and what with Tech's featuring of the same attack, the game promises to be filled with thrilling air sequences.

Tech held a long blackboard drill yesterday.

Cunningham-Shorey Win in Pro Match

Walter Cunningham, of Burning Tree, paired with Mel Shorey, of East Potomac Park, defeated Tony Manero, of Elmsford, N. Y., and Al Houghton, of Kenwood, one up, on the course of the Kenwood Golf Club yesterday. The victors were forced to stage a great comeback to win the match. At the tenth tee Manero and Houghton had their opponents three up, but the eventual winners rallied to score four birdies on the incoming nine to clinch the laurels.

Ohio State Gridmen Ready for Indiana U.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The Ohio State University varsity football team today finished preparations for meeting Indiana at Bloomington Saturday.

All members of the squad are in good shape. The squad, 35 strong, will entrain tomorrow morning and will hold a final workout before the game at the Indiana stadium tomorrow afternoon.

Coach Sam Willaman was not fully decided on his starting line-up. Conrad possibly will start at end in place of Nasman, but the back field is a big uncertainty.

Cramer, Hinchman, Holcomb and Vuchinich are one possibility while Oliphant, Carroll, Keefe and Welever are another. It is believed that Willaman will work his back fields Saturday as separate units, making a four man substitution when he wants to switch.

Grid Rules Chiefs, Unswayed by Danger Of Injury, Firm in Upholding Kick-Off

Retention Is Favored Despite Tragedy in Yale Game.

By FOSTER HAILEY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Any movement to abolish the kick-off in football, a play to which attention has been drawn by the fatal injury of Cadet Richard Sheridan in the Army-Yale game, apparently will find little favor with members of the football rules committee.

Six of the nine members of the committee were reached today by the Associated Press for comment on whether they favored abolishment or alteration of the present rule which puts the ball in play by a kick-off at the beginning of the first and third quarters and following each goal or touchdown. Four favored its retention.

T. A. D. Jones, former Yale coach, who saw the game in which Sheridan was injured, said he would prefer not to comment until he could gain a "more sane" perspective. E. K. Hall, chairman of the committee, declined to comment.

"Flying Wedge" Permitted.

It has been argued that the play is the most dangerous in the game, permitting formation of the banned "flying wedge," such a group of interference as Sheridan tried to break up in an effort which cost him his life.

"Doing away with the kick-off would not stop injuries in football," said Amos Alonzo Stagg, veteran coach of Chicago, who added that the same logic behind the demand for its abolishment "would also ban a punt."

H. J. Stegeman, of the University of Georgia, called the play one of the most spectacular of the game and said he believed it resulted in no more injuries than other formations. Stegeman said the decision as to the danger of the play really was up to the coaches and that if they believed it so the rules committee undoubtedly would ban it. He added, however, that he did not believe the coaches had that feeling.

Play Called Beautiful And Thrilling.

M. J. Ahearn, director of athletics at Kansas State Agricultural College, said his "snap reaction" would be to favor retention of the kick-off, but he had not given it much thought. "It is a beautiful and thrilling play," he said, "and it would take a strong argument to convince me it should be abolished."

W. O. Hunter, of the University of Southern California, said he would prefer to reserve his decision for the moment, but that if he had to decide right now he would favor retention of the kick-off.

One criticism of the play came from George Owen, former star at Harvard, who told the Boston Herald he remembered a game in which three men, including himself, were hurt in runbacks of kick-offs.

"The only time I ever was really hurt playing football at Harvard," Owen was quoted as saying, "was when I had a hip muscle torn on a kick-off in the Penn State game. On the preceding kick-off Madeira, of Penn State had his leg broken. On the third kick-off Van Chapin was disabled. Do not let them tell you kick-offs are not the most dangerous plays in the game."

Maryland U. Is Firm Despite League Vote

The result of a vote being taken by members of the Southern Conference on the question of suspension of a rule prohibiting post-season games will not affect the decision of Maryland University.

A game with Georgetown University, proposed by the District committee on employment, to be played for charity, was declined by Maryland a week ago.

H. C. ("Curley") Byrd, athletic director of Maryland, stated last night that Maryland will adhere to its custom of not playing post-season games regardless of the outcome of the Conference vote.

"In making its decision, the University of Maryland did not hide behind any rule of the conference," Byrd declared.

Kansan Defends Play as Beautiful and Thrilling.

Notables Attend Last Rites for Comiskey

Chicago, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—They buried Charles A. Comiskey, the beloved "Old Roman" of baseball, in his last resting place on this bleak autumn day as the sports world mourned the passing of the 73-year-old owner of the Chicago White Sox, the most picturesque figure the game ever knew.

Sorrowing hundreds of baseball fans, loyal friends, rich and poor, baseball leaders, and those he aided in the years of his generous life, sat in hushed tribute in the St. Thomas Apostle Roman Catholic Church, the edifice in which he worshipped, and then followed him to his grave in Calvary Cemetery.

More than 200 automobiles trailed the hearse to the cemetery in Evanston to carry the mourners in one of Chicago's largest and most impressive funerals.

Presidents of both major leagues, John A. Heydler, of the National League, and William Harridge, of the American League, were there. So was Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball.

Chicago U. Student Wants Stagg to Quit

Chicago, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—Director of Athletics A. A. Stagg was urged to resign as football coach in a letter published today in the Daily Maroon, school paper. The letter was written by a student who signed himself, "Undergraduate."

In publishing the letter, the Daily Maroon said:

"The Daily Maroon takes this opportunity to present without comment a communication received from a student at the university. Members of the university community who hold other views are invited to make use of this column."

Stagg is now in his fortieth year as University of Chicago football coach, during the past five years his teams have been well below the standard of other years.

All-American Players Clash in Pro Contest

New York, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—Two all-American players who were teammates on the Washington State eleven which won the Pacific Coast title last fall will be on opposing teams when the New York Giants meet Portsmouth's undefeated team in a national pro league game at the Polo Grounds Sunday.

Elmer (the Great) Schwartz will play halfback for the Portsmouth team with Mel Hein at center for the Giants.

Mrs. Marshall Field Sponsors Race Stable

New York, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—Mrs. Marshall Field, of Chicago, will race a stable of thoroughbreds in her own name next year, it became known here today.

Seven yearlings, which Trainer George M. Odom is conditioning at Belmont Park, will race as 2-year-olds for the Chicago matron next year. They are a carefully selected lot and the astute Odom thinks very highly of his charges, four of which were bred on the Field estate.

Mrs. Field has selected as her racing colors an emerald jacket with peacock blue sleeves and an emerald cap.

The racers will be known as Near Beer, Sarsita, Mynah, Malimou, Xandra, Nimule and Laga, and are all from well-known sires bred to fashionable mares.

South Carolina Routs Citadel Eleven, 26-7

Orangeburg, S. C., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—South Carolina's Gamecocks won their annual football game with the Citadel Bulldogs, 26 to 7, here today. The game was a feature of the Orangeburg County Fair.

South Carolina scored in each of the four periods with Earl Clay making the last two touchdowns, after having passed to Laval for the first. His third period score came from a 48-yard gallop. Hambright made the other South Carolina touchdown.

Citadel's touchdown was made in the second period when the Cadets marched to the goal after receiving a kick-off. Jennings took the ball over.

Dempsey-Carnera Clash May Be Means of Starting Revival of Free Spending

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—If Jack Dempsey wishes to fight again, I am sure that is his privilege, and because it would gore my own ox if his fight or fights should prove to be commercial mishaps, I hope and trust they draw a lot of customers at generous prices. You see, if the customers should show little or no box-office interest in the second Dempsey recrudescence, my headman might say, "Oh, well, there is no heat in this, so maybe we had better let the A. P. cover it all and you can just stay home and interview yourself on the last series and overemphasis and, maybe, write us a six-part life of William Muldoon, the Grand Old Man of Fistiana."

It gets very cold along in February when Dempsey may be up-ending Primo Carneras down there in the sunburn country, without yielding my old point that there isn't a cook in the State of Florida above professional status of the lunchwagon. Still, a fellow must be willing to put up with any hardships to get a story. So, while it stands to reason Dempsey is pretty well shot by now, I am glad to concede he has as much right as the next man to peddle his fish for what they bring. Dempsey has always affected the public like strong liquor, and he might once more induce among them that happy daze in which of yore they scorned to their cost. I hear there is a lot of money on ice and possibly a little program of old-fashioned free spending on a localized scale would start a general thaw.

Hot Prize Fight Might Thaw Frozen Money.

The beautiful peace lately consummated between the Garden corporation and Tammany Hall when James J. Johnston was appointed matchmaker for the Garden, however harsh the conditions imposed on the beleaguered millionaires, may eventually confer a great good on a large number. Mr. Johnston produces some Florida fight, the customers dust off their money and send it in, the hotels pop open again, the rumrunners crank up their dories, the bellhops begin to cast disappointed glances at 50-cent tips, the $20 bill becomes the spending unit and everything less is small money, and, due solely to the deplorable accident of his having been born in London, James J. Johnston is not elected president as the man who led the country back to prosperity.

In view of his services, however, he is made Secretary of the Treasury, his brother Charlie is made foreman of

WITH but two exceptions, Capital college football teams have a distinctly underdog rating in week-end games, the exceptions being Maryland, which is favored in its game with Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blacksburg, Va., and Georgetown, which is given an even chance with Boston College at Boston.

Catholic University, which meets Duquesne at Pittsburgh tonight, and George Washington, Gallaudet, and American, all of which perform tomorrow, will have done exceptionally well if they emerge the winners in their respective engagements.

American is the only local team scheduled to play at home, Coach Walter Young's Eagles listing the Shepherd College players as their foes on the new A. U. field, at Massachusetts and Nebraska avenues. The game will begin at 2:30 o'clock. It is the last of the Eagles' home schedule.

Cardinals Are Improved.

In Pittsburgh tonight Catholic University's Cardinals meet a team which has held both Georgetown and Western Maryland to scoreless ties. This fact alone affords sufficient evidence to stamp the Dukes the favorites. The Cardinals, however, are on the upgrade and feel confident of scoring an upset. Their recent surprise victory over North Carolina State has stimulated their spirit.

Tom Whelan, speedy Catholic half back, will be a marked man, the Dukes having been warned of his penchant for breaking loose in an open field. If Whelan manages to get away tonight for long runs, as he did against N. C. State, Catholic may bring home another surprise for the experts. Catholic, however, has one definite handicap, this being the lack of a kicker to match with the Dukes' booting star, Sil Zaninelli.

George Washington's Colonials are en route to Iowa City, where they tackle Iowa University Hawkeyes tomorrow in what figures to be their hardest game of the campaign. The Hawkeyes, despite their comparatively poor record in Big Ten competition, generally are regarded a stronger group of gridiron exponents, but George Washington at least should cause them trouble before the finish.

Following is a list of the George Washington players who are taking the longest trip ever arranged for a Colonial football squad; Blackistone, Dike, Stewart, Slaird, Nielsen, Mulvey, Chambers, Payne, Wilson, Hickman, Hale, Asher, Clark, Galloway, Conn, Edmonds, Fouts, Carter, Carlin, Matia, Doyle, Fenlon, Parrish, Hendrickson, Hoffman, Usnik and Kriemelmeyer.

Pixlee Announces Line-Up.

Prior to departure yesterday, Head Coach Pixlee announced the G. W. starting line-up as follows: Mulvey and Chambers, ends; Slaird and Nielsen, tackles; Stewart and Dike, guards, Blackistone, center; Fenlon, quarter back; Parrish and Carlin, half backs, and Usnik, full back.

The Colonials will detrain this afternoon in Davenport, Iowa for a light workout, resuming their journey by bus, and arriving in Iowa City tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

Gallaudet's Blues, who have yet to win a game, are expected to make an improved showing when they engage Pennsylvania Military College tomorrow in Chester, Pa. Coach Hughes has drilled his men intensively for the last two weeks and has made one change in his line-up calculated to bolster the offense, the shift involving Roop, full back, and Gamblin, tackle, who swap positions.

Plot to Bribe Players At Minnesota Disclosed

Minneapolis, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Letters received by three University of Minnesota football players, offering them money to "throw" the game with Wisconsin here Saturday, were termed tonight by school officials as efforts by forces not connected with either institution to discredit and disorganize the Gophers.

The letters were received by Capt. Clarence Munn, Kenneth MacDougall and Jack Manders. Written on stationery of a Madison, Wis., hotel, and mailed there, they offered $1,500 if the players would "do their best to throw the game away to the Badgers."

The missives were signed "W. Burzik."

At Madison, Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite, of Wisconsin, was quoted as saying, "It is so silly on the face of it that no serious person would do it."

NOTRE DAME AWAITED BY CARNEGIE

Skibos End Strenuous Drills; Iowa Works in Cold Rain.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Carnegie Tech completed its heavy work today for the football game with Notre Dame here Saturday. A light rehearsal will be held tomorrow and then the Skibos will retire to an isolated spot until game time. The Notre Dame squad will arrive tomorrow morning and will workout at Pitt Stadium, scene of the game, in the afternoon. The Pittsburgh season's record crowd to date is expected to look on Saturday.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Thirty-three Notre Dame football men left for Pittsburgh today for their first invasion of the East this season, after taking a sharp workout on old Cartier field. George Melinkovich was considered a certain starter at full back, but it was a toss-up between Emmett Murphy and Chuck Jaskwhich for the quarter back assignment.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Apparently satisfied with the Badgers' offensive, Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite today gave the University of Wisconsin football team a defense workout in preparation for the game with Minnesota Saturday. Minnesota plays used by the Freshmen were solved and stopped. Capt. Hal Smith, tackle, and Doug Simmons, center, were kept out of scrimmage by injuries.

Iowa City, Iowa, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—A chill rain was the greatest enemy of Iowa's final passing practice today as the Hawkeyes finished drills for the George Washington game here Saturday. Coach Bert Ingwersen used Stutzman, a sophomore, at guard in place of Hantelmann, who has started nearly every game this year. Kriz, injured half back, was in uniform, but it is doubtful if he will see action Saturday.

Minneapolis, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—It appeared today that Minnesota will have to play Wisconsin Saturday without Marshall Wells, regular tackle, who is on the casualty list with a sprained elbow. The sprain is healing so slowly that trainers were doubtful the big lineman could start Saturday.

Ken Gay again worked with the regulars at the vacant left tackle. The Gophers today were in a more advantageous position to drill since it had stopped raining and a wind was drying the field. Work consisted of offensive and defensive practice against the freshman team, which used Wisconsin plays. George MacKinnon, assistant coach and scout, threw passes for the yearlings.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 29 (U.P.).—Harvard went through light drill today in a drizzle of rain. The charging machines were used briefly and Head Coach Eddie Casey confined practice for the most part to the sort of workout that would prevent his team from going soft before Saturday's contest with Virginia.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 29 (U.P.).—If Brown's plunging back-field ace, Andy Rotelli, is missing from Saturday's game with Holy Cross, Head Coach Tuss McLaughry expects a difficult time with the Worcester team Rotelli was injured in the Tufts game. Brown's attack has concentrated on end sweeps this season, but Rotelli's line-plunging has balanced it nicely.

Canzoneri Defends Title; Beats Griffin

Newark, N. J., Oct. 29 (U.P.).—Tony Canzoneri, lightweight and junior welterweight champion of the world, successfully defended his junior welterweight title by decisively defeating Phillie Griffin, Newark welterweight, in a 10-round championship bout here tonight.

The challenger was near a knockout in the closing round. In the seventh Canzoneri sent Griffin to the ropes with a left to the face and then pounded his body severely. The ninth and tenth found Canzoneri still boring in landing solid lefts and rights to the head and body, but he was unable to land a finishing blow.

Canzoneri weighed 132, Griffin 139.

Six Fights Scheduled At Rockville Tonight

A card of six bouts, featuring colored boxers, will be presented tonight at Fisherman Hall, Rockville, proceeds derived from the show going for the benefit of the United Trustees of Montgomery County. Thirty-two rounds of boxing in all will be presented. Earn Strbiling will swap blows with Ray Wilson in the feature scrap. The semifinals include Charles Wells vs. Jack Perry and Sam Williams vs. Sherman Branch. Three preliminary bouts are also on the program. The first bout is scheduled for 8:30 p. m.

Charity Show Has Deficit Of $65

Wrestlers Give $500 After Turner's Plea; 2,298 Attend.

Steele Throws Jones; Dusek, Kirilenko in Spirited Draw.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

AH, sweet mystery of life; sweet inconsistency of human nature; sweet disregard for His beatitudes! And last and most important, sweet charity took it flush on the chin last night, and the wrestling show at the Auditorium for the benefit of the District hungry was thrown with a full Nelson and a $65 deficit.

The lure of the electric refrigerators, the drawing power of the motor-driven dishwasher and the appeal of the nonstoking furnace, all three of which helped to make up the Chamber of Commerce's industrial exhibit in the Auditorium cellar, defeated the worthy wrestling show on the first floor of the same edifice; defeated it in a walk, 15,000 customers to 2,298.

The 2,298 fans who helped fill the vacant stretches at the mat show last night tossed $3,465 into the box office. This amount represented a $65 depression. Under the terms agreed upon by Matchmaker Joe Turner and the District of Columbia committee on unemployment, Turner was granted a budget of $3,500 to put on the show.

Wrestlers Answer Turner's Plea.

Joe Turner saved a measure of the day for those hungry men whom one could vision standing on tiptoe awaiting word from the lusty voiced inclosure. Turner, gathering the wrestlers around him, appealed to them to reduce their tariff, and successfully. Prices toppled off until a pool of $500 had been raised, which was handed over to George Adams, executive secretary of the committee.

Those men who keep a finger on the pulse of local wrestling were astonished at the turnout last night. The show had a $2,000 advance sale, and over a long period in local matdom the advance sale has been found to equal about 33 per cent of the actual gate. But, unaccountably, there was no last-minute rush. One explanation given last night by a substantial party blamed the acute parking situation around the Auditorium.

The little gathering had its fill of wrestling, enough of it to spread over a 15,000 assemblage. The exhibitions were uniformly spectacular. Indeed, mat history was made in one of them when Tiger Nelson defeated Benny Ginsberg in 24 minutes with a body slam. Nelson, according to Rudy Dusek and Toe Turner, who were interviewed, won his last bout in 1913.

Dusek Battles to Draw.

Dusek and Matros Kirilenko put on a show last night which threatened to start at least two riots. Dusek, rougher than Jack Dempsey's beard, and tougher than a petrified fire plug, cut Kirilenko into the proverbial ribbons in the first ten minuts of a bout which eventually was called a draw after 30 minutes. Those first ten minutes, during which Dusek went out into the third row of the orchestra, and two infuriated citizens tried to enter the ring, personally to attend to the lad who last summer was Washington's fair-haired boy, were hectic minutes indeed. The ring was bombarded several times by newspapers, and Dusek started after one slightly unbalanced fan.

Ray Steele, badly used throughout his bout with Paul "Scissors" Jones, knocked that worthy evidently senseless after 33 minutes by falling backward as Jones was entwined around him from behind. Steele's 215 pounds landed like that load of building bricks on Jones, who couldn't get up for five minutes.

In the other bouts, Sandor Szabo beat the former Boston Brave, Al Pierotti, in eleven and one-half minutes with an arm fasten and back drop, and Pat O'Shocker tossed Al Williams in fourteen minutes with pretty much the same hold.

YANKS RELEASE PERKINS.

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Cy Perkins, veteran catcher, has been given his unconditional release by the New York Yankees.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE East sends six undefeated and untied teams of the first rank into combat Saturday and at least five of them will emerge with their records unsullied if past performances do not betray us. For the sixth, there is no chance as both Columbia and Cornell will be risking their spotless records in their clash at Ithaca.

Harvard, fresh from victories over the Army and Texas University, should make short shrift of a University of Virginia team that has been soundly whipped on three occasions. The reborn glory of Crimson football will not be put to a severe test until Dartmouth is met on November 7.

The Columbia-Cornell battle will bring together a pair of teams as yet unbeaten, but which have in fact disposed of only one major opponent each thus far this season. Columbia hopped a high hurdle in beating Dartmouth, 19-6, and Cornell handed Princeton its worst defeat in modern football history of the Tigers by a score of 33-0. It was against Cornell last year that Columbia scored its only major victory of the season, a 10-7 triumph etched by the accuracy of Ralph Hewitt's toe, which sent a 52-yard dropkick booming between the uprights for the deciding points.

Pennsylvania is another which is risking a spotless escutcheon Saturday. Lafayette will be the opponent of Penn. But Lafayette's defeat of Washington and Jefferson last week was by no means as impressive as Penn's conquest of Wisconsin.

New York University meets an intersectional foe in the University of Oregon, but the Pacific Coast invaders are not calculated to mar the clean slate of the Violent Violets. Oregon has lost both of its Far West Conference games this season while the Violets have demonstrated that they will have a legitimate claim for Eastern honors at the finish of the season. The New York University-Georgia game the following Saturday will be a severe test for the Violets, however.

The softest engagement on the slate of the East's unbeaten teams is the Fordham-West Liberty game. Too bad for West Liberty.

The Florida-Georgia and Alabama-Kentucky games feature the Saturday program in the South. Georgia, as yet unbeaten and untied, will meet a rapidly improving Florida team that absorbed a 33-to-0 beating from Syracuse and then came back to trounce Alabama Poly. But Georgia has bowled over Yale, Vanderbilt and North Carolina by decisive scores and if the Bulldogs emerge with an unbeaten and untied slate they will have a sound claim to national honors.

Alabama, which has been nominated as the Eastern representative in the Rose Bowl game for the past three years and which has won two of these games and tied one, is out of the Southern Conference running with a 25-to-0 defeat by Tennessee. But the Alabamans showed improvement by trouncing Sewanee last week and, on the authority of Champ Pickens, Public Enemy No. 1 of any who would disparage the Crimson tide, Alabama can be expected to hand Kentucky its first defeat of the season.

The training and precision of college football may be lacking in the sandlot games at American League Park each Sunday, but for free thinking and ingenuity the sandlotters concede nothing to the collegians.

"Fee" Colliere, chunky quarter back of the Mohawks, pulled one of the smartest pieces of football which this column has ever observed when the Mohaks were playing the Celtics last Sunday. Colliere, whose girth has reached the proportions where it is just as easy to step over him as walk around, was playing safety man in company with Dick Allen, another back, when the Celtics punted.

The punt was long and high and the Celtic ends rushed down the field. Allen was set to make the catch and eventually did, but Colliere threw both onrushing ends off the track of the ball with a clever piece of headwork. He backed up a few steps and held both arms out as if to receive the ball and distracted the attention of the ends from Allen. Not until the ball descended in Allen's arms did the Celtic players realize that Colliere had tricked thim. Allen was free, and aided by Colliere's interference, he made his way down the field for a 40-yard runback.

TRED AVON IS GALLOPING WINNER OF FEATURE AT LAUREL

Labrot Filly Triumphs in Field of 5

Ladino Scores Upset as Black Jacket Runs Dull Race.

Stuart Takes Opener From Maiden Field on Muddy Track.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL RACE TRACK, Oct. 29.—Sylvester W. Labrot's game gray filly, Tred Avon, carrying top weight of her field, romped home in the mud in the feature race here today, the Sinapuxent, for 3-year-olds, with Pat Remillard in the saddle, hanging up the time of 1:44 3-5 for the mile and 70 yards. A length and a half back, the Sagamore Stable's Rip Van Winkle, was second, and with the same margin between them, John Goff's Mine Sweeper was third.

The winner was a heavy favorite at $3.20. This was the first favorite of the day to win, under the first muddy track conditions during the 22 days that racing has been going on here, with two more days to close the record session at this beautiful racecourse.

When the field of five was sent away, Mine Sweeper jumped out in front, and Remillard held Tred Avon under mild restraint off the pace until turning into the stretch, when the gray filly came around the leader and drew away, Rip Van Winkle moving up stoutly in the stretch.

Nertney Rides Three Winners.

When Willie Nertney rode home Bob Shannon in the sixth race, it made three victories for the day for the Sagamore jockey, and a total of 24 for the meeting, far ahead of any other rider at Laurel. Bob Shannon led his field from start to finish, winning by two lengths and paying $7.20. The racing crowds at Laurel back Nertney's mounts with secondary regard for the horse he may be riding. Gunman was the contender throughout and Bright Day finished third. The time was 1:56 1-5 a mile and a furlong.

Capt. Ral Parr's Ladino won the Leonardtown Purse, fourth race, which brought out eight high-class 2-year-olds, and the Greentree Stable's Espinaca was second, the order in which the two ran all the way. W. R. Coe's Masked Knight was third.

The disappointment of the race was the poor showing of the Glen Riddle Farm's Black Jacket, which won so easily last week. He seemed to dislike the mud. This result gave W. Nertney his second victory of the day, and his twenty-third of the meeting. The winner, which ran six furlongs in 1:13 1-5, paid $18. Ladino had a margin of four lengths.

Fairdale Never Headed In Third.

D. Homewood's Fairdale led all the way in the third race, but was pressed in the final drive by Sun Friar, the favorite, while Ruane closed much ground to finish third. Workman rushed Fairdale to the front from the gate, and had a long lead turning into the stretch. Ruane was trailing the field at the far turn, but improved his position gradually. Sun Friar closed fastest of all. The winner paid $11.10. The time was 1:55, a mile and a furlong.

Sir John Alden, one of the most inveterate maidens of the 3-year-old division, just failing in several previous races to win, scored by twelve lengths in the second race, for maiden 3-year-olds and up, for his new owner, S. M. Hurwitz. He was ridden by Steffen. Mrs. John H. Whitney's Purple Dust was second and Pourboire third. The time was 1:48 4-5, a mile and a sixteenth. The winner led all the way and was merely galloping at the finish. He was favorite and paid $7.80.

Stuart Draws Away In Stretch.

J. J. Conway's Stuart, well ridden by W. Nertney, won the first race for maiden 2-year-old colts and geldings of ordinary class. Glen Riddle Farm's Happy Warrior was second and the Brookmeade Stable's Theatical third, Penn finishing fourth. The start was long delayed and bad, with Sun Manor, one of the favorites, left at the post. Mack Garner was treated to a mud-bath before the start, being hurled to the track and alighting on his back. He remounted his horse, Revelation, and finished the race. The winner overhauled Happy Warrior and drew away in the stretch, paying $8.80.

With the favorite, Kadiak, running a bad race, C. H. Trotter's Chancellor, ridden by J. Marinelli, romped home a winner in the seventh race, for 3-year-olds and upward, at a mile and one-eighth. The Trotter entry paid $10.80 in the $2 mutuels and held a lead of one length at the finish over Homelike, which saved place from Meek, an outsider.

Marinelli sent Chancellor into a good lead at the outset and raced him near the rail the entire journey. When Homelike challenged in the stretch, Chancellor was put to punishment and responded gamely. Homelike lost strength outracing Meek and hung in the final furlong. Kadiak encountered a jam in the early going and then was forced wide in the home stretch.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STUART, $8.80, $3.50, $3.00; HAPPY WARRIOR, $3.60, $3.00; THEATRICAL, $6.80.

STUART, away in the first flight and kept within striking distance of the leaders, saved a lot of ground when the pacemakers came wide into the home stretch and, in a game finish, was up in the last fifty yards. HAPPY WARRIOR raced LORD TOURNAMENT into submission in the opening half mile. He continued gamely after losing ground entering the home stretch. THEATRICAL, rated along early, made a resolute effort approaching the home stretch, was forced wide and weakened during the final furlong. PENN was making up ground steadily nearing the finish. HOW went evenly. SUN MANOR broke slowly. He closed stoutly when in his stride. REVELATION was never a factor. The latter unseated Garner on parade and galloped away for a quarter mile.

SECOND RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:20. Off at 2:21. Winner, S. M. Hurwitz's ch. c. (3), by Sir John Johnson—Aurelia. Trained by B. S. Michell. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:24, 0:49 2-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:42, 1:48 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SIR JOHN ALDEN, $7.80, $4.60, $3.20; PURPLE DUST, $7.90, $4.70; POURBOIRE, $2.90.

SIR JOHN ALDEN, racing as if at home in the going, drew out into a commanding lead after the first six furlongs and held sway thereafter while increasing his margin at will. PURPLE DUST, in nearest pursuit of the winner the entire trip, was under stiff pressure to stall off POURBOIRE. Latter, badly outrun early, made up ground slowly in the final half mile. BROWN MARY was never dangerous. HENRY L. quit badly. The others were outrun.

THIRD RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:55. Off at 2:58. Winner, D. Homewood's b. g. (5), by Ormondale—Fair Phantom. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:24, 0:48 3-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:41 2-5, 1:55.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAIRDALE, $11.10, $4.50, $3.10; SUN FRIAR, $3.20, $2.60; RUANE, $2.60.

FAIRDALE, moving into an easy lead directly after the start, was taken under slight restraint until midway of the far turn, responded gamely thereafter and just lasted to stall off SUN FRIAR. Latter slipped through on the inside to reach the winner rounding the second turn and came determinedly when wearing the winner down. RUANE, taken very wide for the entire trip, raced on his own courage. FAIR FOLLY weakened during the stretch run. KEITH quit. MARGARET MC did not fancy the footing.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. The Leonardtown. For 2-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:25. Off at 3:27. Winner, Ral Parr's ch g. (2), by Ladkin—Cuba Belle. Trained by E. Trueman. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 4-5, 1:13 1-5.

STEP SIS	105	6	1	6^{2}	8	8	8	Critchfield	114.55

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LADINO, $18.00, $7.20, $5.80; ESPINACA, $8.00, $4.90; MASKED KNIGHT, $4.50.

LADINO, suited by the going, took command after the opening sixteenth mile and Nertney picked the best going through the final half mile. LADINO held sway after coming wide into the home stretch. ESPINACA, following the winner closest from the start, finished with good energy. MASKED KNIGHT was easily best of the others after saving ground for the entire trip. SNOBFUL, slow to begin, was unable to enter contention until the final furlong. TRYANDAGAIN was always outrun. BLACK JACKET labored in the going in the first three furlongs and retired.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,500; allowances. The Sinapuxent. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:00. Off at 4:02. Winner, S. W. Labrot's br. or gr. f. (3), by Sir Greysteel—La Murion. Trained by W. Irvine. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; third, $200. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:39 4-5, 1:44 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TRED AVON, $3.20, $2.30, $2.10; RIP VAN WINKLE, $2.50, $2.40; MINE SWEEPER, $3.80.

TRED AVON, hurried to the first turn, was taken in hand when MINE SWEEPER was rushed into the lead, followed the latter until rounding the far turn, drew into an easy lead when straightened into the home stretch, and was steadied under mild restraint to the finish. RIP VAN WINKLE, rated off the early pace, made a strong effort nearing the home stretch and closed gamely. MINE SWEEPER was hustled the entire trip and held on well. PRINCE PEST was held safe. MEASURE had no mishaps.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:30. Off at 4:30½. Winner, Mrs. H. L. Ughetta's b. c. (4), by Sporting Blood—First Attempt. Trained by J. Hogan. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:49 2-5, 1:15, 1:42 2-5, 1:56 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BOB SHANNON, $7.20, $3.30, $2.80; GUN MAN, $5.90, $3.80; BRIGHT DAY, $5.00.

BOB SHANNON, favored by the going and quickest to begin, went to the front early, was steadied along and had enough left in the final stages to hold GUN MAN safe. Latter, stoutly ridden through the final half mile, could not seriously menace the winner. BRIGHT DAY, badly outrun for the first six furlongs, came through on the inside of VIMONT entering the home stretch and outfinished the latter in the final furlong. VIMONT raced well and had no excuses. OLD SOL quit.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:05. Off at 5:06. Winner, C. H. Trotter's ch. g. (6), by Sir Barton—Madras Ginham. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 4-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:14 2-5, 1:42, 1:55.

FOURTH WARD	108	7	7	8	8	8	8	8	Fields	9.00

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHANCELLOR, $10.80, $6.30, $4.80; HOME LIKE, $5.00, $3.90; MEEK, $12.00.

CHANCELLOR went into a good lead at once, saved ground the entire trip, continued gamely when placed to punishment and outstayed HOMELIKE. Latter, rushed into early contention, responded to pressure, but hung after reaching winner in the final furlong. MEEK was strongly urged entire trip and held on well. KADIAK, badly messed about and taken all over the track, came very wide into home stretch to lose all chance.

Boots and Saddle's
(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)
—Laurel Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 29.—The day before the finish of a racing season is generally below the standard. Usually coming on Friday, and the day preceding the important stakes that are saved for the closing, there is seldom an outstanding race. This is no exception at Laurel, and to add to the other tendencies toward the ordinary, is the abrupt change in track conditions, but the last will be improved on if it rains no more, for the course is drying out rapidly.

The movement of horses has begun in earnest, for Pimlico, which opens Monday, and the announcement is made that a car load of horses will leave here for the Welfare and United Hunts meeting at Belmont Park on an early train.

The Westover features the card tomorrow. MASKED BALL is the outstanding horse in this race, having beaten BLACK MAJESTY and BALKO earlier in the meeting and can run on any kind of track. With low weight—she carries 103 pounds—she should easily take the track away from FORTUNATE YOUTH, the obvious contender. The latter has been running in splendid form during the Maryland season, but is outclassed in this race. Third money will be fought for by PENNATE and ROBIN'S EGG, both in top form. The Westover is fifth on the card.

FIRST RACE—There are enough maiden 2-year-olds in the first race to furnish mounts for a regiment, as 21 were excluded, 8 on the eligible list and 12 with first chance to start. TOM is fast in workouts and is selected to win. TRICYCLE would be favorite on form, and will be the contender. PORTMESS, coupled with BLACK STRIPE as the Morris entry, will figure in the race.

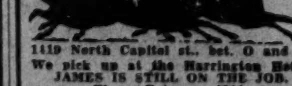

SECOND RACE—TEMPLEMORE, on his last race in which he made a good showing among better horses, should win the Front Royal Steeplechase, which has a field of thirteen jumpers. TEQUILA also has shown a good performance recently and doubtless will be the contender, while OUTLAW, coupled with TEMPLEMORE, is best of the others.

THIRD RACE—LINE OF FIRE appears to have found a spot where he can win in the third race, where 3-year-olds are to go a mile and 70 yards. He has been running in better company, showed a fast finish the last time out, and should lead all the way. SHIVA, winner last time out, only has to run back to that race to be second. LOUIS MERRYMAN will make it a close finish and appears to like a route.

FOURTH RACE—GLENNO will have BUCK HERO to beat in the fourth race. He is in form, as shown by his last effort, but BUCK HERO won his last race easily in New York and should make it interesting for the others. OLD TIMES ran a surprising race last out at a mile and a half, winning by many lengths, and while this is no mile-and-a-half race, it is a mile and a furlong, well suited to routers.

SIXTH RACE—MERIDIAN QUEEN, with better luck than she has had, and a track better suited—she was never at her best on a hard course—has a chance in the sixth race to win. While the track at post time may be comparatively fast, it will not be the baked, hard strip it has been for her previous races here. ARRAS, easy winner last out, will be the favorite, and hard to beat. EAGER PLAY should keep up his good form and be a prominent contender.

SEVENTH RACE—MIRBAT is selected in the seventh race. He has worked very fast. BUTTER JOHN, twice winner, will be chief danger. ROYAL DOULTON is improving and is a long-shot possibility.

Airs and Graces, 20-1, Upsets Dope at Empire

Empire City Race Track, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—Airs and Graces, a filly flying the colors of R. W. Ely, caused plenty of excitement at the Butlerville course here this afternoon when she splashed through the slop and mud to win the fourth race and pay 20 to 1. The form players were severely hit by the dull performance of the 2 to 7 favorite Sara Burdon, which finished third, well beaten. Airs and Graces covered the mile and 70-yard trip in 1:47 3-5. She had a length and a half advantage over Sydka, while the latter beat Sara Burdon by four lengths for the place.

Sydka stole a long early lead, while Clifton's Lass and Airs and Graces raced closely aligned in their battle for the runner-up position. Sara Burdon was well back in fourth place. Turning for home the favorite had reached third position, but she still was far back. Sydka maintained a length or more over Airs and Graces. The latter closed very powerfully as Sydka tired and the 20 to 1 shot won going away.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

DESPITE all modern progress, England's town criers remain. In many towns throughout the British Isles, the town crier still makes his rounds, calling out the hours of the day and announcing all events of importance. They still wear the picturesque costumes that their predecessors wore centuries ago.

Every year the town criers gather for a sort of reunion, during which a contest is held to determine the best and loudest crier of the land. Recently, at Lyme Regis, near London, the championship was awarded to W. Abbott, the local town crier, who was the defending champion. He is popularly known as the "man with the seven-mile voice" for his cry has been heard at that distance.

Common toads and tree toads eat their own skins. Several times a year toads shed their outer skins and each time the whole skin is swallowed during the process. It is doubtful that the toad eats the skin for its taste. Since they are such clumsy creatures, it is perhaps more probable that swallowing the skin is simply the easiest way to get rid of it.

Laurel Notes

Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 29.—Glen Riddle Farm, which sold the fast but bad-acting War Plane to Harvy Pierce, will send the main division of the stable to Pimlico Saturday for the meeting to begin there Monday. War Plane was barred from starting again at this meeting for delaying the start yesterday.

M. L. Schwartz's Clock Tower, which won the Maryland Handicap last Saturday, will be a prominent candidate for the $25,000 Washington Handicap, final feature here closing day, Saturday. The horse traveled a mile and a quarter this morning through the mud in 2:17.

Hilsborough turned in a mile in 1:48. J. E. Widener's Curate, another Washington eligible, went a mile hard held in 1:50, and Marine was timed in 1:18 4-5 at 5½ furlongs. John Whalen's Pilate, probable starter, went a mile in 1:49 2-5.

Tick On, Open Hearth and Battering Ram were among the 2-year-olds which worked for the $10,000 Jennings Handicap.

Willie Nertney, of Baltimore, whose contract is held by Bud Stetler, has about clinched the honor of being the leading winning rider at this meeting. He has been aboard 21 winners in as many days, which gives him an advantage of seven winners over the veteran Mack Garner, who stands second.

Art Sands will make the riding engagements for A. Prain, 104-pound apprentice; Joe Guerra and H. Louman during the Pimlico meeting, which opens Monday. Guerra is the lad who kicked home five winners on the closing day of last spring's racing at Pimlico.

John Goff, who took three horses to New York several days ago, returned today with all but the 2-year-old Banty.

Owen Pons was an arrival from Canada with Turkey's Head and five other horses. Jockey Francis Horn accompanied the stable and immediately swung into action astride Penn in the day's opener.

J. Y. Christmas, of Upper Marlboro, left for New York, where he will endeavor to strengthen his stable before shipping to the winter's racing in Cuba.

John Hernandez, 17-year-old New Orleans lad, who rode 41 winners on Western tracks the past summer, will move over to Pimlico at the conclusion of this meeting. He is under contract to Vic Gallo and will accompany the latter's stable to Crawfish town at the conclusion of the Bowie season.

ALEXANDRIA WEAKENED FOR FRAY

Five Players Lost for Game With Training School Eleven.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 29.—A drastic shake-up in the Alexandria High School football eleven is planned by Athletic Director Maurice Given unless a new spirit is shown by the players previous to Friday's game in Washington with the National Training School eleven on the latter team's home field.

Since the Twins won their contest with the St. John's gridders of Washington, 20 to 0, some of the players have the attitude they are too good for practice and the officials of the school are planning to place these boys on the bench and giving the reserves an opportunity to take their positions.

In the St. John's game the club profited by numerous breaks which insured them the victory, and it was not concentrated drives or spectacular aerial work that assured them the victory.

Given was notified today that two of his best players would be lost to the team for some time, due to eligibility rules of the District. The two players to go off the squad will be Sammy Mendelson, all-District guard, and Bub Yarter, who has been starring at half-back. They have been big factors in the Twins' attack so far this campaign.

Three back field men are also on the injured list and will be out of Friday's game in Washington. They are Jack Hudson, full back; Roy Jennier, quarter back, and Fred Bullman, half back. The latter is suffering from a fractured finger.

Coach Givens states he will be forced to use his reserves in Friday's game, due to these injuries to his players. Jimmy Bruin is playing a great game with the team and will probably be the only regular starting off in the back field.

It is expected a good sized crowd will trek to Washington to see the contest.

Episcopal High School gridders will mix with Gilman Country School eleven, of Baltimore, in their homecoming day game on Saturday at Hoxton Field at 2:30 o'clock. This is one of the leading attractions for local football fans.

118 WOMEN CELEBRATE OPENING OF OWN GOLF CLUB

Round of 36 Shot by Mrs. Meckley

Pairs With Mrs. Bell to Win Exhibition by 4 Up Margin.

Day Marked by Gala Program at New Country Club.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

WHEN, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary to open a new golf course, the occasion is not usually one of prime importance. It is different when the course is an adjunct of a club that was inaugurated by women, promoted by women, financed by women and is managed by women. All this goes especial significance to the fact that the new golf course of the National Women's Country Club, situated on the Bradley Hills boulevard, was given its baptism and christening yesterday.

The showers which prevailed in the early morning gave way to blue skies and sunshine, much to the joy of 118 women golfers who gathered to help make the inauguration of the new course a great success. The program of the day began with a nine-hole medal play tournament, handicap allowance, and at its conclusion a large gallery followed the exhibition match in which Mrs. Betty P. Meckley, District amateur champion, and Mrs. M. Louise Bell, former Middle Atlantic champion, were paired against Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes and Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow, of Baltimore, winner and runner-up, respectively, in the recent Middle Atlantic women's championship. The match, which extended only over nine holes, was won by Mrs. Meckley and Mrs. Bell, who were four up. Their opponents did not win a hole.

Mrs. Meckley in Star Role.

The feature of the match was the fine playing of Mrs. Meckley, who negotiated the nine holes in 36, par figures, and the fact that Mrs. Meckley had five one-putt greens in succession, running down her single putts from every angle of the green and from all distances. On the fourth hole she sliced her drives into what seemed to be a nursery of tropical plants, but played out to the green over a trap, holing out a 15-footer for a par 3. On the fifth hole she played a brassie from deep rough through the bare branches of a large tree, and by a dead approach holed out a birdie 4, while on the sixth hole, after playing to the green from the sidelines, she holed another single putt for a par 3. A long putt on the seventh gave her a birdie 4 and a long putt on the eighth gave her a half in 4. On the ninth hole she made a gallant effort to hole another long putt for a birdie 3, but had to be content with two putts and a 4.

The cards of the four players:

Mrs. Meckley..	4	4	6	3	4	3	4	4	4	—36
Mrs. Bell....	4	4	5	4	x	x	5	5	4	—
Mrs. Haynes..	4	4	6	4	5	4	6	5	4	—42
Mrs. Morrow..	4	5	5	5	x	4	6	4	4	—

At the conclusion of the day's program Mrs. Guy V. Henry, chairman of the golf committee, presented the prizes in a brief address in which she thanked the women players for contributing to the success of a gala occasion. The winners were:

First low gross, Mrs. Betty P. Meckley (Indian Spring), 39; second low gross, Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow (Elkridge), 41; third low gross, Mrs. H. C. Trace (Rodgers Forge), 43; fourth low gross, Mrs. Harrison Brand, jr. (Chevy Chase), 44; fifth low gross, Mrs. Norman B. Frost, 45.

First low net, Mrs. J. O. Rhyne (Cong.), 41, 7—34; second low net, Miss Louise Claytor (Chevy Chase), 45, 8—37; third low gross, Mrs. F. H. Strickland (Maryland Country Club), 46, 9—37; fourth low gross, Mrs. H. H. Moffitt (Cong.), 46, 9—37; fifth low gross, Mrs. J. R. De Farges, 46, 9—37.

Lost out in the draw—Mrs. L. H. Hedrick (Army-Navy), 44, 7—37; Mrs. W. B. Hurst (Elkridge), 44, 7—37.

Mrs. Meckley and Mrs. Bell, as winneds of the four-ball match, were also presented with handsome prizes. One of the prizes won by Mrs. Meckley was a box of golf balls donated by Bobby Jones, and accompanied by his autograph. The latter will be framed and hung in the clubhouse as a memento of the opening day.

The National Women's Country Club was organized in 1929, and the first step was the purchase of the old Montgomery County Country Club on the Bradley Hills boulevard, about 5 miles from the Chevy Chase Club and 2 miles from the Congressional Country Club. Starting with eleven active members the club has now over 400 names of active members on its list and a total membership of about 700 in all classes. The membership list reads like a series of pages from the Social Register.

Officers of New Club.

The officers of the club, including many of the most prominent women in Washington society, are: Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, president; Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, vice president; Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, vice president; Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, vice president; Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, vice president; Mrs. Virginia White Speel, vice president; Mrs. Effingham L. Townsend, secretary; Miss Florence E. Ward, treasurer; Mrs. James E. Hughes, executive secretary.

The board of governors consists of Lady Lindsay, Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone, Mrs. William E. Borah, Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, Mrs. Guy V. Henry, Mrs. Mark L. Bristol, Mrs. Edith Mae Cummings, Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, Mrs. John Henry Dwight, Mrs. Marshall Field, Mrs. James E. Hughes, Mrs. Charles MacVeagh, Mrs. J. Medill McCormick, Mrs. Frank W. Mondell, Mrs. Eleanor Medill Patterson, Mrs. Virginia White Speel, Mrs. Effingham L. Townsend, Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, Miss Florence E. Ward and Mrs. Henry Price Wright.

Palace A. C. Faces Columbia With Twin Incentive to Win

Aim to Outshine Mercury, Neighborhood Rival, in Capital City League Double-Header Sunday on Seat Pleasant Field.

WHEN Joe Perron's Palace Team steps on the Seat Pleasant Field for its game with the Columbia Athletic Club in the 150-pound division of The Post's Capital City League, Sunday it will have a double incentive for winning. The most important is to obtain revenge for the 3-to-0 defeat inflicted by their opponents last season, a costly one, inasmuch as it knocked the Palace Team out of a tie for the championship. The second is to make a better showing than the Mercury unlimited team, which will play the Dixie Pigs in the nightcap of the double-header listed for the field.

Although the Palace crew is in a lighter class than Mercury, the two are bitter rivals. Out of five games played between the two the unlimited champions have scored the lone victory, that by a margin of one touchdown.

Palace Beaten Once In Four Seasons.

George Shamburg's successful dropkick sent the Palace Team down to its first defeat in four seasons, last year, and although the Southwest aggregation made a game fight and almost succeeded in shoving over the winning touchdown with only a few seconds remaining of the game, it was not enough. Perron still insists he had a better club than the Columbias. He points out that the team's last-minute drive, which was halted on the 3-yard line when Tonker fumbled, is evidence enough that the team had the power behind it to win.

Perron does not, however, attempt to take any of the glory from his opponents. They carried the ball on a sustained drive to the 6-yard line before Palace could muster a defense strong enough to halt them. Shamburg was sent into the fray for the purpose of making the try for a field goal, and he came through. Perron says his boys gained more ground, but tossed away opportunities to score through their fumbling.

The Columbias have not fared so well this season, losing both of the two league games played, while Palace has won its two starts with ease. The Columbians are working under a new coach this year and have several new faces in the line-up, and for that reason they could not be expected to click in machinelike fashion.

The team has shown marked improvement with each game, however, and should be at the top of its stride by Sunday. A victory over Palace will go a long way toward healing the wounds opened by the two defeats on the books, and, according to the Columbians, if any team can stop the former champs, they can.

PING PONG FRANCHISES.

Two franchises are open in the Washington Ping Pong League, which commences its season in the near future. A loop of eight teams is expected. A meeting of the managers will be held in the near future at the Tennis Shop.

Any team interested in entering the league should communicate with William O. Shreve at National 5165. The league rules last year called for five players on a team.

FEDERALS TO PLAY.

The Federal 135-pound football team will go through its paces tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Seventeenth street and Constitution avenue northwest. Sunday the Federals tackle the West Washington Baptist Church Team on Field No. 2 of West Potomac Park at 3 p. m.

TEAM WANTS PLAYERS.

Manager May, of the Northeast Motors Team, which is entered in the 135-pound division of The Post's Capital City League, is seeking new players to bolster the team. Players interested should call Lincoln 3275 before 6 p. m.

85-POUNDERS BOOKING.

The Immaculate Conception 85-pound team is seeking action with strong teams in its class. For games call North 0383.

GONZAGA TO FACE G. U. PREP

St. John's to Meet Washington-Lee High Today.

THE Tech-Central grid game, while it dominates today's scholastic football card, in no way completes it. Gonzaga High's crack squad, whom some local followers of the schoolboys rate as the best outfit in the city, takes on a perennial rival in Georgetown Prep at Gonzaga Field and four other games also are listed.

Besides Gonzaga and Georgetown Prep, St. John's meets Washington-Lee at Ballston, St. Alban's entertains its chief foe of the year in St. Christopher, of Richmond, at St. Alban's; Landon goes over to Severna, Md., to meet Severn, and Alexandria High tackles the National Training School team at Bladensburg.

Gonzaga and St. Alban's have old scores to avenge when they meet their respective foes today. Gonzaga lost a 20-19 decision to Georgetown Prep last year at Garrett Park, a loss which the Purple seems easily able to make up today. The Prepmen have lost their entire 1930 team through graduation, while Gonzaga's sturdy young squad is virtually the same as represented the school last season. Carly Mills, Gonzaga's passer, will be on the side lines with injuries.

The notably improved St. Alban's team takes on a hard-bitten foe in St. Christopher. The Richmond boys have beaten the Saints for the last three years, and the local team has been unable to score a point in their period. Last year it was 18-0.

Little better off than last week, when most of its regulars were on the bench, St. John's will have to produce better football than it has shown to date to beat Washington-Lee. Landon is rated as having almost an even chance with the bigger Severn team. The Alexandria-National Training tussle is the second of its kind this years. The Virginians won 7-6 a month ago.

C. U. BATTLES DUQUESNE TONIGHT

G.U., G.W., Maryland on Foreign Fields Tomorrow.

Hughes himself looks for Gallaudet to better its past performances, but does not look for victory.

Maryland's Old Liners go to Blacksburg tonight, hopeful of chalking up tomorrow their third Southern Conference victory. They have regained the services of Ted Keenan, husky tackle who was injured in the Kentucky game, and, while anticipating determined opposition, expect to offer an attack which V. P. I. can not withstand. A repetition of their second-half parade against V. M. I. last Saturday ought to bring them out on top.

G. U. Aim to Add Victory.

Georgetown's Hilltoppers will be seeking their first victory in four games when they face the Eagles of Boston College, a squad, which like themselves, has been "taking it on the chin," contrary to early-season expectations. The Hilltoppers figure to make a battle of it from whistle to whistle, their impressive stand against the powerful Michigan State outfit last week having encouraged them greatly.

Departing early yesterday afternoon, Georgetown arrived in Boston last night and will hold a practice this afternoon in Fenway Park. Coach Mills will stress fine execution of a forward pass attack with which he hopes his men will gain the decision.

V. P. I. Loses 3 Players In Drill for Maryland

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Oct. 29.—Three Virginia Tech players were injured in practice here today and will not be in uniform for the home-coming battle with Maryland Saturday. They are Bus Hall, reserve half back, and Leon Simmons, big sophomore tackle, who suffered ankle injuries, and George Cubberly, reserve back, who received shoulder injuries.

If the Gobblers can stop Maryland plays Saturday as they did in practice today, Coach Orville Neal will be well pleased. "Toots" Delabarr, battering ram of Poly Tech's 1924 team, posed as Bozey Berger, while the members of the "Wolves" were labelled with names of Maryland stars. Much of the afternoon was spent in defensive work against the pet touchdown makers of Curley Byrd.

The session ended with a snappy rehearsal of plays to be hurled at the Old Liners before the home-coming crowd.

Bill Grinus, veteran tackle, was in uniform, but Garland Hoenstein ran in his position and probably will replace him. Four sophomores, Casey, Groth, Porterfield and Robison, were in the back field.

CARDINALS SEEK FOE.

The Brooklyn Cardinal Soccer Club, of Baltimore, is anxious to arrange games with local soccer teams. Teams entered in the Capital City League are especially challenged. Manager C. A. Hoffman, who is arranging the schedule, may be addressed at 13 Second avenue, Brooklyn Park, Md.

SOCCER TEAM BOOKING.

The Rockville Junior A. A. Soccer Team is seeking a game for Sunday with a strong team in its class. The Boys' Club aggregation is particularly challenged. Teams interested should call Manager H. Deane at Rockville 209.

CENTENNIALS WORK.

The Centennial 115-pound football team will work out tonight at 8 o'clock on the New York Avenue Playground in preparation for the game Saturday with the Linworth eleven. All players are urged to be on hand.

IMMACULATE WINS.

The Immaculate Conception School 85-pound grid team swamped St. Anne's yesterday by a score of 32-0 on the Monument Grounds. The winners tallied in every period. Tierney, Bokowshi, and H. Linton starred in the line for the winners, while Blumery, and Swaggert were the best ball toters.

Lonestar, Indian, Is Signed By Apaches for Hawk Game

Former Haskell Guard Likely to Start in Sunday's Clash.

BUD LONESTAR.

A REAL Indian will see action Sunday when the Mohawks and Apaches clash at Griffith Stadium. Bud Lonestar, who played with the Haskell Institute eleven last year, has been signed by Manager Seymour Hall and has been practicing regularly with the Apaches. It is likely that Lonestar will break into the starting line-up.

The former Haskell player is a guard, standing 5 feet 10 inches and weighing 185 pounds. He distinguished himself in scrimmage and Coach Farrell expects him to add strength to the line. Lonestar is a member of the Chippewa Tribe and was born and raised in the Michigan Lake region.

The rival clubs continued their ardent drills last night, the Apaches working at Griffith Stadium under the lights, while the Mohawks held a secret practice at the Navy Yard.

There is an added incentive to victory for the rivals Sunday in addition to the division of the gate receipts which will go 60 per cent to the winning team and 40 per cent to the losing team. November 22, an open date on the South Atlantic League schedule at Griffith Stadium, will be awarded the winner of Sunday's game.

With the exception of the final selection of three officials, details for the sandlot classic have been completed. Inability to obtain several officials who are working Saturday games in other sections, has forced the rival managers to meet again in an effort to hire the best men available in this section.

HITTING THE HEAD PIN

As long as the duckpin sport exists in Washington, it is our guess that the ladies will furnish the "strange as it may seem" (with apologies to Hix) news for the bowling column. A good example is the case of the Treasury team in the Ladies' Federal League. Last night Mr. Mellon's girls hung up a new high game and high set record for the league at the Arcadia Alleys, but did it so cleverly as to manage to lose two games to Agriculture and their position as leaders. Esther Burton had a game of 130 and set of 341, the latter equaling the season record.

In the other matches rolled Veterans' Bureau assumed the league lead with a clean sweep over Economics; Internal Revenue stopped Labor, 2-1; Mines whitewashed G. P. O.; War did the same to Census; Commerce won all three from Marines, and G. A. O. surprised with a clean sweep over Commerce Juniors.

And while we have the ladies on the pan, the Stotts five, in the Commerce Department Telephone Co. League, rolled three consecutive games of 393 at Columbia, last night, and lost all three to Hilleary. Well, they were at least consistent.

In the Interior Department League match, also rolled at Columbia, Land Office gained first place for the first time since the league was organized seven years ago, by trimming Land Office in all three. That's the thrill that actually came once in a lifetime.

At the same alleys, Columbia dropped a 2-1 verdict to Fountain Hams. High game for the night went to Bradley Mandley with his 135. Santini, a teammate, raced in with the best set, 388. Two games below the century mark cost the Hams the final tilt.

At Arcadia, last night, the Barbettes, in the War Department Men's League, chalked up a new high set mark of 1,597 and game of 578. Honman, of Statistics, had a set of 351 and game of 140 to lead the individual list. Feaster, of Hydrographics, equaled Hohman's set, but not the game.

Rinaldi Tailors, led by Ollie Pacini, copped the odd game from Bill Wood's Lucky Strike team in a National Capital League match rolled on the Lucky Strike alleys last night. Pacini connected for a high game of 147 and set of 385. Weidman, of the Luckies, had a game of 145 and set of 373. The cause of the Fourteenth street aggregation's defeat seems to lie in the fact that Carroll Daly rolled three games over the 100 mark.

Features of the Veteran's Bureau Ladies League at the same alleys were the Buces' set of 1,270 . . . Councils 441 game . . . high game by Riordon, of the Councils, 103 . . . Harger's high set, 282, to aid the Nitwits.

Rumors of some intercity stake matches were heard following George Lang's conference with Bill Wood at Lucky Strike last night. Lang has a number of crack pinspillers under his wing at his Recreation establishment in Baltimore, whom he is anxious to pit against a Washington team.

Another item that would feel absolutely at home in one of Mr. Hix's cartoons is the record compiled by Lorraine Gulli. Contrary to a report published recently, Lorraine has the best attendance record of any bowler in the District of Columbia, and possibly the eastern section of the country. Len Collins confidentially informs us that she rolled seven consecutive years, starting with the 1922-23 season, without missing a game, in the Washington Ladies League. Reduced to actual games Miss Gulli's record amounts to something in the neighborhood of 504 league games, and Len believes it would reach the 600 mark if the records for the previous season were searched. Which gives Lorraine the winner of the a fourth at Laurel today.

DEMPSEY-CARNERA MAY REVIVE GAME

the $100-bill factory. Jack Lawrence, their public relations counsel, becomes the White House spokesman and the New York State prize fight commission supersedes the United States Supreme Court. The whole vision is very beautiful to me.

As to the probable outcome of a prize fight between an old and creaky Dempsey and Primo Carnera, there will be plenty of time and room to indulge in useless speculation before they take the ring in Miami, but I must admit to a morbid fascination in the scenario.

I know now that Primo can't hit and has little beyond a huge left jab which can not seriously embarrass a well-conditioned fighter of 60 pounds less weight. Jack Sharkey, who proved this at Ebbets Field that recent night, also disclosed that Primo can not digest a left hook, either, in his center or on his chin. Mr. Sharkey mastered him, but not with that gorgeous finality Dempsey used to put into his work, and I found myself visualizing this old Dempsey, flat on his feet, shuffling in close enough to plant the most dramatic punch ever seen, first in Primo's middle and then quick up on Primo's chin. Primo crashes down twice, then rolls like a whale on a beach, whooshing and laboring on the floor, and Dempsey shins into his chair in his corner, more knocked out than his victim.

Primo owes it to the American customer to get knocked out conclusively before he is through, and Dempsey, though he were 80 years old, with his left hook would be the one to do it best. That left is an automatous unit of the Dempsey physique, immune to the decline that weakens the old legs and curtails his endurance. Let him get close enough and hit him right, and he would knock out Schmeling today or five years hence.

Can this be ballyhoo? I suppose it is. But I have turned right-minded. With Mr. Schwab and all those big men talking up the turn of conditions and the business revival, who would I be to talk down the big prize fight and truest gauge there is of good times or bad?

BATTLES OUT OF NAVY GAME

West Va. Wesleyan Voluntarily Keeps Star on Bench.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 29.—However strong West Virginia Wesleyan Football Team may be in other respects, at least one worry has been removed from the minds of the Annapolis midshipmen in view of the game to be played here Saturday, for Battles, star half back and recognized as one of the best in the East, will not be in the line-up of the Bobcats.

It is all because of the three-year eligibility rule. It develops that Battles has played three years of varsity football, and it was learned here today that he will watch the game from the bench. Battles' action was voluntary. No question of his status was raised in the Navy camp, in spite of the fact that the Tars have been playing under the three-year rule for the last five years.

With Battles out of it, Beveridge will bear the brunt of the work at full back, with the Backtel brothers as half backs and Hull at quarter, although it is reported here that the latter developed a severe attack of tonsilitis and may not be able to play. The West Virginians are due to reach Annapolis tomorrow in time to have a final workout on Thompson Field.

The Middies were put through their last hard practice this afternoon in preparation for the game, the regular and second-string combinations each having a scrimmage against Squad B and the Plebes, who employed Bobcat plays.

CENTENNIALS DRILL.

The Centennial 150-pound gridders, champion of The Post's Capital City League last season, will drill tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Seventeenth street and Constitution avenue northwest. All players are urged to report promptly.

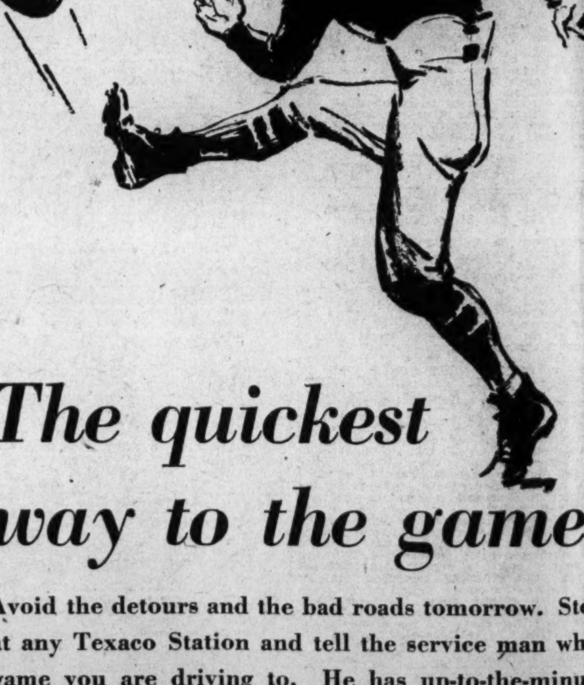

NORTHERN PREPS DRILL.

The Northern Preps will drill tonight at 7:30 o'clock on the field at Georgia avenue and Piney Branch road northwest, in preparation for Sunday's Capital City League game. Manager Ted Otte requests all players to report promptly in full uniform.

PRO GAME DELAYED.

New York, Oct. 29 (A.P.).—The National Professional Football League game scheduled for tonight between Stapleton and Brooklyn was postponed until next Wednesday on account of rain.

Don't miss the kick-off

The quickest way to the game

Avoid the detours and the bad roads tomorrow. Stop at any Texaco Station and tell the service man what game you are driving to. He has up-to-the-minute news on road conditions and will lay out the best route for you on the latest Texaco Road Map.

He will check your tires, water in your radiator, battery, etc. This is just a part of the super service rendered by Texaco Service Stations in Washington.

Motorcar Driver Freed In Death of Pedestrian

Declaring the death of Samuel Wood, 80 years old, of Allentown, Md., to be due to an unavoidable accident, a coroner's jury yesterday freed Russell Padgett, of Camp Springs, said to have been the driver of the automobile which struck the aged man on the Allentown road.

Wood was struck when Padgett was blinded by the lights of another car, the driver told the jury.

LEGAL NOTICES

CHARLES W. PECKHAM, Attorney, Southern Building.

IN THE MUNICIPAL COURT OF THE District of Columbia, T. A. Botts, Plaintiff, vs. David J. Bennett, Defendant. No. 235204. Order of publication. The object of this suit is to recover the sum of one hundred seventy-seven and 17/100 dollars ($177.17) for groceries and provisions sold and delivered by plaintiff to said defendant, and to have judgment of condemnation of certain credits levied on under an attachment issued in this suit to satisfy the plaintiff's claim. It is, therefor this 12th day of October, 1931, ordered that the defendant appear in this court on or before the fortieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, after the day of the first publication of this order to defend this suit and show cause why said condemnation should not be had; otherwise the suit will be proceeded with as in case of default. Provided that a copy of this order be published at least once a week for three successive weeks in The Washington Post and the Washington Law Reporter. (Signed) JAMES A. COBB, Judge. A true copy. Test: (Seal.) BLANCHE NEFF, Clerk, by E. WALDECKER, Assistant Clerk. 16.23.30

25 Years Ago Today

(Copyright, 1931, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

OCTOBER 30, 1906.

Senator Chauncey M. Depew, whose health has been recently impaired, made a public appearance last night at a banquet and is apparently in good condition once again.

Henry S. Breckinridge, of Washington, was elected secretary of the senior class of Princeton University.

A large force of police broke up a meeting of anarchists at the Manhattan Lyceum, 66 East Fourth street, New York City. Emma Goldman was one of the group arrested after a stiff fight.

Senator Dubois, of Idaho, sent a telegram to the President objecting to the fact that it had been reported that Secretary of War Taft was being sent to Idaho to speak in the coming campaign on the subject of "Law and Order." The senator said that "the sole issue in the Idaho campaign is against the domination of the Mormon Church in our politics."

Ute Indians near Sheridan, Wyo., fired on American scouts and a pitched battle is believed inevitable within the next few days. The Utes are objecting to the settlement of the Powder River district by the whites, who have said that unless the troops take action they will organize and exterminate the reds themselves.

GLASSFORD REVEALS AIM IN DEPARTMENT AT GRADUATION FETE

Tells Men He Hopes to Have His Force Regarded as Greatest in Nation.

NEW CHIEF PROMISES COMPLETE COOPERATION

Several Shifts Made Among Members and New Class Is Assigned.

Inherently the Metropolitan Police Department is the equal of any police force in the country, although apparently the public is not aware of that fact, Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, Washington's new chief of police, told 43 "rookie" policemen at a dinner at the Willard Hotel last night in celebration of their graduation from the police school.

Gen. Glassford remarked that he "understands that the police force is not in the best of repute in the city right now," but added that although he has not yet planned any definite policy for conducting his new post, he is definitely committed to "one great ambition to make the Washington police force the greatest in the country in the minds of everyone." He promised his complete cooperation to the members of the department, and pointed out that he expects the same cooperation from them.

Two suggestions were offered to the graduating policemen by Gen. Glassford. He reminded them that although their schooling has given them excellent preparation for their new work, they must not get the impression that they know all there is to be known, but instead must "go right on learning more every day." He told them also that unquestionably they will encounter many disagreeable situations in police work, but counseled them not to let themselves become discouraged or lose interest in their work.

Warns of Eagerness.

Lieut. Joseph C. Morgan, who will assume command as captain of the Thirteenth Precinct on November 1, under orders issued yesterday, urged the new policemen to "temper justice with mercy," and not to be too eager to make arrests for minor violations of the law or of police regulations.

Lieut. Harvey Callahan, chief instructor of the school, urged the men to be worthy of the confidence expressed in them by Gen. Glassford.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Thomas G. Walsh, who instructed the men in legal matters, stressed the difference between the policeman of today and those of not so many years ago, when unschooled men were "given helmets and sticks and told to go out on the streets and be policemen." Several of last night's graduates, he pointed out, hold college degrees.

Policeman John R. Currier, headquarters veteran, was toastmaster.

Thompson Is Transferred.

Lieut. B. W. Thompson, of the Tenth Precinct, under yesterday's orders, was transferred to administrative headquarters as liaison officer. Sergt. W. M. MacDonald was promoted to the grade of sergeant and transferred from the Ninth to the Tenth Precinct, succeeding Lieut. Thompson.

Sergt. M. B. Payne was transferred from the Seventh to the Ninth Precinct, and Private W. F. McDuffie was moved up to the grade of sergeant. He was transferred from the First to the Ninth Precinct.

The following privates were shifted:

E. G. Mower from Thirteenth to Fourteenth.

M. P. Creel from Fourteenth to Thirteenth.

W. F. Graves from Fourth to Tenth.

W. J. King from Ninth to Twelfth.

J. P. Miller from Traffic Bureau to Ninth.

W. V. Chase from Traffic Bureau to Fourteenth.

W. R. Ellery from First to Headquarters.

C. H. Bradley from Seventh to Ninth.

F. L. Rawlinson from motorcycle patrolman, Traffic Bureau, to First for duty in plain clothes, Union Station.

R. M. Finch from foot patrolman to motorcycle patrolman, Traffic Bureau.

The following were transferred from police school to First Precinct:

W. J. Garplor, L. M. Johnson, Irving Lubore, Roger Randall.

To Second Precinct.

Following were transferred from police school to Second Precinct:

Mark Clement, E. H. Herzog, L. I. Mason, W. L. Morris.

Transferred from police school to Third Precinct:

C. W. Carlson, G. V. Carlson, G. V. Holcomb, D. B. Kennedy.

Transferred frmo police school to Fourth Precinct:

A. E. Corley, D. B. Plant, H. F. Smith.

W. J. Bohn was shifted from police school to Seventh Precinct.

Private Mark Heckert was transferred from Police School to Thirteenth Precinct.

The following were transferred from Police School to Fourteenth: C. R. Murphy, H. F. Mulvanity, L. L. Olinger, F. L. Stauffer.

Thomas Coyle was transferred from Police School to duty as special street railway crossing officer, Traffic Bureau, as was C. E. Craven and H. E. Moore.

D. C. Diehl and E. W. Cordon were transferred from Police School to Traffic Bureau.

Pennsylvania Air Lines Cut Passenger Rates

Fare reductions of approximately 20 per cent on the Pennsylvania Air Lines, operating between Washington, Pittsburgh, Akron and Cleveland, were announced yesterday by officials and will go into effect next Sunday.

The new rates will approximate those of the railroads, plus Pullman, between the various terminals and are $16 between Washington and Pittsburgh, $21 between Washington and Akron and $22 between this city and Cleveland. The Pennsylvania Air Line is the oldest established passenger airline operating into Washington and also one of the pioneers of the air mail.

NEW CHIEF ATTENDS POLICE SCHOOL BANQUET

Prominent at the banquet of the fifty-first graduating class of the Police School were, left to right—Lieut. Joseph Morgan, who will be promoted to captain effective November 1; Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, who will become major and superintendent of police, relieving Maj. Henry G. Pratt; John R. Currier, master of ceremonies, and Lieut. H. G. Callahan, instructor of school.

MAN KILLS HIMSELF AFTER BEATING WIFE

Hyattsville Heights Citizen Ends Life After Failing at Reconciliation.

Albert Leo Loveless, 35 years old, of Hyattsville Heights, Md., committed suicide yesterday in an alley on Tenth street northwest, between M and N streets, after dealing a severe beating to his estranged wife, Mrs. Margaret Loveless, 26-year-old Veterans' Administration clerk, living at 1216 Tenth street northwest, when she refused to agree to a reconciliation.

Mrs. Loveless is in Emergency Hospital in an undetermined condition, suffering from a broken jaw, wounds on her head, face, arms, legs and body, which police say were dealt with a blunt instrument wielded by her husband. She was also choked.

Sought Reconciliation.

The affair took place shortly after 3 o'clock when Loveless appeared at his wife's apartment to attempt a reconciliation following their separation on last Wednesday.

Failing to persuade his wife to return with him, he beat her severely and ran from the building with a pistol in his hand, pursued by James Freeman, colored janitor, and Charles D. Scott, occupant of an adjoining apartment. Running into an alley opposite the building, Loveless ducked into an areaway, placed the revolver in his mouth and fired one shot. He was pronounced dead by Dr. Thomas Bradley, of Emergency Hospital. Coroner Joseph D. Rogers ordered the body removed to the Morgue pending an inquest.

Fear Is Intimated.

That Mrs. Loveless feared her husband is intimated by the fact that several days ago she asked the janitor to put strong screening on windows of her apartment.

Members of Loveless' family said last night the tragedy yesterday was the culmination of marital troubles which had lasted almost their entire married life of about ten years.

Loveless is survived by two brothers and three sisters, James C. Loveless, of Berwyn Heights, and William Loveless, of Easton, Md.; Mrs. Lillian Bergling, of Washington; Mrs. Effie Smith, of Hyattsville Heights, and another sister in Michigan. Funeral arrangements will be announced.

Two Men Are Arrested In Alleged Rum Raid

Using a search warrant, members of the First Inspection District special squad yesterday raided the premises at 931 New York avenue northwest, arresting two men and confiscating a half gallon of alleged whisky and 118 bottles of purported beer.

Joseph Lockwood, 32 years old, of 1017 K street northwest, and Henry Blake, 41 years old, 941 K street northwest, were charged with illegal possession and were later released in $500 bond apiece.

Girl's Assailant Sought by Police

Attacker of Secretarial School Student Hurled Knife at Her.

Police last night were still searching for a middle-aged unshaven man who Wednesday night attacked Miss Mildred Jackson, 18, at her home at 3701 Massachusetts avenue northwest. When she opened the door of the apartment the man hurled a butcher knife.

According to the young secretarial school student, this attack was preceded by two threatening notes. It was the third made on the girl by the same man since last spring, she said. The notes, which were of the blood-curdling detective story type, were scribbed on the backs of envelopes and left in a mail box.

Miss Jackson told detectives that the man had accosted her several times on the street in the past. The first attack was made, she said, several months ago, when she was living at 2700 Woodley road. She was undressing for bed at the time, she told police, when the man appeared. He was scared off when she screamed.

Police Raids Rout Tramps From Jungle

There was hunting last night in the jungles of Washington.

Police armed with flashlights played the role of the huntsmen and a motley assortment of hoboes, hailing from Maine to California, the hunted.

Big game bagged by Fourth Precinct police up to an early hour this morning numbered an even dozen walking delegates, and the hunt was still on.

Recipients of a variety of complaints, ranging from charges of petit larceny to incendiarism, police determined to clean up the maze of hobo retreats in the neighborhood of the Eastern Branch and nearby railroad sidings.

In the past week more than ten fire alarms resulted from jungle fires, railroads reported mounting damage to property and residents of the vicinity complained they had been generally annoyed by tramps, many of whom have lived in the "bo-camps" for months.

The twelve taken before midnight were lodged at the Fourth Precinct. They will be arraigned before Judge Mattingly in Police Court this morning.

Led by Lieut. Sydney J. Marks, of the Fourth Precinct, and Lieut. Paul Lancaster, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the raiding party included Policemen D. G. Mathews, G. L. Norris and R. A. Burton.

Conduit Road Body Orders Job Study

Citizens to Seek Work for the Unemployed in That Area.

A survey of unemployment as well as work available for those out of work in the territory embraced by the Conduit Road Citizens Association was ordered by that group last night at its monthly meeting at the Potomac Heights Community Church. A committee was appointed and instructed to bring in a full report at the next meeting.

The taxicab situation with regard to rates and other phases was also ordered studied by the committees on public utilities and law and legislation of the association. These bodies also were instructed to bring in a report at the next meeting.

Provision was made at the meeting for decorating a float to participate in the Halloween celebration tomorrow night. J. B. Gwin, of the American Red Cross, spoke on the impending annual roll call of the relief organization. The meeting was presided over by Lucian Jordan, vice president, in the absence of the president.

Gauge Locations Are Submitted

25 Sites Are Suggested by Company for Approval of Engineers.

Twenty-five proposed locations for the gas pressure gauges demanded by the Public Utilities Commission were submitted yesterday for approval by William M. Russell, chief engineer of the Washington Gas Light Co. Fifteen other locations are to be selected for the downtown area.

The suggested placement points for the distribution regulators are scattered throughout the residential areas. When put in operation, the gauges will stabilize the flow of gas and prevent excessive pressures.

The commission will act on the location of the gauges probably next week. The order for their installation resulted from the pressure hearing held in September.

Filipino Residents Here To Celebrate Flag Day

Filipino residents of the District will gather tonight in the auditorium of the Interior Department Building, Eighteenth and F streets northwest, to celebrate the occasion of the Philippine Flag Day. Camilio Osias, resident commissioner in Congress of the Philippine Islands, will be the principal speaker at the gathering.

The celebration, which will begin at 8 o'clock, is open to all and those interested in Philippine affairs are urged to attend by the sponsors of the affair.

CAMPAIGN OPENED ON WEAPON SALE

National Body Is Formed to Combat Use of Dangerous Arms.

Organization of a Nation-wide association to combat promiscuous use of lethal weapons was made public today when a certificate of registration was filed with the register of deeds by the National Antiweapon Association.

Charter members of the advisory council of the association include Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas; Representative Richard Yates, of Illinois; the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the House of Representatives, Washington; Dr. William C. White, superintendent, United States Hospital for the Insane, Washington; Miss Katherine Sellers, judge, District of Columbia Juvenile Court; Miss M. Pearl McCall, Assistant United States Attorney, Washington, and Sanford Bates, director, United States Bureau of Prisons. E. R. Grant prominent Washington real estate operator, is president; C. deF. Grant is vice president, and A. T. Rogers is secretary.

Weapon Inquiry.

Purposes of the association are stated as "to investigate the regulation of manufacture, sale and use of dangerous weapons; to distribute information thus obtained to the public for educational purposes; and to advocate appropriate legislation with respect to manufacture, sale and use of dangerous weapons."

According to present plans, Mr. Grant explains, the association will seek to secure cooperation of parents and educators.

A realization of the extent to which humanity today is menaced by lawless use of deadly weapons by gangsters, racketeers and other criminals who already have counted thousands of innocent men, women and children among their victims led to organization of the National Antiweapon Association, it is explained.

Association of Citizens.

It is explained that the National Antiweapon Association is a non-profit making association of citizens, open to any resident of the United States at nominal membership dues of $1 per year, which will entitle the member to full participation in all activities of the organization.

Intensive research work is being started to secure all information about the effects of such misuse of weapons, and this information will be made available to Congress.

Car of Nungesser's Kin Struck in Triple Crash

Two men were thrown clear of the automobile in which they were riding and slightly injured in a triple crash on Wisconsin avenue at Leland street northwest last night, which involved a parked car owned by Robert E. Nungesser, of 15 W street northeast, brother of the noted French flier, Charles Nungesser, who disappeared with Andre Coli in an attempt to span the Atlantic.

The injured men are Norman Harris and David Long, both of Bethesda, Md., who were slightly bruised when the machine driven by Long struck another automobile operated by Ray Jarrett, of Bethesda, and then caromed into the Nungesser machine. The cars were only slightly damaged and Jarrett escaped with a cut on his finger.

Death Calls to Little Girl Intent on Playground Prize

Daughter of Policeman Is Found Lifeless Near Doll She Won.

Little Colette "Co Co" Strong wanted to act the part of Mammy Witch at the Garfield Playgrounds yesterday, but death intervened. "Co Co's" death came as she was reaching for the prize of the little mammy witch she had won on Wednesday.

"Co Co" had been ill on Wednesday, but did not tell her mother, Mrs. Alice Strong, of 506½ Second street southeast, or her father, Patrolman B. M. Strong, of the Fourth Precinct. At the witch's pot at the rehearsal for the playground pageant, "Co Co" did not join her playmates.

To "Co Co" was given the consolation prize. That is one of the reasons why "Co Co" is now dead. In the early hours of yesterday morning "Co Co," in spite of her illness, tried to get a last look at her little mammy witch.

Her mother found her at 6:30 yesterday morning lying near a chair which she had dragged to an electric light switch. Above her on a high shelf was the mammy witch she had won. "Co Co" was dead from a heart attack.

"Co Co's" playmates at the playground were told yesterday when they inquired for her that she had gone to heaven. If it is any consolation to "Co Co," she might sleep better if she knew that little Joanne Barrett, her playmate, the daughter of Detective Sergt. Robert J. Barrett, won the first prize at the pageant as a gypsy.

MAYFLOWER HOTEL FORECLOSURE ASKED

Action on $7,500,000 First Trust Is Urged of Court in Bill.

The District Supreme Court was asked yesterday to order a foreclosure on the $7,500,000 first trust of the Mayflower Hotel. The court was asked to appoint the same three men, J. Miller Kenyon, Rush L. Holland and John Lewis Smith, who were named trustees recently under the second trust.

In asking a foreclosure, the Chatham Phenix National Bank, of New York City, corporate trustee of the trust, said that on October 1, 1931, the hotel owed interest of $149,160 on the bonds and $8,949.60 in Federal income taxes.

This default allegedly having existed for more than twenty days, the trustee is empowered by terms of the trust to declare the entire trust due and payable, and to have the court direct a sale of the property.

The same receivers who are now operating the hotel in the interests of the second trust, which is more than $2,500,000, would handle the property for the first trust, thus effecting a union of the trusts.

Douglas, Obear & Douglas filed the bill. Named as defendants were the Mayflower Hotel Co., the Mayflower Hotels Corporation of America, the Mayflower Hotels Management Corporation, the Mayflower, Inc., and the American Bond & Mortgage Co. Charles C. Moore, individual trustee under the first trust, who resigned that position recently, also is named defendant.

Mrs. E. J. Kingman Will Is Filed for Probate

Mrs. Eugenia J. Kingman, who died October 18, left personal property valued at $51,000, the National Savings & Trust Co., Ralph W. Kingman and John J. Kingman, named as executors under her will, said yesterday when they asked the District Supreme Court to admit the document to probate.

Besides her two sons, who are named as executors, Mrs. Kingman is survived by a grandson, Dan C. Kingman 3d, of Philadelphia, and a sister, Gertrude J. Thomas. The grandson is given $1,000 and the sister is to receive all the household effects and jewelry. The sister is also provided with a life annuity of $900. The remaining estate is to be divided between the two sons and Dan C. Kingman 3d, when he is 25 years old.

SANTA CLAUS LANE TO BE 2 MILES LONG

Central Business Men Are to Start Electric Arch at Thomas Circle.

Decision to erect a brilliantly lighted archway just north of Thomas Circle on Fourteenth street as the entrance to Stant Claus lane during the last five weeks of the year embracing the Christmas shopping season was decided upon yesterday by the Central Business Men's Association at the weekly luncheon at the Logan Hotel. Permission to build the archway is to be requested from the District government and this was believed the only obstacle in the way of this finishing touch on the lighted lane which will extend from K street to Newton street, a distance of about two miles.

Retention by the Public Utilities Commission of the present zone system used in taxicab rate charges was urged by Richmond E. Keech, people's counsel, who spoke before the association. Mr. Keech was in favor of a slight increase in the rates, to be prorated between drivers and owners, but strongly opposed any action toward reestablishing the former meter basis for taxi rates.

Enthusiasm was reported by the committee arranging the Santa Claus lane on the part of Fourteenth street business men. Several score have already agreed to join in cooperating with the Columbia Heights Citizens Association in making the annual display a success.

Representatives of a number of other business men's associations of other sections were present at the luncheon, which was largely attended.

Arthur Clarendon Smith, president of the group, and Nelson Anderson, general counsel, were selected to be delegates of the association to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

Three in Truck Hurt In Crash With Trolley

Three persons were injured yesterday when the driver of a truck in which they were riding allegedly disobeyed a traffic signal and crashed head-on into a street car at Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. The driver of the truck, John Hall, 39 years old, colored, of 219 I street southwest, was treated at Emergency Hospital for a scalp wound and then charged with reckless driving.

The other persons hurt were Hall's wife, Lula Hall, 39 years old, and Clarence Brown, colored, of 226 F street southwest, both cut about the face and body. Private H. H. Wilson, of the First Precinct, who arrested Hall, said the man attempted to make a left turn against his signal and crashed into the street car.

POLICE BEGIN PROBE OF 3-STORY PLUNGE BY ELECTRICIAN, 40

Carl Huff, Found Seriously Injured Under Window, May Die of Hurts.

FRIEND BEING DETAINED FOR FURTHER QUESTIONS

Authorities Believe Wrangle at Checkers Game May Have Been Cause.

A tragic game of checkers was being investigated by police last night as Carl Huff, 40 years old, of 148 Eleventh street southeast, clung to a slender thread of life at Casualty Hospital. His broken body was found under suspicious circumstances under a third-floor window of his home.

Roy Winfield Harding, 31 years old, of 3804 Veazy street northwest, a visitor at Huff's residence, is being held at the Fourth Precinct station on an open charge as police investigate the case. Detectives hold a theory that the man was pushed from the third-floor window after a quarrel over a checkers game.

Huff was discovered in the front yard of the residence by his nephew, Douglas Zimmerman, 10 years old. The boy ran to the front window and called his mother, Mrs. Josie Zimmerman, who operates a boarding house at that address.

Checker Board Set Up.

As the Zimmerman lad found the body, a neighbor, Mrs. Julia Hartley, of 146 Eleventh street southeast, approached the yard. She saw the huddled form and fainted.

In the third-floor room, from which Huff is supposed to have fallen, police found a checker board arranged as if two persons had just started a game. Two moves had already been made on the board. There was no sign that a struggle had taken place in the room, however.

Mrs. Zimmerman told police she believed that her brother fell from the window while attempting to decorate the room for Halloween. Huff lives on the second floor, she said, but yesterday he had returned from the country with a quantity of fall leaves and shrubs and said he intended to fix the house up, according to Mrs. Zimmerman.

However, police failed to find any attempts at decorating the room.

Harding was very reticent, police said, when he was taken in custody. He denied being in the third-floor room, but said that he had been invited to play a game of checkers by Huff but had refused. Harding said he was in the kitchen at the time the man is supposed to have fallen from the window.

Invited Boys to Play.

The man told police that after he had refused to play checkers with Huff he heard the injured man call to some boys on the street, asking them to come in and play with him. No one saw or heard the boys come in the house, however.

A few moments afterward Harding said he heard a commotion and Huff's boy was found. Mrs. Ruth Bishop, a neighbor, of 154 Eleventh street southeast, called Casualty Hospital and an ambulance hurried the man away for treatment. At the hospital it was found he had suffered a fractured skull and his neck is believed to be broken. His condition is described as exceedingly grave.

Huff is an electrician and has been traveling with a carnival. He had been living at his sister's home for only three weeks.

"UNDERWORLD JAKE" GETS STRANGE NEWS.

CAPONE gets 'leven years, y' say?
Lissen. Don't be silly * * *
They don't jail fellers like Capone—
Not in the United States.
It just ain't being done—
The racketeers wouldn't stand for it—
It would embarrass the underworld.

* * * *

'Leven years! Don't hand me that!
Ben, the Biscuit Snatcher,
And Pete, the Pickpocket,
Might get 'leven years,
But not Al Capone;
He's too big to go to jail—
He couldn't afford the humiliation!

* * * *

What? You KNOW it's so?
You'd believe anything:
There's no more chance of Capone
Going to jail than you * * *
He's too smart * * *
He's got too much money—
His friends are too powerful!

* * * *

Please don't make me laugh.
They couldn't put Al in "stir"—
He's got brainy lawyers * * *
He knows too much about
Certain big politicians—
You can't jail a million dollars—
Not in this country!

* * * *

Al Capone in the hoosegow!
That hands me a laugh * * *
Capone, king of racketeers,
Public Enemy No. 1—
Behind prison bars
Say, they wouldn't dare
Toss that guy in prison.

* * * *

WHAT'VE you been smokin'
To swallow those fairy tales?
Don't you know who Capone is?
Ain't you never read about
How much money he has?
Don't you know the big fellers
He's got behind him? Huh?

* * * *

Capone sentenced to 'leven years?
Oh yeah? Okay with me, buddy—
Now I'll tell you one * * *
Arnold Rothstein's slayers just Gave themselves up; Elwell
Murder's been solved and Gerald Chapman's still livin'.

* * * *

Huh? You got the paper?
Lemme see it for meself * * *
"CAPONE GETS 11 YEARS" * * *
Gee! Mebbe you're right * * *
Imagine it! Treating a racketeer
No better than a crook!

5 and 10 Ring Substituted For Diamond by Quick Thief

A clever Filipino yesterday worked the old diamond game on a Washington jewelry salesman. As a result Harris & Co., 1101 F street northwest, have a large sized 10-cent store "gem" locked in their vaults and are short a 1-carat diamond, set in a white gold lady's mounting, valued at $175.

The victim of the trick, Harry Sisson, a salesman in the exclusive F street shop, was waiting on a young Filipino, whose taste was only for the very best and most expensive jewels that the store had to offer. A tray of fine diamonds was brought forth for the gentleman's inspection. Sisson turned his back for a moment, to see if there might be anything else in the shop that would attract the prospective "buyer." When he returned it seemed that the man had seen all he wanted and was leaving. The tray was returned to its place when it was noticed that the $175 diamond was gone and in its place in the velvet display tray rested a beautiful jewel of the glass variety. By this time the man was completely out of sight.

Police are on the lookout for the man, who is said to be 5 feet 6 in height, weight 135 pounds, and wearing a gray suit and gray hat. His initials are believed to be A. M. G.

Judge Urges Pair to End Court Fight Over Children

A court fight to determine whether a mother or her husband should have custody of two children was apparently settled yesterday when Chief Justice A. A. Wheat, before whom the parents had appeared, directed them to "sit down quietly and think of their duties toward each other and the children."

There was no question of divorce, the court intimated, the sole difficulty being over the custody of the children, their parents having become estranged. In asking the court to take jurisdiction in the case, the parents requested that the best interests of the children be considered, rather than themselves.

Mrs. Lois B. Dickens, of Moncure, N. C., and her husband, Harvey R. Dickens, 18 Ninth street southeast, are the parents. The opinion of the court says that "they broke up housekeeping last June and have since lived apart, neither accusing the other of anything."

The chief justice said that he would retain jurisdiction of the case until he had been advised that action on his part is either necesary or not necessary.
